STRIKING MINERS DEMAND RELIEF HERE

Spain Goes Republican.
Mr. Curtis in Liberia.
Mr. Tunney in Russia.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SPAIN VOTES republican, with 17 killed in riots. The chauffeur of the Duke of Alba is elected to Parliament. The Duke, a famous grandee of Spain, is out, and so is the King.

One disgraceful incident was the severe beating, in Madrid, of a priest accused of buying votes, to be cast in favor of the monarchy.

Voters in Catalonia, and in the Basque districts, voted on strictly racial and local lines, which shows that the Spanish republic is not to be completely homogeneous.

YESTERDAY POST and Gatty, "round-the-world airmen," hopped the Pacific Ocean to Alaska, 2,100 miles.

They crossed the Bering Sea, coming from Asia, as the first human beings probably came thousands of years before Christopher Columbus pawned the Queen's jewelry—if he did pawn it.

IT IS INSTRUCTIVE to watch Cyrus H. K. Curtis, "with extensive view, survey mankind from China to Peru."

In Washington, Mr. Curtis discovers that, in spite of all denials, President Hoover may decide to recommend legalized light beer, to mend the nation's financial condition, and pacify the thirsty.

Mr. Curtis thinks the warm welcome that greeted President Hoover's "daring suggestion of a debt moratorium" will encourage the President to other daring things, such as light beer.

THE OPINION of others, who, perhaps, know President Hoover better, is that the President will NOT put a spoke in the wheels of politics by taking from the Republican party in 1932 its chief campaign asset.

LEAVING WASHINGTON, and flying, on the wings of a dove, to Liberia, a republic established in Africa by Americans to provide a home of "liberty" for the black race, Mr. Curtis finds a queer liberty.

Men work in virtual slavery, paid 13 cents a day, on which they must support themselves. If one is ill, unable to work, he is thrown out. That is his affair. Another "boy" takes his place.

In other words, Liberia, run by Negroes, for Negroes, has a system of slavery in full swing.

MR. GENE TUNNEY, who has returned to America after a trip to Jerusalem and extensive traveling in Russia, brings interesting observations on the Soviet republics, including this:

"There are in Russia 30,000,000 young people under 27 years of age that know nothing but Communism.

"They have been brought up breathing the atmosphere of Communism as their ideal, their religion. They would die for it, as any Mohammedan would die for his faith. They do not know what you talk about, if you discuss anything opposed to the modern theories of Russia."

THAT IS SOMETHING to be taken into consideration by those that ask themselves "After Bolshevism, what?"

After Bolshevism it will probably be MORE BOLSHEVISM.

Consolidation will make one larger school take the place of many small schools. That is necessary in these days of efficiency, economy, and motor buses for school children. But it is a pity.

There was value in the 161,531 tiny schools scattered over this country, each with its woodbox outside the door, its patient teacher and small group of children.

The bigger boys that sat outside on the fence until the last minute, and swallowed their luncheon whole to have more time for baseball at "recess," often amounted to something later on.

At least they could spell, add, subtract and divide. They lived in the country, saw the sky every day, went barefoot and caught turtles in summer, read Dickens and put firecrackers under milk cans, all useful parts of education.

WE CHANGE little. Scientists digging up old places in Mesopotamia, that "blessed word" that describes the territory between two big rivers, have found well-made dice about 4,000 years old.

The dice are like ours, but the numbers are placed differently. They were used for gambling.

The museum of the University of Pennsylvania, which has the dice, also has a backgammon board more than 4,000 years old, that was used in Ur of the Chaldees. The dice may have been used with backgammon.

THE NAVY'S "five-year plan" has been completed in four years, and $23,000,000 have been saved on it.

Last Thursday, the Navy got its one thousandth plane. The total expense was $62,000,000, for a plan expected to cost $85,000,000.

THE ARMY AIR Corps, at the end of its five-year program, will have 1,800 serviceable planes. That program is not quite completed.

When both plans are doubled, we shall take our proper place among the nations of the world, as regards our air fleet, if our planes are as good as theirs.

The Episcopal Church feels that divorced people may remarry. Some of the more virtuous object, but a majority of the joint commission on divorce will probably grant remarrying.

It makes little real difference, since the divorced can get married in some other church if their own church won't marry them. The good feel that it is an entering wedge of wickedness.

FLIERS HOP ON NEXT TO LAST LAP

International News Service.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, June 30.—Their tired bodies slightly rested and their frayed nerves relieved by four hours' sleep, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, American around-the-world fliers, hopped off today at 3:20 a. m. local time (9:30 a. m. Pittsburgh time), today on a 1,900-mile jaunt to Edmonton, Canada, on what they expected to be the next to the last leg of their record-smashing globe circumnavigation.

Their trim plane Winnie Mae, which carried them safely over the Atlantic and the dangerous Arctic passage from Asia to North America, thoroughly reconditioned by Alaskan Airways mechanics, was in good shape for the final dishes back to Roosevelt Field, New York, where they started their flight a week ago today.

If they succeed in reaching New York tomorrow night they will have flown around the world in nine days. The present record, held by the Graf Zeppelin, is 20 days.

BARELY MAKES TAKE-OFF

The heavily laden plane barely made the take-off safely today. The first attempt was a failure. The plane was taxied back and a fresh start made. The plane lifted just as the end of the field was reached.

Post and Gatty expected to reach Edmonton this evening and take off early tomorrow for New York. They said there was a possibility they would stop to refuel at Cleveland.

The worst portion of the hop today will be 800 miles of bad mountain flying from the international boundary line to Fort Nelson, B. C. This area is practically uninhabited and without communication facilities. No report was obtainable on weather conditions in that section.

GATTY INJURED

Arriving here at 9:27 p. m., local time, last night from Solomon, Alaska, 36 miles from Nome, where they had completed their perilous passage of the Bering Sea in their 2,100-mile flight from Khabarovsk, Siberia, they were whisked from the flying field to a hotel, where food and hot baths awaited them. By 10:40 p. m. they were in bed, leaving a call for 2:30 a. m.

Post and Gatty got their plane up at Solomon only after a hard struggle. Gatty was slightly injured by the propeller in starting the motor and then the ship nosed over, bending the propeller. Post pounded out the blade and the ship rose into the air and sped eastward.

Le Brix, Doret Ready For Flight to Tokio

LE BOURGET, France, June 30.—(AP.)—Joseph Le Brix and Martin Doret, famous French long distance fliers, arrived here today from Tours in their airplane Hyphen preparatory to an attempt to make a non-stop flight to Tokio. They said they would start a projected flight around the world as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

Flier Post's Wife Arrives in New York

Doctor's Car Loaded With Germs Stolen

EVANSTON, Ill., June 30.—(AP.)—Dr. T. P. Churchill, pathologist instructor at Northwestern University, doesn't care what the thieves, who stole his automobile, do with the car if they will destroy what was in it. He said the machine contained enough typhoid germs to start a city-wide epidemic.

Flier Killed In Crash Laid To Dog

GLEN ARBOR, Mich., June 30.—(AP.)—Logan Degen, described by friends here as a Pittsburgh sportsman, was killed today when his seaplane nose-dived from a low altitude as he was flying over the Lake Michigan beach and crashed. A large police dog in the plane with him also was killed.

Degen had a summer home on North Manitou Island in Lake Michigan.

An examination of the wreckage did not reveal what caused the plane to go out of control, but the possibility was advanced that the dog, in the plane beside the pilot, may have interfered with his manipulation of the craft.

Whitehead's Body Reaches England

PLYMOUTH, England, June 30.—(AP.)—The body of Wilbur C. Whitehead, whist and bridge expert, who died Saturday at sea, arrived today aboard the Ile de France and will be sent back to America for burial. Death was due to heart disease and diabetes.

Park Sees Quiz End This Week; Schooley And Lang to Appear

Few Witnesses Left To Be Heard, No More to Be Called

With City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley and Public Works Director Edward G. Lang awaiting call to appear, the grand jury investigating city purchases adjourned at noon today until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Schooley and Lang will go before the jury when it reconvenes, it was reported as members left for the William Penn Hotel, where they attended a Gridiron luncheon being tendered to retiring Judge George V. Moore, by court attaches.

SESSIONS NEAR END

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today, in denying reports that political influence was being used on him to soft-pedal the inquiry, revealed that the grand jury sessions were nearly ended. He said:

"No one has approached me with a request to block the investigation, presumably because it is recognized that such a request would be foolish.

"Inasmuch as the end of the grand jury sessions is near, with only a few witnesses to be heard and no new ones to be called, it should be plain that I

5 Hurt, 5 Rescued In Scranton Blaze

SCRANTON, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Five firemen were slightly hurt and five persons rescued during a fire last night in Throop Borough, which leveled a three-story apartment and badly damaged two other structures. Ten fire companies from neighboring boroughs were called to help Throop firemen.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Falzone, 81, were trapped on the third floor of the building in which the blaze originated, but were carried down ladders by firemen.

Heat Nears Record, Man Overcome

One heat prostration occurred in the city today as the thermometer soared to 92 degrees at 3 o'clock, or within one degree of the record reached on June 20.

The victim gave his name to police as James Welsh, 40, of 3306 Ward street. He was walking in West North avenue when he collapsed. He was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital. Following treatment, he was sent home.

French Court Martial For 'Show-Off' Flier

CHATEAURQUX, France, June 30.—(AP.)—The daredevil military aviator, Sergt. Herve Martin, will be court martialed for the accidental killing of two persons and injuries to two others yesterday.

He was flying low above an automobile when the undercarriage of the plane struck the occupants. He was said to have admitted afterwards that he was "showing off."

Bogus Baron Gets 2 Years in Prison

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—George Robert Gabor, an immigrant, who at various times traded his real name for "Baron von Krupp" and "Taft Thew, Jr.," and imposed on two ambassadors and half a dozen governors, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment by Federal Judge John C. Knox today.

Fall Down Cliff Breaks Boy's Arm

Edward Lau, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lau, 633 Dunmore street, East End, suffered a broken arm today when he fell from a 30-foot cliff into an abandoned stone quarry near his home. He was playing when he lost his balance. His condition was given as not serious at Children's Hospital.

CARNEGIE TECH BRIDE MISSING

Ralph Floyd asked the Missing Persons Bureau today to institute a search for his young bride, Mary Irene Floyd, who has been missing from their home at 724 North Negley avenue, since June 8.

They were married April 23, following an elopement to Weirton, W. Va. Mrs. Floyd, 20, is a junior at the Margaret Morrison School, Carnegie Tech, and a member of the Margaret Morrison Glee Club. She was majoring in a secretarial course.

Mrs. Floyd was described as weighing 140 pounds, 5 feet 6 inches tall and a brunette.

Crowds Arm for War On Roaming Gorilla

NEW YORK, June 30.—(INS.)—Squads of police and scores of citizens were preparing to use guns, traps and gas bombs in an effort to capture a roaming gorilla at Mineola, Long Island.

A boy's vivid description of the beast convinced authorities the animal actually was at large. Footprints of the gorilla were found, police said.

U. S. Bank Building Given City Permit

Permission was granted today by City Council to the government for the construction of a seven-story marble and granite building here to house the local branch of the Federal Reserve Bank. It is being erected on Grant street, extending through to Penn way.

A permit soon will be issued free of charge by the Bureau of Building Inspection.

Fire Destroys Barn At Salineville, O.

SALINEVILLE, O., June 30.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a two-story barn, in which was stored a reaper, mowing machine and other equipment, on the farm of Charles Lewis, near here, last night, causing $5,000 loss. The structure was erected three years ago, replacing a barn wrecked by a tornado.

Detroit 10-Cent Bus Line Pays Dividend

DETROIT, June 30.—The Detroit Motorbus Company has declared a dividend of 15 cents, payable July 16 to stock of record July 6.

Chamberlin Plane Brings Ruth Home

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 30.—(INS.)—With Ruth Nichols, whose ambition to fly across the Atlantic was thwarted when her plane crashed here, resting on a cot in the plane, Clarence Chamberlin took off today for New ork.

HOOVER ORDERS COAL AID STUDY

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(INS.)—President Hoover today advised John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that he had directed Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Secretary of Labor Doak to ascertain how the government best "might contribute helpfully in any movement designed to advance the well-being of operators and mine workers" in the bituminous coal industry.

This was in response to the request made earlier in the month by Lewis that Mr. Hoover call a conference of bituminous operators and miners as a means of strengthening the coal industry.

The President avoided committing himself on the request, but said:

Walsh Lifts Ban, Gives Police Escort to Groups; Women, Children in Line

A crowd estimated by police as 7,500 striking miners, women and children staged a mass demonstration and parade here today, to demand from the County Commissioners cash relief for the unemployed, food for children and abolishment of injunctions and evictions.

The assembly in West Park, sectional parades into the city from practically all parts of the county, and the main procession from the North Side across Manchester Bridge to Duquesne way and back to the North Side across the Sixth Street Bridge, all took place under police escort. Supt. Peter P. Walsh had issued orders against the molestation of the marchers anywhere in the city.

His consideration for women and children, Supt. Walsh declared, prompted his action today in countermanding orders against sectional parades to the assembly point. Walsh said:

"Out of consideration for the women and children, whom I have just learned are taking part in this demonstration, I have decided to permit the marchers to come into the city in parade formation.

"I have detailed police escorts to bring them to West Park and to see that no trouble might occur."

Strikers and their sympathizers began to gather in West Park long before noon, coming into the city in long lines of marchers bearing banners, loaded into trucks and pleasure cars of all sorts. By 2 o'clock, the crowd had gathered in a large circle, the children in the center singing strike songs to an improvised accompaniment of mouth organs, accordions and an assortment of battered noise-making instruments.

FOSTER SPEAKS

Speakers rose out of the throng to address the gathering, chief among them being William Z. Foster, prominent figure in the 1919 steel strike.

Others who addressed the crowd included Frank Borich, national secretary of the National iMners' Union; Carl Price, chairman of the unemployment committee, N. M. U. and an organizer for the Community party; Vincent Kemenovich, strike committee secretary of the N. M. U.; Joseph Dallet, district organizer for the Metal Workers Industrial League, and George Powers, national secretary of the metal workers.

Dallet read a copy of the resolutions drawn for presentation to the County Commissioners. He estimated the crowd at 15,000, but police discounted this estimate by half.

Dallet, in reading the resolution, said:

DEMANDS ON COUNTY

He also outlined the demands to be made on the County Commissioners by a committee of 25 striking miners headed by Borich, Powers and himself. The demands are:

Cash relief for the unemployed, consisting of $10 a week for every worker and $5 a week for each dependent.

Immediate release of all strikers under arrest.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(INS.)—President Hoover's commission on law observance and enforcement goes out of existence tonight and one of its members—Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law School, left Washington as a bridegroom this morning.

Before noon today the dean and Mrs. Lucy Berry Miller, 49, widow of Col. James E. Miller, a surgeon, appeared at St. John's Episcopal Church, and were married by Canon E. S. Dunlap. They left the city immediately and their friends intimated they might sail for Europe on a honeymoon journey.

Mrs. Pound has lived at the Hotel Lafayette here for several years. Her sister, Prof. Lillian Gay Berry, is an educator, and her brother, Judge Burton Berry, lives in Indiana.

Pound gave his age as 60 and his address as Watertown, Mass. His first wife, Mrs. Grace Gerrard Pound, died in 1928.

Shaw to Visit Russia, Crazy Idea, He Says

LONDON, June 30.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw announced today that he would visit Russia shortly, although he doesn't know just why, He said:

"There are no special reasons for my visit. In fact, there is every reason for not going at this time of the year. It is about the worst time to choose.

"It is an insane thing to do, but I am going."

Mr. Shaw added that he wished to visit a non-capitalist country, and if he did not go now he probably should not go at all, adding:

"I have one or two things to do when I get there, but I shall say nothing about them until I get back."

He refused to divulge the date of his departure but it was understood to be within a few days.

MELLON, FRENCH PREMIER FAIL TO END DEBT DEADLOCK

PARIS REFUSES TO ABANDON DEMANDS

France Has Gone as Far as She Will Go to Reach Compromise, Laval Says

International News Service.

PARIS, June 30.—Another two-hour conference today between Premier Pierre Laval and United States Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon failed to make a dent in the deadlock between France and the United States concerning President Hoover's proposal for a war debt moratorium.

In a tersely worded communique issued at the close of the conference, Premier Laval declared that France had gone as far as she would go toward seeking a compromise, but said another meeting with the American secretary would take place on Wednesday.

OUTLOOK GLOOMY

Whatever the outcome of tomorrow's conference, and not too much is expected from it in local circles, it is now definitely certain that the moratorium suggested by President Hoover can not go into effect on July 1, the date suggested in the President's original proposal.

The French position, it is understood, is that immediately following the close of the "financial breathing spell," Germany shall make up the reparations payments on which suspension shall have been granted during the period of the moratorium.

The American government is understood to be insisting that Germany be granted a long period of years in which to make up these back payments, holding that any attempt to compel Germany to "double up" on payments at the end of the "breathing space" would nullify any benefits which might be obtained from the moratorium.

FRANCE FIRM

Notwithstanding the growing indication from every side that France is courting danger of complete isolation with regard to the Hoover proposal, Premier Laval appeared determined that the French government must stand on its present position. Reports from Washington that practically all other countries concerned had accepted the original Hoover proposal made no impression here.

Premier Laval's government anticipates rigorous interpellations from the French Senate when that body meets tomorrow, regarding the progress of the negotiations, and M. Laval is known to believe that any further concessions to the American point of view would be likely to result in the overthrow of the present ministry.

France Must Guard Funds, Senator Says

PARIS, June 30.—(AP.)—Andre Porteu de Morandiere, senator from Ille et Vilaine, today told the Senate that French capital must be protected against foreign aggression, particularly American aggression.

He said that in 1910 France possessed 18.33 per cent of the world's capital. In 1927, he continued, the nation's fortune was about $10,600,000,000, against $12,000,000,000 17 years earlier. During the same period, he declared, the fortune of the United States rose to $36,000,000,000.

Weather Conditions.

There was little change in the pressure distribution since yesterday. The eastern high diminished somewhat in pressure and in area, and the disturbance that was centered over the Dakotas increased slightly in intensity and remained nearly stationary. The fair conditions continue over the eastern half of the country. Showers occurred in Ohio and Indiana and southward over a narrow belt to the Gulf. There were also scattered showers over the northwestern states.

Temperature continues high. One hundred degrees or higher occurred yesterday over a wide belt from North Dakota southeastward over Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas and the Northern Gulf states. The indications are for continued warm weather.

intend to go through with the investigation. Probably we'll wind it up this week. At any rate, nothing can stop me."

The appearance of Director Lang in the grand jury ante-room gave strength to reports that the jury was to appear before Judge Moore and ask authority to extend the probe into the Public Works Department. This could not be confirmed, however, and so far no official summons has been served on Director Lang.

SHORT SESSION

A number of witnesses were heard by the grand jury during its short session today. Attention was reported divided between bridge rail contracts and the private financial affairs of Mayor Kline and members of his official family.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, recalled before the grand jury today, spent 25 minutes in the room. He was the first of Kline's official family to be summoned since the indictment of the Mayor and Bertram L. Succop, former head of the Department of Supplies.

Waldschmidt is one of those whose private affairs are being scanned. Others are: Schooley, Succop, Mrs. Kline and Frank Swaney, secretary to the Mayor.

Although reports that the jurors planned to extend the probe could not be confirmed the summoning of C. M. Vetter of the County Road Department; Stanley L. Roush, County Architect, and a number of bridge rail contractors, seemed to bear out reports that the grand jury was interested.

CONTRACTORS TESTIFY

Contractors who testified were: H. R. Hortenstine, of the Independent Bridge Company; Leo J. Kelly, of the Fort Pitt Malleable Iron Company; F. B. McEwen, of the Sommerville Company, and W. J. McGivern, of the Safety Guard Manufacturing Company.

The Independent Bridge Company and the Fort Pitt Company received a number of contracts for bridge railings, although they were not often the low bidder.

Director Lang, in denying that he had been subpenaed, added that he had presented himself for call because he had heard he was to be summoned.

The subject of bridge railings was a feature of the recent public works investigation brought about by Henry Oliver Evans. At that time Lang explained that the city had spared no expense in the effort to protect the public with the best bridge railing on the market. The explanation was accepted by Evans.

Other witnesses before the grand jury today included G. H. Kingsley, of Hornblower & Weeks, brokers; C. F. Greer, of Hemphill & Noyes, brokers; J. A. Taylor, of the Pennsylvania Trust Company; H. H. Latshaw, of the Dollar Savings Bank, and F. W. Morgan, of the Wilmerding National Bank.

These brokers and bankers were in the list of 100 witnesses subpenaed over the week-end. Not all of them will appear, however, some having submitted proof that none of those involved in this phase of the probe had accounts with their institutions.

NEGRO AID BODY GETS HOOVER MESSAGE

President Sends Greetings And Deplores Outlawry Victimizing the Race

Lawlessness in which Negroes are the victims is attacked by President Hoover in his message of greeting to the twenty-second annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People which opens tonight in the Ebenezer Baptist Church, Wylie avenue and Devilliers street.

The message, which was made public today by Col. J. E. Spingarn, president of the association, reads in part:

SENDS GREETINGS

"I should like to extend my greetings to the members of the organization. Lawlessness of the gross type, of which members of the colored race often are victims, is a feature of our national life which deserves condemnation and suppression.

"Every citizen is entitled to the full protection of the law and to absolute justice. To make that ideal an actuality is one of my strongest aspirations, as it is of the nation, and to its accomplishment the government and all good citizens will pledge their devoted efforts."

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, a member of the association's board of directors, also telegraphed his regrets at not being present at the conference.

Senator Capper said:

PROGRESS LAUDED

"The truly remarkable progress of the Negro during the little more than half century of his freedom, his constantly enlarging contributions toward the betterment of his own race and his useful participation in the affairs of the nation generally attest in a noteworthy way his intelligence and adaptability."

Norman Thomas, head of the Socialist party in the United States, will be the principal speaker at tonight's meeting. Mayor Charles H. Kline will welcome the delegates.

Beer Displaces Sake As Japanese Drink

500 DIE AS U. S. BROILS UNDER 8-DAY HEAT

Central States Suffer Most; St. Louis Temperature 102 After 11 Days in 90's

Associated Press.

While the central states were most affected, some sections of the East, South and West also suffered beneath searing temperatures. Most of the Pacific and Atlantic coast areas enjoyed moderate weather.

Despite local showers and cooling breezes in many localities, the toll of deaths exceeded 500, with more than 230 dying within the last 24 hours.

The heat likewise was taking its toll of animals. Throughout Illinois, Iowa and Indiana farm beasts were reported dropping dead in the fields.

CORN MAY BENEFIT

Iowa farmers were watching with heavy hearts as their grain crops turned brown and the corn leaves shrieveled. Other middlewest farmers were outwitting the sun by working in their fields at night.

There was some optimism among grain growers who claim the unusually hot weather is beneficial to the corn crop.

102 AT ST. LOUIS

Other parts of the Middlewest were less fortunate. St. Louis had its twelfth day yesterday with temperatures above 90 degrees. Its 102 degrees at 2 p. m., equalled the high record for June, established in 1901. Mercury, stuck to a hundred degrees or more in Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Western Kentucky, Missouri, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

While the Pacific coast temperatures were generally moderate, two died of the heat at Blythe, Cal., where the mercury went to 110. To balance this, snow fell for an hour and a half in portions of the Wenatchee mountains, near Wenatchee, Wash.

It was generally cooler in the Rocky Mountain area, with rain at Denver and hail and rain at Helena, Mont. Over Idaho and Utah it was merely warm.

The southwestern states were hot.

Louisville Repairs Windstorm Damage

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 30.—Awning repairmen, plate glass dealers and tree trimmers were doing a land office business here today after the business section and much of the residential section were slashed yesterday by the most violent windstorm recorded in the history of the Louisville Weather Bureau.

Driving in across the Ohio River yesterday, the storm hammered in store windows, uprooted trees, tangled communication and power liens and unroofed houses for an hour.

'Missing' Man Found Reading in Bathtub

EVANSTON, Ill., June 30.—(AP.)—Miss Johanna Donnelly was alarmed about Willard Robinson.

She had an engagement with him last Thursday, which he failed to keep. Police found him sitting in a bathtub where he said he had been reading magazines ever since the current heat wave began.

RAIL MERGER CHIEFS MEET

The executives of the lines gathered to hear the report of George T. Slade, arbitrator of the Pennsylvania Railroad's demand for trackage rights on the Nickel Plate. They met in the offices of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania.

It was believed Mr. Slade's report called for the allocation of certain Nickel Plate trackage along Lake Erie to the Pennsylvania, although the terms of the allocation were not known.

Two Planning Flight To Beat Post, Gatty

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon announced today that if weather was favorable they would take off at dawn tomorrow on a world flight on which they hope to cut two days from the time of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

The Pangborn-Herndon plane is about 25 miles an hour slower than the Post-Gatty machine, but it has dual controls and the plan is to fly it almost continuously, one man sleeping while the other pilots.

Pacific Fliers Hop For Seattle Field

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 30.—(AP.)—Reg L. Robbins and his navigator, H. S. Jones, took off from the municipal airport here at 4:50 a. m. today in the Lockheed Vega monoplane Fort Worth for Seattle, Wash., whence they will attempt a non-stop flight to Tokio.

The fliers hope to win a $25,000 prize offered by the Japanese newspaper Asahi for the flight.

Hillig and Hoiriis Hop Off for Gera

BERLIN, June 30.—(AP.)—Otto Hillig and Holger Hoiriis, trans-Atlantic fliers, hopped off at 12:25 p. m. (6:25 a. m. eastern standard time) today for Gera.

DINERS HELD UP IN N. Y. HOTEL

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Two men accused of holding up 60 patrons of the basement restaurant of the Hotel Alanac on Broadway early today were captured after a gun fight with police.

Taken to headquarters they were said to have confessed. A third man, arrested during the excitement, denied any part in the robbery. The two men gave their names as John Martin and John Prodenzans.

Police said one of the victims of the holdup was an agent of the Department of Justice. His revolver was taken from him by the robbers and returned by the police after the capture.

French Aviatrix Claims New Mark

PARIS, June 30.—(AP.)—The French Aero Club today received a telegram from Mme. Maryse Bastie, French aviatrix, which was sent from Urino, a small town near Nijni Novogorod, Russia, and which said she had completed a straight flight, from Le Bourget Flying Field. She left Le Bourget, near Paris, Sunday morning. The distance is calculated to be about 1,810 miles. If confirmed this would give her the world record for light airplanes. Her monoplane weighs about 600 pounds.

Coolidge Lauds People's Calmness in Depression

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 30.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

At times we can be thankful for what is behind us. For nearly two years the world has been going through a readjustment period. There has been a world-wide economic depression which no business skill has been able to prevent, followed by political revolutions in many countries which no statesmanship found it possible to restrain. Both finance and politics have been seeking a more stable equilibrium.

Mr. Coolidge

In spite of heavy losses and a good deal of concealed suffering, public and private charity have not failed to provide ample relief for our people. We have been free from public disorder. No one doubts the stability of our government. However severe the pressure, however great the danger, the patience and the courage of the nation have been greater. They have demonstrated the financial resources and the strength and character of our people. Whatever excesses they tolerated in the time of prosperity, in the time of adversity they stood firm. They have shown a reserve power sufficient to master their difficulties. Nothing has been able to shake their faith in their political and social institutions. A country which has met this test in this way is worthy of confidence.

Between 400 and 500 men, women and children, carrying banners and tooting their way into town with battered brass horns, accordions, mouth organs and other noise makers, were in the march from mines back of the South Hills section, closely followed by another group of about 300 from McKeesport, Homestead and Duquesne.

ORDERLY MARCH

The march was conducted in an orderly manner and was guarded by 15 police officers. Spectators lined the streets and many curious joined the parade, swelling the crowd to approximately 3,500 by the time West Park was reached.

Once in the park, the miners and their wives and children, formed into a huge circle so that they were banded together inside a ring of spectators. All of the marchers seemed to weather their long walk, and were impatient for the demonstration to begin. The children were gathered together to sing strike songs in the park while their elders spread their lunches in picnic fashion before the start of the parade at 2 o'clock.

Both processions came along the Monongahela River to Carson street, where they were met at the city line by Police Lieut. John Vandell, who transmitted the latest orders of Supt. Walsh. These orders were:

"Keep to the sidewalk and avoid traffic tieups. Keep moving!"

The South Hills group came through Carrick, turning down Beck's Run road, a few blocks from the Carrick Police Station. They marched through Brentwood and Carrick, singing and waving banners.

From McKeesport came the second group through Duquesne and Homestead to Hays. They turned in along the river to Carson street, and were met at the Beck's Run road by Lieut. Vandell about half an hour after the first contingent had passed by.

COME BY TRUCKS

Still another group afoot, numbering about 300 from the Allegheny River towns, were marching through Aspinwall and Sharpsburg. Five truckloads had left New Kensington about two hours before.

Four truckloads of men and women left New Kensington about 7 o'clock, heading towards Pittsburgh. They were permitted to assemble without molestation, police reported.

Coal Police System Ends; Deputy Sheriffs May Replace Guards Here

Deputy sheriffs and special police sworn in by borough authorities likely will supplant the industrial police, formerly known as the "coal and iron" police, whose commissions end today by order of Gov. Pinchot.

Anticipating requests by steel and coal companies in Allegheny County for deputizing the men obliged to surrender their state commissions, Sheriff Robert S. Cain and his solicitor, Robert B. Averbach, were in conference today regarding what powers were to be conferred upon such deputies.

OFFICIALS CONFER

Officials of the Carnegie Steel company which has about 300 industrial police at its plants in the county, were holding a conference as to the means to be adopted to guard their property.

Sheriff Cain said:

"I have received no requests as yet to deputize officers who guard property of coal and steel properties but I am expecting them and have had blanks prepared.

"It would be possible for us to confer on the former industrial police even broader powers than they had under the old system. Just what authority we should place in their hands is a matter that Mr. Averbach and I are considering."

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation already had deputized its four industrial police on duty at the mines of the Vesta Coal Company, according to representatives of the corporation. Twenty industrial police at the Aliquippa plant merely will drop their state title and continue as special police sworn in by the borough of Aliquippa, it was said.

COAL COMPANY SILENT

C. E. Lesher, executive vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, asked what means his company would use to protect its property in lieu of the industrial police, replied:

"You will have to ask Gov. Pinchot that. We will call on him for state police whenever we need help, just as we are doing now."

The killing of John Borkoski, Tyre, farmer-miner, by police in the employ of the company, started a fight for abolition of the coal and iron police.

A. J. Appel, vice president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, said his company had not employed industrial police for two years, using deputy sheriffs instead.

From Fayette County came word that the H. C. Frick Coke Company and the W. J. Rainey Company, Inc., had anticipated the Governor's action and had had their industrial police sworn in as deputy sheriffs to guard their properties, many of them idle.

'Good Riddance,' Pinchot Says of Coal Police

HARRISBURG, June 30.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today issued this statement on the termination of the coal and iron police system:

"The coal and iron police, while it has had many good men on its roll, has also had many unmitigated scoundrels.

"The system is wrong. I shall try to have it abolished by law at the next regular session of the Legislature.

"But whether or not the law does away with it, there will be no more coal and iron police during my term of office.

"So far as I am concerned, that is good riddance of bad rubbish."

Diver Strikes Rock, Is Saved by Youths

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Three youths rescued William Welsh, 17, from the Susquehanna River here after his legs and an arm were paralyzed when his head struck a rock during a dive. Welsh was taken to a Harrisburg hospital where his condition was reported fair.

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 30.—Mr. and Mrs. John Bartezel and their six children were arrested at Dillonvale this morning for shouting at miners en route to work.

KITCHEN BLAST HURTS MAN

Blown from the kitchen of his home when leaking gas from a rubber hose exploded early today, James Keenan, 36, of 71 Locust street, Etna, is in a serious condition in St. Francis Hospital.

While his wife and four children were asleep in upstairs rooms, Keenan started to prepare his own breakfast before going to work this morning. He failed to detect the escaping gas.

When he struck a match, the explosion blew the kitchen into splinters and hurled Keenan into the back yard.

Keenan was unconscious when his wife reached him. Police took him to the hospital, and members of the Etna fire department put out the fire which followed the explosion.

Mrs. Keenan and the four children were thrown from their beds by the blast, police said.

STIMSON, DUCE TO TALK ARMS

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, June 30.—Disarmament will be the principal topic of discussion between Premier Mussolini and Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, when he arrives in Rome within the next few days, the Italian Foreign Office admitted to International News Service today.

The Foreign Office also said that Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, during his forthcoming visit, would be requested to state the German position on that question. The diplomatic spokesman, however, denied that the Italian government was attempting to link up the question of disarmament with that of inter-governmental debts.

Mussolini, it was understood, will urge the German chancellor to abandon the proposed "anschluss," or Austro-German customs union.

Woman Dies, Burned By Lamp Explosion

Burns suffered when an oil lamp she was lighting exploded last night caused the death this morning in the Presbyterian Hospital of Mrs. Sarah Speer, 62, of 1309 Sheffield street, North Side.

The explosion, followed by fire, was heard throughout the neighborhood. Neighbors rushed in, carried Mrs. Speer to the street and beat out the flames. Firemen extinguished the blaze in the house.

Taxicab Drivers to Vote On Continuing Strike

Striking taxicab drivers will meet tomorrow night in Moose Temple to vote on continuing their walkout or returning to work, John Ely, spokesman for the union, said today.

The strike started June 13.

H. J. Tyler, a taxicab driver who claims he started a movement to get the drivers back on their jobs because many married men are in sorry plight as a result of the strike said:

"If it were not for outside interference and intimidation on the part of labor 'skates' the strike would be over and probably would never have been called.

"If the men could get a chance to vote without the fear of getting slugged every one of them would go back to work."

Additional cabs will be put in operation Thursday, it was announced today. They will be operated from the Green Cab garage in Melwood street, which has been closed since the strike began.

It also was announced that calls for service from any section of the city are now being answered.

Birth Control Approved By Methodist Leaders

DELAWARE, O., June 30.—(INS.)—Distribution of birth control information by the church, even in the face of severe criticism, today carried the approval of ministers and lay leaders of the Methodist Episcopal Church gathered here from all over the country for a study conference.

A report adopted at the meeting declares:

"It is time that some pioneering religious body take the leadership in a humane and righteous campaign for the education of the people in the ethics of birth control.

"It is becoming increasingly clear to many leaders of Christian thought that the proper guidance and most reliable information in this vital subject should come either from the church or with the sanction of the church.

"The church must not be diverted from the task of getting the most helpful information about marriage to her youth, even though she may be criticized in the process."

The information would be distributed to "duly married couples" by physicians and trained social workers.

COACH MODEL ZERO HOUR NEARS

Competitors Must Submit Exhibits by Wednesday Midnight; Judges Ready

Zero hour is approaching. By 12 o'clock midnight tomorrow (Wednesday) every boy in the state of Pennsylvania who has entered the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild Miniature coach building competition should have his completed coach in the hands of the Shanahan Transfer and Storage Company, 7535 Penn avenue. Dozens of coaches have already been received and as the closing hour draws nearer, the number is increasing rapidly.

As soon as the competition is officially closed, the names of the boys who have built the coaches will be taken from them and numbers substituted. The names with numbers corresponding to those on the coaches will be placed in a sealed envelope and they will be turned over to Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, who will hold them until the final day of the judging.

AWARDING OF PRIZES

When all the coaches have been judged, the winners will be determined by comparing the numbers on the winning coaches with the numbers and names held by Dr. Baker.

The judging will be held at the Carnegie Museum, 4400 Forbes ave., where the coaches will be on display from Thursday morning, July 2, until the evening of July 16 when the winners will be announced. The public is invited to inspect the display at any time between the hours of 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. except July 4 when the exhibit will be closed and Sunday, July 5, when it will be open only from 1 p. m. until 6 p. m.

Local judges who will co-operate with William L. Brown, the Guild judge from Detroit, are Arthur Paulsen, deputy Scout commissioner of Allegheny County and Edgar L. Phillips, instructor of industrial arts at Schenley High School.

CARE IN AWARDS

So careful will the judges be in picking the winners that 15 days will be required to complete the judging.

Similar judgings are being carried out at this time in every state in the Union and two winners in each state will be given in addition to $50 in gold, a trip to Detroit, where the national judging will take place in August. Second place awards will be $50 in gold and many other small monetary awards will eb given in each state for the boys' workmanship in woodcraft, metalcraft, trimcraft, and paintcraft. In all there will be 22 awards given to the boys of Pennsylvania.

In addition to the several hundred dollars in cash awards that will be distributed to the boys of the state by the Guild, the Sun-Telegraph is awarding to the boys who build the best coaches in this zone three silver cups. Inasmuch as the Pittsburgh zone includes part of Ohio as well as part of Pennsylvania, the winner of this award will not be announced until after the Ohio judging has been completed.

$3,500 Burned, No Way of Restitution

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—The United States government, which collects and spends billions of dollars every year is richer by $3,500 because the wife of a Granity City (Ill.) railroad employe forgetfully tossed 35 gold notes for $100 each into the furnace with some old paper and furned them.

W. O. Woods, treasurer of the United States, has just written a letter to Mrs. Golda M. Thornburg, telling her that in the ashes of the burned currency she submitted experts could find no trace of the gold notes she burned and there was no possibility of the government replacing the money.

New Jersey Ratifies Pa. Bridge Compact

TRENTON, N. J., June 30.—(INS.)—New Jersey today has completed its pact with Pennsylvania by ratifying the Camden-Philadelphia Port bill at a special session of the State Legislature last night.

Both houses approved it by overwhelming majorities. Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, had signed a similar bill a month ago, placing the control of the huge Delaware River span in the hands of a new commission, with authority to issue bonds and construct high-speed railway lines across the bridge, and operate the bridge.

Judge Likes Bathing Suits, Fines Wearers

LACHINE, Que., June 30.—(AP.)—Women's bathing suits must extend at least three inches below the knees in Lachine. Sleeves must reach the elbows. Five Montreal girls were fined $5 each for violating the law. In defense they set forth that not one purchasable suit in the world today would be legal. The judge remarked that their suits were perfectly all right, but the law is the law.

BEAUTY SHOPS' OPERATOR BEATEN

Fight Follows Sunday Picnic Protest Before Ross Twp. Commissioners' Meeting

A fist fight during which Robert Bishinger, beauty shop operator, was knocked down and beaten, it was revealed today, marked the monthly meeting of the Ross Township Board of Commissioners last night in the Samuel Hamilton School. Bishinger this morning admitted he and George Daniels, proprietor of Paradise Inn, a roadhouse, exchanged blows at the meeting.

Bishinger said he went to the meeting to complain against "noisy picnics" on Sundays at Daniels establishment, which adjoins the Bishinger home on the McKnight road, near Keown Station.

DENIES CHARGES

While Bishinger was making his complaint, Daniels entered the commissioners' meeting room. He denied the accusations, and during his remarks directed against Bishinger, he called the beauty shop owner names, Bishinger stated this morning.

Bishinger admitted he lunged at Daniels. Patrolman Deer, of the township force, is said to have separated the men, dragging Bishinger away. In the melee the two are said to have rolled on the floor. Several other persons mixed in the fight and the patrolmen also was struck, witnesses said.

PROTESTS IGNORED

According to Bishinger, he had made previous complaints to Frederick Heim, township commissioner in charge of police. The complaints had been ignored, Bishinger said.

Bishinger today was contemplating legal action against the township board, to restrain it from granting permits to Daniels to hold picnics on Sunday. Bishinger said he did not mind weekday picnics, but desired peace and quiet on Sunday.

Township Commissioner W. B. Heid said today the board has never granted permits for picnics on Sundays. He added that no action was taken on Bishinger's complaint because of the disorder which followed. He said the subject might be brought up at next month's meeting.

The battle in the commissioners' room was witnessed by nearly 75 persons, many of them women. A delegation was present to present a petition for a new road to connect Babcock boulevard with the Laurel Gardens Plan.

G. O. P. OPPOSES TARIFF CUT

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(INS.)—Despite demands for a lowering of tariff walls as a further economic aid to Europe, the administration will oppose all proposals for revision of the tariff at the next session of Congress, it was learned today.

Two Republican leaders, Senators Watson, of Indiana, and Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, told International News Service the administration was "highly pleased" with the new tariff law. They declared all inconsistencies were being adjusted by the tariff commission under the flexible tariff provision, Smoot said.

"The effects of the law have been splendid. I don't know what American agriculture and industry would have done in this world depression without it."

Watson agreed with Smoot that the "new tariff law has been justified by our experiences in the last few months."

W. Va. Convicts Sent To Highway Camps

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 30.—(AP.)—Twenty prisoners were transferred yesterday from the state penitentiary to road camps, making a total of more than 1,000 outside the prison. Warden A. C. Scroggins said the number was the largest in the history of the institution. Eight hundred are in road camps, 50 on the prison farm, and the remainder at work on the new prison walls.

Commission Drafts Spain's Constitution

MADRID, June 30.—(AP.)—A proposed constitution providing for universal suffrage, religious freedom and abolition of titles of nobility will be submitted to the newly-elected National Assembly when it convenes July 14.

The preliminary draft, as formulated by a government commission, will first be passed on by the cabinet possibly this week.

RUSS IMPORTS FACE U. S. BAN

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—Imposition of strict treasury regulations on Russian imports produced by forced or indentured labor was predicted yesterday by Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee.

Smoot helped frame the new tariff act which carries provision for an embargo against such goods. The provision goes into effect January 1. Smoot believes that under a strict interpretation of the law all Russian products would be subject to scrutiny.

The treasury already has placed upon importers the burden of proof when the status of imports is questioned. Some shipments from Russia are now under consideration, including cargoes of lumber and pulpwood.

Clean Politics Held Best Foe of Racket

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., June 30.—(INS.)—Clean politics and an organized public opinion backed by adequate police facilities were held here today as remedies for the "racket," a typically American institution of crime and coercion.

George Z. Medalie, southern New York's district attorney, and Robert Isham Randolph, Chicago crime suppression leader, presented comprehensive studies of "racketeering" before a round table discussion of the subject featuring the day's session of the institute of public affairs, at the University of Virginia.

Wife Going to Mate Finds Him Killed

STROUDSBURG, Pa., June 30.—(INS.)—Arriving here to join her husband, from whom she had been separated for the past month, Mrs. John Henry Wilson, of Greensboro, N. C., learned he had been killed by a truck. She was en route here at the time of the accident.

FALL'S HEALTH REPORT MADE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—A report by army physicians on the physical condition of Albert B. Fall reached the district attorney's office here yesterday.

On it will depend whether the former interior secretary will come to Washington to begin a year's prison sentence. His physician has said Fall is not able to make the trip.

The report was given to John W. Fiehelly, acting district attorney, by the War Department. A copy was given to Chief Justice Wheat of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, and one went to Atlee Pomerene, of Cleveland, special counsel for the government in the oil prosecutions.

OFFICER HURT IN JOBLESS RIO

CALGARY, Alberta, June [illegible] (AP.)—Constable Fred Carter, of Alberta provincial police, was seriously injured when struck on the head with a brick while attempting to quiet a disturbance among unemployed at the City Hall.

The jobless yesterday were protesting against Mayor Andy Davidson's edict that men receiving relief from the city must work two days a week instead of one for the same amount of money.

Other constables received bruises in the melee which followed the attack on Carter.

About 600 unemployed struck in protest against the Mayor's ruling. Unemployed leaders drafted resolutions asking that the order be rescinded and at the time of the disturbance were closeted with members of the City Council.

Ex-Prosecutor Asks Writ In Arson Case

MEADVILLE, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—A habeas corpus hearing for C. Harrison Lund, former assistant district attorney of Erie County, charged with arson, was held yesterday with the court reserving its decision until testimony is transcribed.

Lund was held for court two weeks ago. His counsel avers the evidence against him is insufficient to warrant the action. He is charged with implication in an arson ring.

A FLURRY OF White FOR OVER THE Fourth

IF FASHION is called on for a patriotic speech, she'll raise a cheer for the Black, White and Brown! For white shoes you must have . . . all-white if your costume is a bit "dressy" . . . white with black or brown contrasts for country club clothes. (A wide leather belt to match the trimming on your shoes is a good "tie-in." And not costly.)

But we want to remind you in particular that

Nisley Has No Old Styles to Clear Out . . . Only New Styles Just Come In!

Every woman knows that it's easier to buy a "bargain" than to wear one! We're ready right now with your size, in your style, with the type of heel you prefer. And when you've once been fitted to a Nisley Shoe, with its perfect last and soft, conforming leather, you'll know why so many women who have usually paid $10 for their shoes are now our best customers. Come in and be correctly fitted by expert shoemen. You're never urged to buy.

ALL STYLES $5

Top—White Nu-buck perforated pump, black or brown trimming. We call it our Independence Model, because you don't have to clean it so often—the dark leather covers heel and toe where soil first appears.

Center—White sport-calf, black trim; rubber sole and leather heel with rubber top-lift.

Bottom—White oxford for bracing comfort; new punched-dot decoration.

U. S. ENDS YEAR WITH IMMENSE DEFICIT

By EDWARD L. RODDAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The federal Treasury will close its books tonight for the fiscal year 1931 with a deficit close to $900,000,000, the first unbalanced budget since 1919.

The Treasury statement today showed that the deficit on June 26 was $868,278,858.

The two primary causes of course, of the Treasury's financial troubles are the business depression and the stock market slump which reduced income tax payments for the year over $500,000,000. The loss of import trade also put a considerable dent in customs receipts.

From a political standpoint the administration's chief concern is that barring an unprecedented flow of prosperity the deficit next year is likely to reach about the same proportions.

The only solution appears to be some form of tax increase, although the administration has no desire to propose such a course on the eve of a presidential election. The probability is that the Treasury will meet the problem next year as it did this, by short term borrowing.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has already indicated that the nation should seek a broader tax base, perhaps by imposing more excise taxes and lowering the exemptions on income tax. This has also been approved by Undersecretary Mills.

The progressives in Congress and many of the Democrats are strongly opposed to the Mellon plan. They favor a heavier levy on big incomes and a sharp upward revision of the death or estate tax.

FUNERAL HEADS OPEN MEET

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania Funeral Directors' Association opened today with 600 persons attending. It will close Friday.

Officers of the association are John Bayer, Warren, president; Fred Wolford, New Castle, vice president, and Victor P. Hyle, Evans City, secretary.

The Rev. Joseph L. McCabe, Meadville, pronounced the invocation. Prof. Ray E. Slocum, Kansas City, spoke. Other speakers on the program are T. C. Hammel, Philadelphia; Prof. Charles H. Watkins, Chicago, and Harry J. Gilligan, New York, secretary of the National Funeral Directors' Association.

The annual banquet, entertainment and ball will be held Thursday evening.

Judge Denounces Arresting Minor Dry Violators

MEDIA, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Attacking policies of "liquor raiding" authorities, Judge McDade declared himself opposed to "bringing in the minnows, while the bigger fellows are uncaught."

The judge's statement was made in acquitting Petro Olia, Marcus Hook, Pa., charged with selling liquor in his poolroom. He said:

"The authorities will do more good if they get busy with the big fellows. We are going to let this little fellow go and hope the next time there will be a bigger one—there are plenty along the river."

BANK BANDITS TAKEN IN CHASE

NEW ORLEANS, June 30.—(AP.)—Four bandits raided the Ewing Market branch of the Canal Bank and Trust Company yesterday for the second time in less than two months, but two of them later were captured and their loot, amounting to $3,207, recovered.

Police arrived just as the four men sped away from the bank in an automobile and began a pursuit. The bandits finally deserted their car. The two who were taken gave their names as James Norman and William Kelly.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—James Gatto, cashier of a Queens branch of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, was held up in the bank late yesterday by two men armed with machine guns, who seized $11,000 and fled.

The robbers approached a window in the rear of the cashier's cage and forced Gatto to pass the money through the window.

REVOLT STARTS IN PERU

ARICA, Chile, June 30.—(AP.)—Strict censorship by the Peruvian government today cut off news of a revolt headed by the commander of the 13th Infantry Regiment stationed at Cuzco in Southern Peru, which the Lima Junta is now seeking to crush.

Reports were received of a fight at Cuzco, but these could not be verified. Arequipa was described as the center of the movement against the government, although the points of action have been at Cuzco and Punto.

Dissatisfaction with the central government over provincial administration and in part disagreement with the central government's decision to permit the return of former Provisional President Sanchez Cerro were held responsible for the revolt.

Cabs Carry Billion Passengers in Year

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—The taxicab business rolled along at a lively rate in 1930, W. W. Cloud, president of the National Association of Taxicab Owners, told the organization that cabs carried 1,000,000,000 passengers last year, doing a gross business of more than $500,000,000.

This, he said, represented an increase of 20 per cent over the number of passengers in 1929, despite the depression.

Rock Ledge Millions Of Years Old Found

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—A rock ledge, believed to be more than 400,000,000 years old, was uncovered in the Schuylkill River yesterday by workmen sinking a bridge foundation.

Samuel G. Gordon, associate curator of the department of geology and mineralogy at the Academy of Natural Sciences, said the rock was of the Wissahickon Gneiss formation.

Stabs Self 12 Times, Leaps From Window

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(INS.)—Herman Misch, 40, formerly of Scranton, stabbed himself 12 times with a pen knife and then leaped from his second story room in a rooming house here early today. Police attributed his action to despondency arising from the loss of his job.

He was taken to a hospital.

Wedding Climaxes Courthouse Romance

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—A romance which budded, blossomed and culminated in the Clinton County Courthouse resulted in the wedding Saturday night of John E. Hamilton, commissioners' clerk and Miss Lola Marie Thompson, county treasurer's clerk.

Family Escapes Death 56 Years

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 30.—(AP.)—There have been no deaths in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Matthews, of Cambridge, in 56 years and when the reunion was held here four generations were represented. There are seven sons and three daughters.

Meadville Plant Fire Damage $2,500

MEADVILLE, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Fire late yesterday caused $2,500 damage to the plant of the Meadville Hide & Fertilizer Company, the origin was said to have been in an explosion in a pile of wool and nitrate of soda.

Chicago Judge Insists Bathers Wear Suits

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—It never gets hot enough in Chicago to go swimming without suits, Judge Allegretti said in Boys' Court as he dismissed four youths with a warning not to do it again.

SEEK TO PROVE COLLUSION IN POWER TRIAL

Youngstown School Director Testifies Prosecutor 'Fixed' Jury in Railway's Suit

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 30.—(AP.)—The state endeavored to strengthen its arguments today that Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas operated his office in collusion with the former Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light Company.

The state had placed before the jury testimony of William M. Rowney, member of the Youngstown Board of Education, that Thomas persuaded a county grand jury not to indict two men accused of fixing a jury in favor of the Youngstown Municipal Railway, a Pennsylvania-Ohio subsidiary, in a personal injury case.

WOMAN TESTIFIES

The jury also had the testimony of Mrs. Celia Tims, member of the 1927 grand jury, who declared on the stand that Thomas asked her why she had opposed an indictment of Sherwood Harrington for perjury after he had testified against the Pennsylvania-Ohio Company in a damage suit.

The state also obtained testimony yesterday from John Ruffalo, attorney for Rudolph Binder, who had sued the railway company for $200,000 in a personal injury case. The attorney said he was led to believe from evidence that witnesses had been imported from Pittsburgh to give false testimony for the railway company.

CHARGED WITH BLACKMAIL

Ruffalo said charges that the railway had done this were investigated by a grand jury, and the state is seeking to show that Thomas prevented an indictment.

Thomas is being tried on a charge of blackmail based on a letter he wrote to the Youngstown City Council in February in which he charged Harry Engle, then traction commissioner, with blackmail in attempting to collect secret remuneration from officials of the Pennsylvania-Ohio, which was recently merged with the Ohio Edison Company.

FREIGHT RATE HEARING SET

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—Hearings on the railroad's petition for a 15 per cent rate increase were set today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to start July 15.

Hearings will be held at the commission offices in Washington and only petitioners and parties supporting the petition will be heard at the outset.

Other hearings beginning August 31, will be held for cross-examination of witnesses presented at the initial hearing and for submission of evidence by protestants.

The commission in announcing the hearings asked opponents of the increase to notify them by July 20 of the general character of their evidence and the approximate amount of time required.

Al Smith League In Massachusetts

BOSTON, June 30.—(AP.)—Papers of organization of "The Alfred E. Smith for President League of Massachusetts" have been filed with the secretary of state by Representative James E. Hagan, of Sommerville, who was named as chairman.

Hagan said the league would endeavor to secure the election of Smith delegates to the national Democratic convention next year.

Vice Probe Witness Held in Philadelphia

Beauty Shop Girl Believed Slain

MILFORD, Conn., June 30.—(AP.)—The body of Emma Kish, 26, an employe in a New Haven beauty shop, was found yesterday by two boys on the bank of a small pond. Her face and mouth were severely burned by poison.

Cleveland Gunmen Rob Fruit Dealer

CLEVELAND, O., June 30.—(INS.)—Two gunmen ambushed Jack Petreck, a wholesale fruit merchant, in the garage of his home here today and robbed him of $1,200 at the point of a gun.

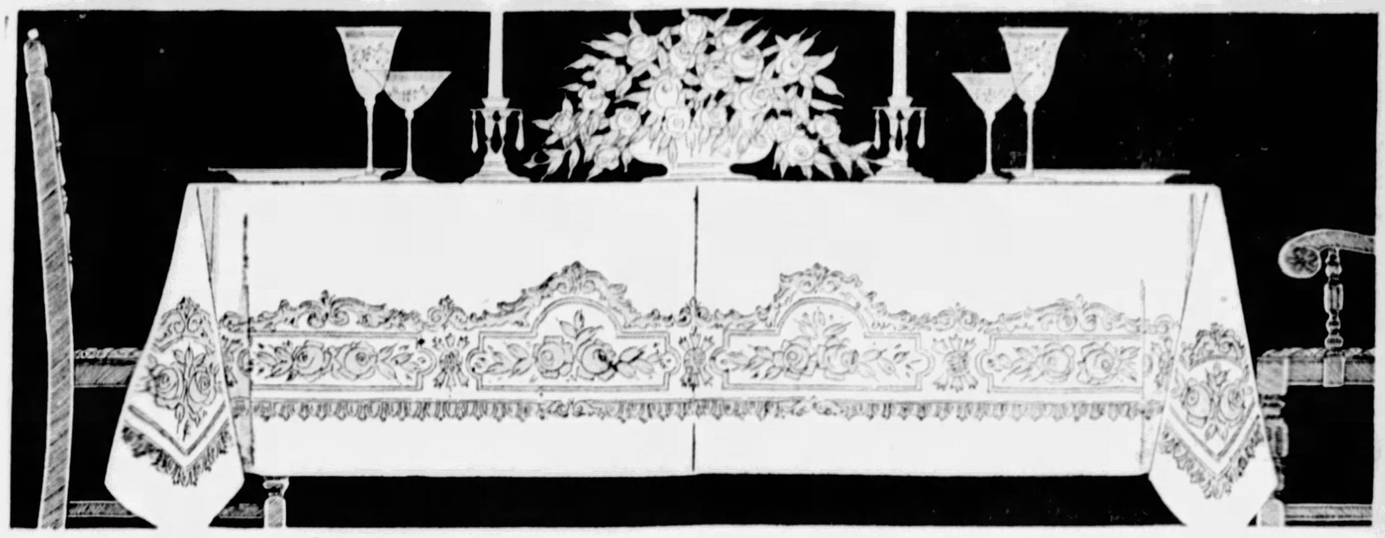
July Sale of Linens



THE JULY LINEN SALE is an institution at this store. It is widely known to thousands of housewives and eagerly accepted as a time to buy linens of high quality at real savings. This year the prices are unusually favorable, due to general conditions in the linen market. The recent increase in tariff is more than offset by the prevalent lower costs.

It is generally felt that linen prices are at the bottom, and these 1931 prices are likely to stand as a low record for many years to come. Under the circumstances, we feel a duty to urge our customers and the public at large to supply their wants liberally in the present Sale. We can vouch for the substantial character of the qualities and the prices speak for themselves. Every need of kitchen, bedroom, and dining room is provided in the approved modern styles and colors.

A Pre-Holiday Special! $15

We have taken the lead in introducing men to summer clothes at popular prices and are the recognized headquarters for these suits. Encouraged by the general acceptance of our efforts, we have arranged a Pre-Holiday Sale of nearly five hundred of these suits at the above price.

The selection offers Two-Piece Sports Ensembles (flannel jackets and plain or striped flannel trousers); Two-Piece Tropical Worsteds; Three-Piece Linen Suits; Two-Piece Palm Beaches and Mohairs. Every popular type of summer suit is represented in the selection.

At the theater, at the country club, at summer dances—everywhere that well-dressed men and youngfellows gather, white linen or other types of summer suits are the predominating costume. This sale offers Horne styles and qualities at an extraordinary low price.

BRITAIN BALKS SHOWDOWN ON DOPE

Geneva Delegates Postpone Decision On Seized Drugs When Leader Snaps Whip

By WINIFRED BLACK

GENEVA, June 30. — Sir Malcolm Delevingne, British delegate, tore off the velvet glove he had been wearing and showed the League of Nations' international narcotic conference not only an iron hand, but an iron hand doubled into a most aggressive, threatening fist.

The conference, which was about to end a tedious discussion by a vote which would have meant something, shivered and shrank.

The conference was discussing what to do with narcotics seized in the underground traffic.

BALKS SHOWDOWN

Some of the delegates wanted to destroy these drugs. Some wanted the government to keep them and make them over for the regular trade, thus reducing the quantity of raw material needed for the factories. The situation had been turned inside out and the conference was eager for a vote. Delevingne didn't want the vote.

He did not want to know where each country stood, he didn't care either. He knew where England stood and that was that.

He rose from his seat while with anger and said in his high insistent falsetto that he would never consent to any agreement to destroy underground seizures. He denounced the conference for giving such a chance for a serious split in its ranks.

Sir Malcolm hinted that either the conference would vote his way or he would pick up his roller skates and go home.

POSTPONED VOTE

The conference decided not to vote.

Just before this rather strange proceeding, a French gentleman had made a point of the fact that he would vote for the destruction of seized dope, if he could interpret the word destruction to mean conversion into some other substance.

Before that a mild little delegate from a mild little country had risen to say that he had been trying with all his might to find out what a real narcotic drug really is, and, as this was the fifth week of the conference, he thought somebody ought to tell him.

To the consternation of the conference, three or four other mild mannered gentlemen arose and said: me too, or words to that effect.

This thirst for information was rather disconcerting, but the conference tactfully ignored the frivolous interruption.

OBSERVER PUZZLED

The amendment controlling the legal estimates and needs of each country wasn't changed. It stood exactly as the British delegate modeled it last week, although the Americans apologized for their neglect to vote on this very important subject.

What is going to happen about the burning of those confiscated drugs?

Ask Delevingne—he probably knows.

It is hard for simple souls who thought this affair was a limitation conference, to understand how there are going to be such vast quantities of narcotics seized if the raw material and factory productions are really to be so strenuously limited.

Miners' Teams Hold First Aid Contests

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 30.—A total of 23 mine teams and 12 boys' and girls' teams competed in the annual first-aid meet of the Buckeye Coal Company at Nemacolin, Greene County, which was attended by State Secretary of Mines Walter H. Glasgow and several other leading mine officials of the district.

Mount Pleasant Man, Ex-School Head, Dies

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 30.—S. Grant Miller, 65, former superintendent of schools at Mount Pleasant, died yesterday at his home there after a second stroke of paralysis. He had served as school head for five years and recently had resided in Dormont, returning to Mount Pleasant in April.

Mother Gives Life Trying to Save Drowning Boy

BELLAIRE, O., June 30.—Mrs. Helen Behler, 22, was drowned late yesterday when she leaped into the Ohio River trying to save her five-year-old son, Emory, who also drowned when he fell from the river bank. Mrs. Behler's head struck a rock, causing unconsciousness and foiling her rescue attempt.

STEAMER SINKS BOAT, SAVES 3

BALTIMORE, June 30. (AP.)—Capt. A. W. Gaven of the Mundolphin, which docked here yesterday, reported to harbor authorities his craft in Chesapeake Bay hit and sank the motor boat Velma Brooks, a 33-ton craft. The master and owner of the Brooks, W. C. Townsend, a youth and the engineer were picked up by a lifeboat from the Mundolphin and brought to port.

The accident occurred near the mouth of the Potomac River and the position of the wreck was marked. The motor boat was 76 feet long with a 19-foot beam. The Mundolphin brought a cargo of sugar to Baltimore from Cardenas.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!*

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Consider the Garden of Eden. When that old serpent put Eve up to the idea of handing Adam an apple, he may have been doing them both a good turn—for where would we be today, ladies and gentlemen, without our Adam's Apple. If we didn't have our Adam's Apple, we couldn't sing, we couldn't even speak. For your Adam's Apple is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. So—Consider your Adam's Apple. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Remember—the serpent in the smoker's Garden of Eden—harsh irritants are present in all raw tobaccos. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that through its exclusive "TOASTING" Process expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say, "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Bishop Proposes Apostles' Creed Revision

LONDON, June 30.—(AP.)—A desire for re-statement of the Apostles' Creed was voiced by the Rt. Rev. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of Birmingham, in a diocesan conference yesterday.

The three-story picture of heaven, earth and hell implied in the Apostles' Creed belongs to obsolete thought, the bishop said. He also called for articles of religion to repudiate modern errors no less than ancient errors, and to affirm philosophical and psychological truths such as the moral freedom of the individual.

CLUB CAUTIONS MOTORISTS

Officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Club today warned motorists who are planning summer trips that the wise driver will keep down his speed and observe all signals. Due to numerous accidents recently, state and municipal officials have inaugurated strict enforcement campaigns. A vigil is being maintained on the Ohio River boulevard between Bellevue and Sewickley, the Kennywood boulevard, the Freeport road between the New Kensington Bridge and Tarentum, and state route 88 through New Eagle, Pa.

The legal department of the club has been informed by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles that the campaign against illegal lights will be continued throughout the summer. Highway patrolmen have been lenient with drivers who carry extra lamp bulbs, officials of the club said.

SEPARATISTS WIN IN SPAIN

BARCELONA, Spain, June 30.—(INS.)—The formation of an autonomous state within the broad confines of the Spanish constitution was foreseen here today as election returns gave Col. Francisco Macia and his Separatist party an overwhelming victory.

International News Service learned from an authoritative source that Col. Macia already has instructed a special committee to draft an autonomous statute into the Catalonian charter to be presented to the constitutional Cortes.

Despite repeated statements in the past by the Catalonian leader that complete separation from Spanish authority would not be considered, tense feeling prevailed here for fear that Macia might adopt extreme tactics in dealing with the Madrid government.

SEEK WARSHIP RELIC HERE

Maj. Robert M. Ewing, president of the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society, has written Congressman Guy E. Campbell in an attempt to obtain some article or portion of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh which is to be sunk by the U. S. Navy after 26 years of active service.

The society will endeavor to get the silver service presented to the vessel by the citizens of Pennsylvania November 16, 1904, for the historical society's museum. In 1913 Pittsburgh Council ordered a drawing for a punch bowl, but no action was taken after the drawing was submitted, according to F. A. Keating, president of the Grogan Company.

The Pittsburgh was launched at Philadelphia in 1903 as the Nebraska. Later she was known as the Pennsylvania until a dreadnaught was given the name of the Keystone state. Since then she has been the Pittsburgh. During the war she saw service in South American waters and later in the Black and North seas.

After 16 days of married life her husband left her on his pay day and she never saw him again, according to Teanie Walzer, of Universal, telephone operator, granted a divorce from Karl H. Walzer, now in California, by Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court. They eloped to Wheeling, May 24, 1927, when she was 16, and she said she was deserted June 9, 1927.

John Walbert, of Wood street, Tarentum, told Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court that his wife married him for spite, and six weeks later left him for "the other man." He asked a divorce from Clara Walbert, Tarentum, charging infidelity. They were married November 27, 1927.

ECKENER GIRL ON GRAF'S TRIP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 30.—(INS.)—The Graf Zeppelin, with 12 passengers, including Fraulein Lotte Eckener, daughter of the commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, left Friedrichshafen at 5:35 a. m. today (12:30 a. m. Pittsburgh time) for Iceland.

The giant German dirigible was to have kept a rendezvous in Arctic waters with Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus, but the breakdown of the latter's engines caused Dr. Eckener to call off the meeting.

Among the passengers on board is Lieut. Commander Edward H. Smith, of the American ice patrol, who will study icebergs from the air.

Norway-Greenland Discuss Hunters

THINGS WORTH SAVING FOR . .

THE SWAN SONG OF Dirt

You've heard it many a time—the deep buzzing purr of a vacuum cleaner as it sucks dust and grit out of a rug—the swan song of dirt.

How much easier than the back-breaking effort of sweeping with a broom! And how much more efficient! You turn on the electricity, guide the cleaner lightly over the floor—and the job's done.

A vacuum cleaner is something every housewife should have. It's easy to own one. We'd like to help you. Open a savings account with the Farmers Deposit National Bank—deposit a little money regularly each week or month—and before long you'll hear that clean-sounding purr in your own home. Don't put off saving—start now.

WHATDOYOUWANT very much? You'll get it sooner—whatever it is—if you start your savings account today. And the sooner you start, the more interest you'll get. Just step inside—deposit a dollar or more—say "I want to save." TODAY.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the issuing of a warrant in favor of James H. Kennon, managing engineer of the Bureau of Water, representative of the local committee on arrangements for the 51st annual convention of the American Water Works Association, held in Pittsburgh, May 25th-29th, 1931, to reimburse said committee for moneys expended for the inspection of the Pittsburgh Water Works structures, and providing for the payment of the same.

WHEREAS, The City of Pittsburgh has published and distributed throughout the United States, the works of the late E. E. Lanpher as to the construction by, and the accomplishments of the City of Pittsburgh in reference to its water works, which were discussed favorably by most water utility journals; and

WHEREAS, The 51st annual convention of the American Water Works Association and the Water Works Manufacturers' Association, in pursuance of an invitation of the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, was held in the City of Pittsburgh for the first time on May 25th to 29th, 1931; and

WHEREAS, This combined convention brought to this city fifteen hundred (1,500) delegates from all sections of North America and from foreign countries; and

WHEREAS, The City of Pittsburgh is justly proud of its accomplishments in reference to its water works and its water works system; and

WHEREAS, It was the desire of the City of Pittsburgh that the delegates to said combined convention see, inspect and give to it any information they could for the betterment of the same, or carrying our methods of construction to their various communities; and

WHEREAS, It was necessary for the local committee on arrangements to invite the said delegates to make an inspection of the Pittsburgh Water Works structures, their including the filtration plant, pumping stations, reservoirs, etc., and that said inspection was made at the request of the said Pittsburgh committee, by and through the Bureau of Water, Department of Public Works of said city; and

WHEREAS, The said committee expended the sum of One Thousand Forty-four Dollars and Fifteen Cents ($1,044.15) as the cost of making said inspection; now, therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized to issue and the City Controller to countersign a warrant in favor of James H. AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the St. Anthony Society the right to construct, maintain and use a concrete platform over the North side of Elizabeth Street to connect their building with the North sidewalk of the West Approach to the Elizabeth Street Bridge, subject to the terms and conditions herein set forth.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the St. Anthony Society, their successors and assigns, be and are hereby given the right and authority, at their own cost and expense, to construct, maintain and use a concrete platform over the North side of Elizabeth street to connect their building with the North sidewalk of the West Approach to the Elizabeth Street Bridge. The platform is to be for the use of pedestrians only and is to be built in accordance with plans, designs and specifications approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 2. The said St. Anthony Society shall, prior to the beginning of the construction of said platform, submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, a complete set of plans, together with specifications, in quadruplicate, showing location and all details of construction of said work, and no work shall be commenced thereon until the said plans have been approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works, who shall have the right, at all times, to inspect the said construction, operation and maintenance and any and all orders issued by him shall be complied with.

SECTION 3. The said St. Anthony Society shall, upon notice from the Director of the Department of Public Works make such repairs to platform herein authorized, as the Director may order and shall further do such painting on the railing of said platform at the times and in the manner indicated by the Director.

SECTION 4. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over City Streets and to the ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and to the provisions of any general ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of walks, platforms or passageways across City streets or portions thereof, and which may provide compensation for the use thereof.

SECTION 5. The rights and privileges granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of said platform upon giving thirty (30) days notice thereof, through the proper officers of the City, pursuant to Resolution or Ordinance of Council, and the said grantee, when so notified, shall, at the expiration of the said thirty (30) days, forthwith remove the said platform and close the opening, left by such removal, in the manner ordered by the Director of the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 6. The said grantee shall be responsible and shall assume any liability whatsoever, either of the said grantee or of the City of Pittsburgh, for damages to persons or property by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of said platform and it is a condition of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.

SECTION 7. The foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to all the foregoing conditions and to the further condition that this Ordinance shall be null and void, unless within thirty (30) days after the passage and approval of this Ordinance, the St. Anthony Society shall file with the City Controller, its certificate of acceptance of this Ordinance, duly executed.

SECTION 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Do Some Girls Really Love Men Who Are Brutes?

Is it "Love" that makes her stand for his cruelty? Is it "Love" that makes her willing to sacrifice her independence, her happiness, her self-respect, for a man she is beginning to despise?

And if it isn't love, then what is it?

"I can't understand myself!" she moans. "Instead of hating him for his meanness as some people would, I seem to somehow want him all the more". . . "Dear Miss Martin:

ALWAYS FEARFUL

"I am sending this letter to you with the fervent prayer that you will answer it, and show me how to regain a deeply buried independence and self-respect. For a long time now I have been making a ridiculous fool of myself over my fiance. I seem to be utterly unable, when he is with me, to stand up for myself. I let him almost tell me when and how to breathe . . . and the endless restrictions he places on me keep me in a constant mental hades, when I am with him, for fear I'll overlook one of them, and thereby cause a fight. And when we do fight, he always is victor for he uses every method that he knows, and he knows plenty of them, to hurt me.

"He feels that anything he does to me I'll take without a murmur—and because he takes me so for granted, he is becoming more and more indifferent as to how I take his treatment.

"I can't understand myself at all. Instead of hating him for the way he treats me, as some people would, I seem somehow to want him all the more.

"Haven't I an atom of pride left?

"He says that he loves me. But I am skeptical. I just can't believe either that I love him—a man who only makes me hate myself.

A SICK SPIRIT

"And surely I don't want to love him unless we can put our love on a 50-50 basis, and be fair with each other. To do this, I must have my independence back. I really crave that more than I do him, I think, for, without independence, I am a 'clinging vine' and detestable to myself. But I seem so helpless to understand things or make any effort. Please, bawl me out, ridicule me . . . say anything you like, if only you can help me. If you will, I'll be forever grateful. Do you think I really do love him? And does he love me, when he treats me this way?

"JEANETTE."

Is it love? No, youngster. It isn't. It's something a million miles from love . . . something as ugly as love is beautiful . . . something as vicious as love is good. And this "something" is in you, not in the man.

The human mind is a curious thing, Jeannette. It has stranger hungers in it than the body—sicker fancies. Sick or well, it wants, above everything else, to be noticed. Every human spirit wants attention. And if you can't get attention happily, it will take attention that brings unhappiness. And the sicker the spirit, the less choosy it is. Indeed, some spirits become so sick that they not only accept abuse, but come to crave it . . . because it gives them a twisted sense of excitement—

What's the matter with you? That's what is the matter, Jeannette. Your spirit is sick. I don't know what made it sick originally. Perhaps you were too lonesome before you met this man—or too cowardly—or too lazy. But for some reason you brought him a sick spirit and he took advantage of it. He found you spineless, and he treated you as some cruel human beings treat weaker creatures. He abused you—tortured you—

MUST FIGHT

You knew you should resent it. You know you should assert yourself and demand his respect, or kick him out. But your sick spirit wouldn't let you. There was a secret fascination in his abuse. It excited you . . . stirred something in you.

You hated that abuse—and yet you craved it. You craved it as drunkards come to crave booze . . . as morphine addicts come to crave hop . . . it became your addiction—

And now you must fight that addiction as any other addict must fight—

You must break loose from this man as you'd break loose from alcohol or morphine. He doesn't love you. He may have been a decent fellow once—just as you may have been a self-respecting woman—but your combination is fatal. It can only end in awful hate.

So stop calling this love . . .

See yourself as you are . . .

Despise yourself for what you are . . .

"NOW WHAT WAS THE NAME OF THAT OLD FELLOW THAT MADE SUCH A FOOL OF HIMSELF OVER THE LITTLE RED HEAD IN THE GREEN DRESS—I MUSN'T FORGET THAT BABY!
THE NEXT DAY
THIS IS BETTY I MET YOU AT THE CLUB GOOFER, YOU REMEMBER? I WAS WITH YOUR FRIEND JERRY NEVER WILL FORGET THE DANCES I HAD WITH YOU—AND I DISURE LIKE TO HEAR YOU RECITE SOME MORE KIPLING!
THE NEXT MONTH
GREAT SCOTT! AM I NEVER GOING TO GET RID OF THAT DAME!
THE NEXT YEAR!

By FAY KING

They must remember whom they meet, and where and through whom. It is valuable data in their routine of following up any casual contact which looks promising.

They will make it a point to contact these men again, and it is important to remind them exactly of the time they met.

If it happened to be at a time and place they would rather not recall, it is even more important for these girls to remember, for it becomes valuable for the mild game of blackmail on which most of these girls depend.

No man must expect to be forgotten by these casual girls he meets at jolly impromptu parties.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Deftly Saves the Day

At Dicky's reproof to his mother, because of her strictures concerning my management of the problem of Junior and his new sister, I knew that something must be done and that quickly, or the joyous homecoming of my small son and nephew and the Underwoods would be marred by a scene.

"When my own son," she began, huskily—and I prepared for drastic action. With a little private signal to Dicky, which I knew he understood, I flamed into denunciatory speech to him.

"It is you who have no consideration for me, or for your mother," I said. "You know how easily upset I am just now, and how I dislike to hear you speak rudely to your mother. What she said didn't annoy me at all, but what you have just said to her worries me. I think you owe her an apology."

I hoped I wore a sufficiently convincing air of a neurotic woman who must not be annoyed. I saw Dicky's lips twitch, knew that he comprehended my ruse, and had hard work to keep my own facial muscles doleful, as I turned from my husband to my mother-in-law.

"Please don't mind him, mother, dear," I said. "I am so happy today with Junior home again that I can't bear to have you feel annoyed."

"You're overdoing it," she said, caustically. "I might have swallowed it, if you hadn't raked your husband over the coals quite so hard. It isn't like Richard to take anything like that lying down, so I'm sure you're just acting out a charade for my benefit."

Involuntarily I turned to Dicky and he manned the yards immediately. Getting down on his knees, he wiggled his way across the veranda rug to her, his hands uplifted in a grotesque parody of penitence.

"Mater mea, Ma mere, Madonna mia, Mi madre Meine mutter!" he intoned, with a patent exhaustion of his phrase book. "Deign to forgive your penitent son! Honest! I'll never do it again."

"Get up immediately, and stop making an anointed idiot of yourself," she commanded.

"That might not be a bad idea," Dicky returned, imperturbably. But when he had risen to his feet, he laid a tender, compelling hand upon her arm.

"We're neither of us needed around here, mother, dear," he said. "Madge and Lil haven't had a chance to go over the affairs of the universe and settle them properly since early June. And it's a job that's crying for them—we all know that. So, suppose we let them get going, and you come out with me to the rose garden. I need some advice on that—you know—what before the rest come out."

"Why the mystery, Dicky, darling?" Lillian asked, as his mother, thoroughly appeased, suffered him to lead her toward the outer door. But I knew that she did not expect an answer. With her usual intuition and tact she had interpreted my involuntary flush, and knew that Dicky's gibe, though a familiar one, to which I ought to be impervious, nevertheless had stung me.

But there was no sensitive flush upon Lillian's cheeks as she looked after Dicky. A gamin grin twisted her lips and her eyes were sparkling.

"Wonderful insight that lad has," she said. "I didn't think he had it in him to put on a vanishing act so deftly. And he's right. We have about three million separate things to go over. But first, you blessed girl—"

She sat down beside me and put her hand tenderly over mine, a caress that meant more than an embrace from most women.

"To see you so well and happy," she said, and no one would have recognized her tender, almost broken tones as belonging to the same woman as did the flippancy with which she had just dismissed Dicky. And this blessed baby! What I went through up there until I knew everything was all right. If anybody else but Katrina had been with you I'd have chucked Junior and Roderick into the nearest boys' camp and hurried down here. But I knew if she couldn't pull you through old Hippocrates himself would have thrown up the job."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Chlorosis" Is a Form of Anemia

Lack of proper exercise and fresh air often results in an anemic condition called "chlorosis." This form of anemia is found only in young girls.

The disease is common among poorly fed and overworked girls. The girls who are confined all day in close, badly lighted rooms are frequent sufferers. Cases of chlorosis sometimes occur where the living conditions are favorable. It is seldom seen in country-bred girls, who enjoy the benefits of fresh air and sunlight.

Marked emotional and nervous disorders help to bring about this condition. As a rule, however, failure of nutrition and the wrong manner of living are the most important causes.

A person suffering from chlorosis looks anemic. The complexion is peculiar, having a curious yellow green tinge. On this account the case is often spoken of as the "green sickness."

Breathlessness and palpitation of the heart are frequent symptoms. There is usually a tendency toward fainting. The face and ankles may become swollen.

There is a marked change in the disposition. The affected persons become low-spirited, irritable and extremely sensitive. Frequently such conditions are ignored and under-estimated, I am sorry to say.

As a rule the treatment of this condition is simple and effective. Rest, plenty of fresh air and sunlight are most essential. A carefully planned nutrition diet is important. It should consist of wholesome and easily digested food.

The therapeutic use of iron is important. This disease is characterized by a decrease in the hemoglobin content of the blood. The iron supply is markedly low. It is for this reason that tonics containing iron are recommended. The doctor will decide just what to give.

Care of the bowels is important. If constipation is present it is best to give a saline purge each morning.

In very severe cases rest in bed is imperative. The condition is a temporary one and responds quickly to treatment.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Heavy, calloused skin that has formed at the upper corners of the finger nails can be softened and removed by applying a mixture of olive oil and pumice stone, then digging in gently with an orange wood stick. Before beginning treatment, soak the hands in warm soap-suds.

No need of starving in an effort to reduce. The fat darling can eat spinach, lettuce, onions, tomatoes, lean meats, rye toast and never gain an ounce. She must sidestep the cream-covered cereal in the morning, rush past candy stores, deny herself butter, white bread and potatoes. It is not wise to exercise vigorously when cutting down on rations.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Plan to Travel Light

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it is correct for a man to carry a steamer blanket when going abroad? Should it be strapped to his suitcase or put in the trunk?

ELSIE.

There isn't any reason to carry a steamer blanket when we go abroad these days, for excellent steamer blankets are provided on board all liners, for a small rental sum. I would never consider carrying steamer blankets when I go abroad.

Plan to "travel light" with luggage, and don't carry with you such a bulky item as a steamer blanket. When you go on board, arrange with your deck steward to rent a blanket, or two, if you wish, and then you won't have the bother carrying it about with you in Europe. And, speaking of trunks, if you are staying in Europe for only a short time, I suggest that you plan to take as luggage suitcases and week-end bags . . . luggage that you can take with you in your train compartments . . . rather than trunks, which mean much trouble in traveling in Europe.

White Trousers and a Dark Coat

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a gentleman to wear white trousers and a dark coat to an informal dance held next month? A. S.

Yes.

Good Theater Manners

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Your wonderful column has been of great help to me, and now I come to you with some questions which I hope you won't think "queer."

1. When attending a theater, is it proper to thank the usher for the seat he has offered?

2. When attending with a gentleman, who tells the ushers the location of seats?

3. Is it the gentleman's place to thank him? DOT.

Thank you—I'm glad that you find the column helpful. And indeed your questions aren't queer; they are ones that come to all of us and always demand thinking.

1. Yes, this is the polite and gracious thing to do.

2. The gentleman.

3. Yes.

Household Hints

All fruit should be carefully washed before eating.

Do not keep lids on saucepans when not in use, for it tends to make them smell musty. The pans should be placed upside down on a shelf.

To avoid mistakes with poison (in the dark or through carelessness), when it must be kept in the house, paste a strip of sandpaper around the bottle, or tie a tiny bell to the neck; it will warn the most careless of danger.

NEXT WINTER YOU'LL BE GLAD THAT YOU PUT UP FRUIT

There is nothing more reassuring in winter months than to know that you have plenty of jellies, preserves, canned fruits and sweet relishes on hand. Since they are so inexpensive you can serve them regularly.

In home canning, refined cane sugar has always been the standard of housewives all over the country. Take advantage of the low price of sugar and watch your market for bargains in fruit. In addition to putting up fruit, be sure to make some sweet vegetable relishes such as chow-chow, mustard pickles and piccalilli. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Slender Model, Sizes 38 to 50
Pattern 2168
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Jabots are particularly good for "not-too-slim" figures, as the graceful flares disguise one's lines. Also the pointed seaming in the skirt reduces the appearance of the hips. An absence of belt prevents the cutting of the figure, yet the horizontal waistline tucks slightly mold the bodice where necessary. Stout arms will welcome the cool comfy and very smart flared sleeves. All in all, this is an ideal style for the mature woman. Pattern 2168 makes up beautifully in chiffon, georgette, voile, flat crepe, lawn or dimity.

Obtainable only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 40 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch fabric. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

3-Year-Old Girl Scalded to Death

SHARON, Pa., June 30.—Tumbling into a pan of hot water which her mother was using while canning cherries, Irene, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pleso, was scalded to death.

Woman Falls Dead Of Heart Attack

DOVER, O., June 30.—Mrs. Martha Rabe, 70, a victim of heart disease, fell dead yesterday from a chair after eating a meal at the home of her son, Basil Rabe.

Highest Airport Of State Operating

KANE, Pa., June 30.—The Larson airport, three miles east of Kane, believed to be the highest landing field in the state, 2,200 feet above sea-level, is now operating. Opening ceremonies were under the auspices of the American Legion Post, of Mt. Jewett. Burgess E. W. Albertson, of Kane, made the dedicatory address.

About 20 airplanes were at the field for opening day, and stunt flying, parachute jumps, and other aerial activities were features.

Home Deal Closed By Smedley Butler

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(INS.)—Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Marine Corps commandant, has completed settlement for the McMaster property on Goshen road, near the Aronomink Golf Club, adjacent to Newtown square. The large colonial residence occupying a tract of almost four acres, was valued at $30,000.

Crops In Venango Close to Normal

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 30.—In contrast to conditions of last year, Venango County's crops are two weeks ahead of schedule, and all of them will be close to normal, according to County Agent Eugene Ifft. In a survey he found the fruit crop outlook the best in four years, and the general crop of wheat, oats and garden stuff the best in several seasons. The cherry crop is said to be the largest in a decade.

Judge Rebukes Dry For Holding Trucks

NEWARK, N. J., June 30.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Guy L. Fake yesterday rebuked Deputy Prohibition Administrator Lewis J. Tutt and told him he had violated the Volstead act by his refusal to free trucks under bond. The court said:

"By your attitude you are setting up an imperialistic form of government and acting contrary to the Volstead act, which you are sworn to uphold."

Man Drowns, Girl Failing in Rescue

PEMBROKE, Mass., June 30.—(AP.)—Harold L. Monk, 35, drowned in Oldham Pond last night despite the efforts of Miss Margaret Deacle, 22, of Scranton, Pa., to save him.

Miss Deacle and Monk attempted to change seats in a canoe, which capsized. Monk was unable to swim and Miss Deacle almost drowned in a futile attempt to pull him ashore. The victim's wife, standing on a float nearby, saw him drown.

Slayer of Doctor Sentenced to Death

SLOW UPSWING TAKES PLACE IN MARKET

List Creeps Higher After Early Recession of 2 to 4 Points—Case Boosted

Yesterday's downturn was carried over into the first hour of trading today, when further recessions of 2 to 4 points were numerous, but selling soon dried up, and a slow recovery was generated by a bullish demonstration in J. I. Case. With the Paris intergovernmental debt negotiations postponed until tomorrow, the market was left without stimulus from that quarter. The Interstate Commerce Commission's schedule of hearings on the proposed freight rate boost was a disappointment to those looking for early action, and held back the rail shares.

Case was pushed up about 5 points, under the sponsorship of a former bear operator who had a change of heart two months ago. Johns Manville responded to bullish efforts somewhat less impressively. Losses of 2 points or so in U. S. Steel and American Can were recovered.

Wall Street approaches the last half of the year with hopes lifted by the war debt remission plan, but comment in banking quarters reveals a tendency to keep feet squarely on the ground.

There is no expectation that the French attitude on the war debts will prove more than a momentary barrier, and there is still a wide feeling that the plan may mark the turning point after two years of depression, but it is recognized that recovery will take time.

The first half of 1931 has been a disappointment to those who were more optimistic at the start of the year, but by and large, little was expected of it. The spring upturn is now generally appraised as having reflected only seasonal tendencies. There is considerable hope that the autumn stimulus will reflect a little more, but prospects are viewed conservatively.

The money market failed to feel the influences of the July 1 settlements as yet, and call money was freely offered below the official rate of 1½ per cent.

Construction Record Made by United

Canada Wire and Cable Company has begun operation at Montreal, East Canada, of the hot copper and mill built by the United Engineering and Foundry Company. This mill, which will roll all types of copper rods, contains many new developments devised for the industry by United's engineers. United Engineering built the mill in record time, the order having been placed in October, 1930.

May Automobile Production Lower

WASHINGTON, June 30.—May factory sales of automobiles in the United States as reported to the bureau of the census consisted of 315,115 vehicles, of which 269,080 were passenger cars, 45,695 trucks, and 340 taxicabs, as compared with 335,708 vehicles in April and 420,027 in May 1930.

During the five months ended May 31, factory sales were 1,319,016 as compared with 1,864,074 in the first five months of last year.

Insurance Company Elects New Chief

Directors of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia elected M. Albert Linton as president and director to fill the vacancies caused by the death of Asa S. Wing.

Linton had been vice president in charge of field forces. He entered the service of the company December 20, 1909, and was also vice president of the Actuarial Society of America.

World Bank Gets Emergency Fund

PARIS, June 30.—It is reported from Basle that the Central banks have arranged that their deposits with the Bank for International Settlements shall provide a permanent emergency fund of about $40,000,000 for intervention in any menaced market.

Oklahoma to Raise Allowable Oil Flow

TULSA, June 30.—Members of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission, after the proration hearing, indicated that the allowable for Oklahoma City fields for the next three months will be 1 to 1½ per cent above the present allowable of 6 per cent of potential output.

Hawaiian Sugar Crop at Record

NEW YORK, June 30.—Production of sugar by Hawaii this year is estimated at 984,027 tons, a new high record with a value of $65,000,000, according to revised figures. Outturn in 1930 was 924,040 tons.

New England's Car Requirements Less

NEW YORK, June 30.—The shippers' advisory board has estimated freight car needs in New England for the third quarter at 6½ per cent below a year ago.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 30.—In a small turnover, curb prices drifted rather aimlessly today. There was enough selling in the early hours to put the list moderately under the Monday close, but the decline encountered diminished activity and losses in many instances were regained.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

SLUMP PARTLY MATTER OF VIEWPOINT

Depression by No Means Universal—82 Companies Show First-Quarter Gains

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Depression is partly a matter of viewpoint. In a cartoon in a weekly publication, two hoboes were standing together on a breadline. One asked the other what he thought of the depression. The other replied quizzically: "What depression?"

Mr. Rukeyser

Most observers think in terms of prices. Unquestionably, the vast majority of persons, especially the unemployed, have seen their fortunes ebb since the autumn of 1929. But the depression has by no means been universal. More than 82 corporations actually showed a gain in profits in the first quarter of 1931, as compared with the corresponding period of 1930.

SOME BENEFIT

Moreover, those on fixed incomes, such as civil service employee, ministers, bondholders, recipients of annuities from life insurance companies and other creditors, have actually benefited from the increasing purchasing power of money during this period.

Furthermore, savings banks have really experienced a boom. As a result of the growing conservatism, funds flowed to the savings institutions in New York state in unprecedented volume. Deposits soared to a new peak.

As a matter of fact, some merchants and others have looked askance at the savings banks as citadels of hoarding. Feeling maligned, Group IV, of the New York State Savings Bank Association has publicly undertaken to answer the criticism.

NEEDS DIFFERENT

It is well here to distinguish between the needs of the individual and the needs of society.

The purchasing power school of economists, among whom Catchings and Foster are conspicuous in this country, have definitely asserted that the depression has been intensified by over-saving and under-spending.

From a social standpoint, progress is measured by savings.

But from a short term standpoint, since the depression, frightened individuals have shown a disposition to save abnormally and spend sub-normally.

Grain Trade Awaiting Board's Wheat Plan

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Wheat markets have been in a state of nervous uncertainty awaiting the Farm Board's definite announcement of its sales policy for stabilization wheat in accordance with President Hoover's suggestion.

A pledge to hold the supplies off domestic markets for a year, many traders feel, would in its immediate effect far overshadow the prospects of an improved European economic situation. Some grain men have insisted a year's promise would add 10 cents to wheat values, and would furnish a substantial basis for entering the long side. Futures rallied last week on reports that a Farm Board announcement was imminent. It now promises a statement by July 1.

Cash wheat prices dropped sharply last week to a new crop basis, but a firmer tone developed in the futures markets as a result of the continued unfavorable outlook for spring wheat in North America and prospects of some betterment in Europe's affairs.

Thinks Lows Passed

TRADERS WORKED MORE toward the buying side and rallies after recessions were sharper. But at the same time new wheat movement resulted in more hedging sales.

With bullish news at hand or in the making, traders say that lowest prices have been seen for the present.

The condition of spring wheat in the American Northwest remained about unchanged last week. There were some scattered light rains but serious drought conditions prevail in Western North Dakota and Eastern Montana. Canadian conditions continue critical. Prospects improved in Alberta during the week, but the crop suffered further deterioration in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, the Agriculture Department here reported.

European crops were reported to be developing rapidly under generally favorable weather conditions. Harvesting is well under way in Southern Europe. German, French and Italian prospects are for a bigger crop. Condition of Russian winter wheat is average or above, and its spring wheat sowing plan is almost completed.

Foreign Markets Quiet

CONTINENTAL BUYERS ARE meeting only current needs and foreign markets were generally quiet last week. The relaxation of the French milling regulations permitting 30 per cent of foreign wheat had little market influence.

New winter wheat movement in the United States increased sharply. More than one-third of the 2,798 cars received at principal central-western markets was new stocks. The quality has been very high with a large proportion grading No. 1, of high test weight and low moisture content. Most of the new arrivals were on earlier sales to mills and current offerings in the markets were light.

Corn prices advanced under fairly active inquiry, and reports of danger to crops from hot, dry weather which prevailed over most of the belt. Some sections were said to need moisture badly.

Brazilian Coffee Crop Hit by Frost

NEW YORK, June 30.—Heavy frosts are reported in Brazil. Coffee crops in Sao Paulo have been damaged.

DEFICIT TOTALS $868,278,858

WASHINGTON June 30—(AP.)—A financial rainbow that lasted 10 years faded rapidly last night for the richest government in the world.

Despite a half billion dollars in ready cash, the Treasury reached the eve of the last day of the 1931 fiscal year with expenditures apparently topping collections by over $800,000,000. The last year to close with a deficit was more than a decade ago.

Treasury statement, issued for the close of business June 26, showed a deficit of $868,278,858. Receipts for the year were $3,298,833,366, and expenditures $4,167,112,224. The net balance in the general funds was $502,438,034.

Buyers Changing Fall Programs

NEW YORK, June 30.—Expecting a substantial improvement in business by fall, executives of wholesale import distributing houses this week are changing their fall buying programs, trade circles report. Strength shown by commodity markets last week, along with other indications of returning business activity, is believed to justify heavier commitments on all types of imported merchandist for fall retail trade, it was said.

RAIL EARNINGS IMPROVING

NEW YORK, June 30.—The first 66 railroads to report had May net operating income of $35,189,000, compared to $52,275,000 in May, 1930, a decline of 32.6 per cent.

May not only showed an increase over the aggregate for the same roads in April, but also showed a smaller precentage decline from the corresponding month last year than was shown in the preceding month. April net of the same carriers totaled $33,478,000, a decline of 33.7 per cent from April, 1930.

Gross revenues in May, however, were slightly below April and also showed a larger percentage decline from May, 1930.

I. C. C. Would Reject Pennsy Station Plea

WASHINGTON, June 30.—An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner, in a supplemental report, recommends that the commission deny without prejudice, joint application of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Long Island Railroad, seeking approval of an agreement for the use of Pennsylvania Station facilities in New York City by the Long Island.

CITY WILL PAY BALDWIN DEBT

City Council, with the sanction of the law department, has taken upon itself the burden of paying $13,788.28 for a sewer ordered built some time ago by Baldwin Township.

The money will be paid the M. O'Herron Company, who do a large amount of the city's sewer and street improvement work.

A communication from the law department, accompanying legislation providing for payment of the bill, points out that the bill should have been paid by the township, but present litigation has tied up the township funds. The township is understood to have promised to repay the money as soon as the litigation ends.

Good Samaritan Robbed by Man He Helped

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—Joseph Cronin, driver of a bakery truck, declared the job of a good Samaritan is not all it's held up to be.

For several days, Cronin has stopped at Flat Rock Dam on the Schuylkill and given rolls to a fisherman there.

Yesterday he stopped as usual to be-friend the angler, and the latter held him up and robbed him of $14.

BELLE FREED, ACCUSER HELD

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—A modiste who preferred a charge of grand larceny against Belle Livingstone decided late yesterday that she had been mistaken about the theft of several dresses by the former night club hostess and withdrew the charge.

But that did not end the legal affairs of the day for Miss Helen Meyer, the modiste, for, after a magistrate had dismissed her case against the entertainer, she in turn was served with two civil arrest orders by former employes who charged her with withholding wages.

The onetime mistress of the "Fifty-eighth Street Country Club" had previously gone through the police lineup, after being brought from Rochester, where she was arrested. Dressed in a green ensemble, Belle, who is 60, faced the calcium in which prisoners are identified and assured the police they were in error in holding her.

Asked her occupation, she said:

"I am a writer of books and stories for the magazines."

At which the inspector retorted:

Tiger Peril Blamed On Circus Wreck

PACHUCA, Mexico, June 30.—(AP.)—A circus train wreck 18 years ago is believed to be responsible for existence in the mountains near Villa del Carbon of a colony of ferocious Bengal tigers, which sometimes descend to prey upon cattle in the lower lands and are known to have killed several persons.

A tiger and two tigresses escaped when the "Maravilla" circus train was wrecked in 1913 near the villa.

Southern Cotton Mills Cease Work

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 30.—(AP.)—Between 50,000 and 75,000 textile workers have begun a summer "vacation" period as a large number of cotton manufacturing mills in the Southeast temporarily suspended operations.

W. N. McLaurine, secretary of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, announced the suspensions. He said the situation with which manufacturers have been confronted appears to be improving.

Two Slain in Fight Over Price of Wine

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Two men were slain last night in a Brooklyn restaurant in what police described as an argument over the price at which wine should be sold.

The dead are Joseph Zaccarelli, 34, and Italio Morgia, 38, his brother-in-law. Tony de Mario, 38, was arrested charged with the killings. Detectives said all three came to America together, opened restaurants and embarked in the wine business.

Phila. Women Will Funds to Charities

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—Two wills filed for probate here carried bequests of $55,000 to charitable organizations.

Cuban Police Hold 20 Accused of Plot

HAVANA, June 30.—(AP.)—Twenty arrests were made yesterday in connection with what the police described as a new conspiracy against the government. The head of the national police force said there would be more arrests today, but that none of the prisoners was of "particular political importance."

Held in Slaying Over Honey Tree

MARTINSVILLE, Va., June 30.—(AP.)—Murray Carter, 54, of Bassett, is held in jail here charged with killing Oscar Manning, 25, also of Bassett, after an altercation which started over the possession of a tree in which bees had deposited wild honey.

BULLET WOUND KILLS BOY, 6

James F. Laffey, 6, of 2432 Beechwood boulevard, died last night in St. Joseph's Hospital from a bullet wound in the abdomen which was inflicted while he was playing with a revolver in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Novak, at 220 McKinley avenue, yesterday morning, according to the coroner's report.

The victim had been visiting at his grandmother's home for several days and yesterday morning, according to the coroner's report, he went to the third floor while Mrs. Novak was washing clothes in the basement. The boy was reported to have found a revolver wrapped in a towel in a bureau drawer and, while playing with it, accidentally discharged the gun.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS ORDER

Orders have been awarded the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for electrical equipment for a new Diesel electric tug to be used for work of the United States Public Health Service, Quarantine Division in New York.

The orders include one 500-horsepower propulsion motor, two 205-kilowatt propulsion generators, two 25-kilowatt exciters, and complete switching and control equipment for both engine room and pilot house control stations. The bulk of the equipment will be manufactured at the East Pittsburgh plant.

Foster Addresses Aspinwall Legion

Judge D. Paulson Foster addressed the Aspinwall Post of the American Legion last night on "Causes of Child Delinquency." He said that in 1930 there were approximately 300,000 children in the public schools of Allegheny County, 160,000 of whom were in Pittsburgh schools, and that the number of truants in Pittsburgh schools between May 1, 1929, and July 1, 1930, were 1,476.

Railroad Lease Blocks Wharf Beautifying Plan

RAILROAD LEASE BALKS WHARF BEAUTY PLAN

Sponsor of Proposal Will Seek Permit by B. & O. To Proceed With Project

The plan of the Helping Hand Society to beautify the Monongahela River Wharf between Grant and Smithfield streets with unemployed labor met a setback when it was announced the section is leased by the city to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Dr. Alexander Gibson, who formulated the plan to City Council, said today he intended seeking permission of the railroad to proceed with the beautification program.

Dr. Gibson appeared before Council last week and asked permission to let inmates of the Helping Hand Hotel do the work with no expense to the city. He was informed yesterday that the section was leased to the Baltimore and Ohio.

Public Works Director Lang is in favor of the Helping Hand's wharf beautification project, he said. Brick from the Noblestown road was to be used in repaving there.

Meanwhile Council took no action on Lang's request for $30,000 to repave the wharf from Market street to Exchange way, pending outcome of the Helping Hand's conference with the railroad officials.

SERBIANS ELECT OHIO MAN

Walter Jokovich, of Cambridge, O., was elected president of the Serb National Federation yesterday at the first business sessions of the convention in Memorial Hall. Robert Miloyevich, of Chicago, and Daniel Komad, of Butte, Mont., were elected vice presidents. Further business sessions will be held daily during the remainder of the week.

The 152 delegates will be conducted on a tour of the Pittsburgh district Saturday morning by the Svenis Club. The delegates will be the guests of St. Sava Lodge Sunday afternoon at an outing in McKeesport. There will be a dance at Webster Hall Friday night.

Phila. Begins Vote Machine Installing

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia County Commissioners yesterday announced a start of their plans to install voting machines for the primary and municipal elections next fall. Consolidation of many of Philadelphia's 1,587 election divisions, under provisions of the bill signed recently by Gov. Pinchot, also is part of the plan.

ASK CITY PAY STORM LOSS

An aftermath of the storm that swept over Pittsburgh last week has appeared in City Council in the form of a bill for $13,000, as the result of damage to homes on the South Side allegedly caused by faulty city sewers.

Nineteen property owners on Handler street, Mary street and Harcums way have presented the bill.

The city sewers, they charged, have been clogged up for years. During the downpour last Friday flood waters poured into cellars of the complaintants' homes.

As a result, they alleged, foundations of houses were weakened, cellars were damaged and contents destroyed.

President of Council John S. Herron said it was likely that the city solicitor would be asked for an opinion on the case.

Clark's Murder Trial Date Set

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—(AP.)—Superior Judge William C. Doran has set August 3 as the date for the trial of David H. Clark, accused of slaying Charles H. Crawford and Herbert Spencer, political figures, May 20.

WOMEN VOTERS ASK CONTRACT REFORMS

League Submits New Plan For Garbage Collection; Council Scans Proposal

Awarding of the garbage and rubbish contract for 1932 in a manner to permit competitive bidding is asked of City Council by the League of Women Voters in a communication to be acted upon today.

Containers to be placed at busy intersections, street car stops and at schools to hold papers and debris that might otherwise be spread over the sidewalks are advocated.

The League also suggested that a more efficient system of collection be devised by Health Director Charles B. Maits. Should this plan be carried out, the League said, a lower contract price ought to be secured.

The present collection system, they declared, is for the householder to place the rubbish in sacks for collection. The debris later is placed in an open top dump wagon. High winds blow papers and other litter over the streets.

The League's plan is to have metal containers left at each home. When these are filled they should be hauled away. At the same time, the collector could leave an empty can at each house.

The proposition will be discussed in finance committee today.

OFFICIALS GET OUSTER NOTICE

Registration commissioners reported last Thursday to have been dropped by Gov. Pinchot have received official notice of their discharge in letters from the Governor.

They are Alderman W. A. Means and J. Scott Morgan, Republicans, and Jamees F. Kirk, Dmocrat, the other Democrat member, Thomas A. Joyce, was retained.

The new oppointees are John K. Morrow, newspaper writer, and Mrs. Sara C. Braun, Republicans, and Maj. E. Lowry Humes, Democrat. Mrs. Braun was vice chairman of the Twenty-ninth Ward's committee for James F. Malone for Mayor.

The condition of Helen Jackavack, 19, a domestic in the home of B. C. Wuersch, at 227 Lemoyne avenue, Mt. Lebanon, who suffered a probable skull fracture yesterday in a fall from the second floor of the house while cleaning windows, was regarded as serious in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

VOTE MACHINE INSPECTED

The new voting machines are all right, but they need the services of an interior decorator, in the opinion of more than one of the women voters who inspected the sample machine on display in the Union Trust Building arcade yesterday. One is of the opinion that:

"The curtain is not at all attractive. It doesn't harmonize with the machine."

Others complain that people with poor eyesight are going to have difficulty reading the names of the candidates.

Still others think the machines will be too slow, "because they will have to explain how they work."

They all agreed that the new machine is interesting.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 30.

No news today as big as this Post and Gatty flight, which is making this world of ours look like the size of a watermelon. This pilot Post is an old one-eyed Oklahoma boy. He has just got that good eye glued on the horizon and he is going to find that horizon if it meets the earth anywhere. And Gatty, this reformed Australian "Brumby and Wombath" (you boys that didn't go to Oxford are lost in another maze of intellect), well, this Gatty—just give him a compass and one peek at the giant dipper and he can tell you where you are even if you ain't there. PICKET RULING MODIFIED Picketing in the bakers' strike is allowed to a limited extent under an order in Common Pleas Court, modifying the injunction granted by Judge Samuel H. Gardner to Arthur and Bennie Abelson against the Bakers and Confectioners' Union, Locals 44 and 242.

The order followed an agreement by opposing counsel whereby union pickets will be allowed to stand at street intersections near the stores and bakeries of the Abelsons on Logan street, Hill district, and Frazier street, Oakland, but must remain on the curb or close to buildings so as not to interfere with workers or pedestrians.

Firecracker Sends Boy to Hospital

Struck in the stomach by the premature explosion of a firecracker, John Batchen, 13, of Trautman street, Munhall, was treated for burns late yesterday in the Homestead Hospital.

Joseph Skatinak, 15, of 230 Twenty-first street, Munhall, was given first aid at the same hospital after he fell while playing near his home and ran a nail into his left leg.

AMBRIDGE BOYS HELD IN THEFT

Two brothers were held by Ambridge police today for questioning in connection with the robbery of the McKelvey garage at 1011 Maplewood avenue, Ambridge, after, police say, part of the loot was recovered at their home late yesterday.

The youths, Stanley Perlakowski, 20, and his brother, Steve, 19, of 584 Fifteenth street, Ambridge, are alleged to have stolen automobile accessories valued at $200 from the garage a week ago, police say.

Small Investor Made Smaller By Profit Dip

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Don't confuse this with a healthy reaction from which there is no recovery.

Last week Wall street pulled the frog-jumping-out-of-the-well stunt. It hopped up 10 points and slid back five.

Those five points mean a profit dip. The bays skim the cream off the gravy. This causes stocks to drop a little.

Which naturally affects the public. But the white man burden is much easier when the bag is empty.

That's what makes the small investor smaller. He dosen't know just when these profit dips are coming off. Every time he stick his head out of a window to look around the train is in a tunnel.

Wall street prosperity will be marked by a series of these profit dips. If you guess right you are on velvet and if you guess wrong you are swimming with the other catfish up Salt Creek.

TRUCK WRECKS SHOP, DRIVER ARRESTED

North Braddock Motorist Dies in Fall; Woman Injured in Bus Crash

One man was killed and two were injured when an automobile in which they were riding plunged down a hill along the O'Donnell boulevard near the Dooker Hollow Bridge, North Braddock, last night.

The accident occurred, police say, when an automobile driven by Michael Disco, 24, of 918 Whitaker road, ran off the road after lights on the machine went out. Disco was killed instantly. John Gorbel, 19, of 1020 North avenue, North Braddock, and a brother, Joseph, 25, of 631 Walnut street, were treated at Braddock General Hospital for body bruises and lacerations.

WOMAN HURT IN BUS

Mrs. Sara Starkey, of 6915 McPherson boulevard, was reported to be seriously injured in an accident near Berlin, N. J., last night. She was a passenger on a bus bound for Atlantic City, when the bus crashed into the rear of a large truck. She suffered cuts about the legs and scalp and was taken to a Berlin hospital. Six others were treated by a physician.

A fire plug was broken off and a barber shop wrecked early today when a truck ran over the pavement and crashed into a building at Forty-fifth street and Garden way. Eugene Keane, 19, of 386 Bowery way, and Louis Jones, 24, of 4747 Liberty avenue, riding on the truck, were cut and bruised.

DRIVER ARRESTED

Police arrested Keane on charges of being a suspicious person and with violating the automobile laws. They alleged that he did not have either owner's or driver's license and that he was intoxicated. Jone detained at St. Francis Hospit was charged with being a su cious person.

The truck, owned by Joseph Gearheart, of 4729 Yew street, broke a fire plug at Forty-fifth street and Liberty avenue and then turned into Forty-fifth street and struck a building owned by Frank Apolla, damaging the barber shop front $400.

STREET PLAN ACTION DUE

An ordinance to widen parts Fifth avenue in the Fourth, Seventh and Fourteenth Wards w to be acted upon by a Counc manic committee today.

MEMBERS OF "OUR GANG" (TWO MISSING), NIAGARA STREET . . . THEY SAVED PENNIES FOR LICENSE FOR THIS STRAY DOG

Oakland Juvenile 'Gang' Adopts Stray Pup

Twelve children and their "Auntie Att" are now the lawful owners of "Wickie," a stray dog who wandered into their midst four months ago. They all live in the vicinity of Niagara and Lawn streets, Oakland.

The children adopted "Wickie" wholeheartedly. They fed him and bathed him and took turns at providing shelter for him—and "Wickie" adopted them with equal eagerness. He appointed himself escort and bodyguard.

Recently, the dogcatcher appeared, and to the horror of the children, he picked up three dogs. Seeking to protect "Wickie," they sought the advice of F. A. Fakler, of 382 Lawn street, Oakland, who suggested that they get the dog a license. Within 20 minutes the group had collected 95 cents, and "Auntie Att" donated the necessary nickel.

Yesterday, Fakler got the license, registering the owners at the city treasurer's office as "Our Gang et al," which includes Betty Cary, 9; Dorothy Fakler, 3; Billy Roman, 9; Florence Roman, 11; Bernice Ward, 8; Billy Ward, 11; Betty Rudavsky, 11; Billy Rudavsky, 13; Arthur Rudavsky, 2; Julia Shack, 11; Annie Shack, 5; Ace Cary, 16, and "Auntie Att," or Miss Agnes Cannon, 61.

Having achieved the first step in protecting "Wickie," the present ambition of "Our Gang et al" is to get him a collar for his tag.

Court Battle Over Dog Arouses Judge's Ire

Dispute over the ownership of a brown Pekinese dog is not an important subject for the attention of the courts, according to an opinion by Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court, in the suit of Mrs. Josephine B. Sable, of Murdoch street, against Richard Murray, of Crafton.

Judge Patterson awarded the dog to Mrs. Sable. She brought it to Pittsburgh from New York and permitted it to roam without a license until a policeman, "either in excessive zeal or of tender solicitude fearlessly took it into custody," according to the opinion. Murray obtained the dog from the Animal Rescue League on condition he would return it to the owner if claimed, the opinion stated. Judge Patterson wrote:

"The affidavit of value filed appraises the dog at $250. This may be. But, if canine pulchritude, fond affection, good manners, useful service or any of the other factors that make a dog the best friend of man are to be considered, it seems to us that a brown Pekinese of unsung ancestry is about as futile a thing to engage the machinery of courts as might be conceived. A little discretion and sound judgment might have settled the differences."

COUNCIL URGED TO SPEED CITY AUTO POUND

Better Traffic Committee Seeks Action on Garage For Cars Towed by Police

Recommendations that the city make haste in obtaining a municipal garage for impounding automobiles figuring in traffic violations were made to Council today by the Better Traffic Committee.

At the same time an offer to lease or sell a garage at Forty-fourth and Post streets for a municipal garage was made to Council by Frederick G. Battaglia. The structure, he told the Councilmen, is 75 feet wide and 100 feet long and has a capacity for many cars. There are entrances from two elevations.

Battaglia requested that Councilmen visit the site.

Pressure to have the city operate its own impounding garage was brought to bear from many sides after motorists complained to Council and Public Safety Director James M. Clark that their machines were damaged during towed to garages operated under contract. Valuable articles were stolen from the cars they asserted.

Under the present system the motorist whose machine has been towed from the triangle must first go several blocks to the automobile division of the Detective Bureau at First avenue and Water street. After obtaining release he must journey to one of the private garages in the Hill district to regain his car. After paying a release charge of $3.35.

PLAN ADDITION TO HOSPITAL

Plans for an addition to South Side Hospital are moving forward, with tentative subscriptions totaling approximately $800,000, it was learned today from J. E. Roph, president of he Fourteenth Street Bank and president of the hospital board.

Roph said the board already has obtained sufficient property on which to build a 100-bed addition to the present structure, but was delaying definite action because of present economic conditions.

The building program has been under consideration for five years, Roph said. The additional property has been purchased during the past two years.

Boy Riding on Log In River Drowns

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 20.—The heat wave claimed its first victim in Greene County late yesterday when Abraham Marnod, 7, was drowned in the Monongahela River at Nemacolin while three youthful companions looked on, powerless to aid him.

Unable to swim, the youth had ridden a railroad tie beyond his depth and drowned when the tie upset, a coroner's report said.

KAUFMANN PLAY SCHOOL OPENS

More than 200 Hill district children attended the opening of the Summer Play School at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement house yesterday. At 10:30 a. m. they lined up in the playground for their morning milk and graham crackers.

There is an assembly every morning with a presentation of colors and a salutation and pledge to the flag. On Mondays there is group singing of original songs about the play school; on Tuesdays, stunts; Wednesdays, a health program dramatization; Thursdays, civic study, and Fridays, story telling.

Trips have been planned to the Roosevelt Hotel, H. J. Heinz Company, a ball game, the Stanley theater, the Colonial Biscuit Company, D. L. Clark Candy Company and Rieck-McJunkins. At the end of the season, parents and friends will be invited to an exhibit of children's work. A Village Fair will complete the summer's activities.

VISCOUNT QUITS LIBERAL POST

WOOLER, NORTHUMBERLAND, England, June 30.—(AP.)—Viscount Allendale who is in camp here with the Northumberland Hussars said today he had written to Sir Archibald Sinclair, chief Liberal whip, resigning his post as treasurer of the Liberal party.

Several members of the Liberal party have announced recently their independence of the party organization. Among them are Sir John Simon, Sir Robert Hutchinson and Lord Rosebery.

Father, Mother Held In Abducting Son

CAMDEN, N. J., June 30.—(INS.)—Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Prevost, of this city, were held today by police to await action of New York authorities on charges of abducting their 2-year-old son from the home of his guardian. The couple were accused by Miss Marion Gilmore, 36, of New York, the child's aunt, who declared she adopted the boy, Edmund, Jr., because his father, who is a cripple, could not find employment.

Wilson, at 5316 Ellsworth avenue, tomorrow morning. Burial will be private. Mr. Connolly was born in Pittsburgh and for the last 21 years had been employed by the Bell Telephone Company. He had lived in Detroit four years. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Martha Connolly; five children, a brother and eight sisters.

VISITORS CALL SCHOOL MEET

Former members of the recently disbanded Boards of School Visitors are to meet in the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 o'clock tonight, to discuss reorganization of their groups into a voluntary association functioning on a city-wide scale.

The meeting, called by Mrs. Ethel C. Mueller, secretary of the former Twenty-seventh Ward visitors' board, was expected to pave the way for resumption of work early in the fall school term.

The new set-up was expected to include voluntary associations in each of the 32 wards, all members of a parent association representing all Pittsburgh. A committee of the central association was to be chosen to report recommendations and suggestions of the individual groups to the Board of Education, monthly.

Heavy Tides Halt Divers Gold Hunt

BREST, France, June 30.—(AP.)—After 10 days of successful operations, divers from the salvage ship Artiglio II, who are seeking to recover a shipment of gold from the sunken Oriental liner Egypt, were forced to abandon their work temporarily today by strong tides. They planned to continue their work tomorrow.

By dynamiting the Egypt's superstructure, the divers said that they had reached the upper deck. They hope to reach the treasure in the hold before the end of the year.

Bulgarian Premier Forms New Cabinet

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 30.—(AP.)—Premier Kantcho Malinoff, appointed to succeed Former Premier Andrey Liaptcheff, formed a new cabinet yesterday composed of three Democrats, three Agrarians, two Liberals and one Radical.

Gen. Kissoff, minister of war, was the only member of the old cabinet to succeed himself. Premier Malinoff combined the foreign ministry with his own position.

The $12,000 estate of J. H. Fox, who died in Crafton, was divided equally among his four children according to the terms of the will probated today. The beneficiaries are C. A. Fox, Mrs. Emma J. Murphy, Mrs. Margaret Merchant and Mrs. Anna L. Sellers.

ZION CONGRESS SHORTENED

BASLE, June 30.—(AP.)—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported that shortly before the seventeenth Zionist Congress was to open tonight, the Zionist Actions Committee, by a majority vote, sharply curtailed the agenda of the congress and reduced the number of days it will be in session from 11 to seven.

The sudden change was the result of a recommendation by Richard Lichtheim, leader of the German revisionists, who introduced a resolution asking the actions committee to cut the program by curtailing the time allotted to speeches and discussion.

Louis Lipsky, former president of the Zionist Organization of America, will be the American member of the new actions committee. Judge Julian W. Mack was elected as the American member of the Presidium.

YOUNG'S P. S. C. TERM EXPIRES

HARRISBURG, June 30.—Gov. Pinchot after midnight will have two vacancies on the Public Service Commission to be filled. The term of Commissioner Charles H. Young, of New Castle, expires as of July 1.

Commissioner Young was named to the board by former Gov. Fisher for an unexpired term.

During the closing days of the General Assembly, Commissioner James S. Benn resigned. No appointment has been made to fill the Benn vacancy.

At the time Benn quit, it was reported that Gov. Pinchot intended naming George W. Woodruff, special utility counsel attached to the Governor's office, to the commission. The name of Harold Evans, Philadelphia, a former commissioner and counsel for the House committee that investigated the commission, has been mentioned for one of the vacancies.

Shoe Shop Patrons Rob Place After Being Fitted

The men visited a shoe store three blocks from City Hall during the evening rush hour and after being fitted with "the best shoes in the house" robbed the store of $150 in cash, locked the manager and clerks in the basement and escaped while hundreds of persons passed the establishment.

POPE COUNSELS PILGRIMS

VATICAN CITY, June 30.—(AP.)—In an address to pilgrims from Malta the Pope today touched on the controversy between the Italian government and himself and reaffirmed his lack of faith in men and full trust in God in the working out of the situation.

Referring to clashes between the church and the government in Malta the Holy Father told the pilgrims he had for them words which applied to their own situation. He said:

"In this moment when even you have need of the particular intervention of providence our words are those which the whole world knows.

"These words are words of faith in the help of God because all the world knows that we need it more when we can so little hope for the help of men."

R. C. A. PATENT PLOT CHARGED

WILMINGTON, Del., June 30.—(AP.)—A bill of complaint alleging that the Radio Corporation of America has assumed managing control of a patents pool was filed in the Federal District Court here today by the Poughkeepsie Gold Seal Electric Corporation, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The bill alleges that Radio Corporation of America has entered into conspiracy with the Western Electric Company, United Fruit Company, General Electric Company, and American Telephone and Telegraph Company to monopolize the manufacture of radio sets and to lessen competition in interstate and foreign commerce.

The court is asked to enjoin Radio Corporation of America from utilizing any of the patents or other rights of the individual members of the alleged combination and also from continuing managing control of the combination.

DEATH FOLLOWS ROBBER GANG'S VISIT TO HOME

Johnstown Shoe Merchant, Convalescing After Stroke, Dies From Chloroforming

Death followed in the wake of a robber gang who chloroformed Louis Zang, 56, Johnstown shoe merchant, in his home 10 day sago.

Zang, convalescing from a stroke, when the robbers entered and chloroformed him and his nurse, never recovered from the experience and died yesterday.

The robbery of the Zang residence was the aftermath of the robbery of the home of J. A. Langfitt, 111 Yorkshire road, Homewood, two days earlier, according to police.

Mrs. Zang and Mrs. Langfitt are cousins.

Be Cautious

when offered a substitute for Kotex

SOME day you'll be tempted to try a substitute for Kotex. It may look the same.

But where was this substitute made? How? By whom? What do you know of its cleanliness—would a hospital consider it safe to use?

All these things, you see, are implied in the careless phrase, "just like Kotex." That is why you must be careful. Kotex is adjustable. It is treated to deodorize.

The safe thing to do is to insist on Kotex. Genuine Kotex. Then you know you're safe. Kotex is used by hospitals from coast to coast.

U. S. BOAT LAW UNCHANGED BY STATE ACT

Federal Registration of Small Craft Necessary Despite New Legislation

The new state law regulating operation of motor boats on all inland waters in Pennsylvania, which becomes effective tomorrow, does not relieve owners of such craft from the necessity of registering their boats with the federal government.

The Federal act, in effect since 1918, is in no way modified by the new state act, according to S. H. Thompson, in charge of the United States Customs House, before whom government registration must be made.

While no license fee is necessary the Federal act requires that every ower of a motorboat more than 16 feet in length equipped with an outboard motor and of every motorboat with a built-in motor must procure a number at the Customs House to display on each side of the bow.

The Federal act provides heavy penalities for violations of the government navigation laws, operators of motor craft being liable to fines of $100 each for not being equipped with life preservers, having no running lights, no fog horn, fire extinguishers, or not having a copy of pilot rules aboard.

Under the state act all motorboats using internal combustion engines, will have to pay $1 for each cylinder in the engine for a license to navigate inland waters, and a penalty of $25 to $100 or 30 days in jail is provided for failure to display state license number on each side of the boats, along with the government registration numbers.

GARDEN CAVES, WOMAN HURT

Mrs. Anne Hadalin, of Library, is recovering after being hurled into a pit when the ground gave way while working in her garden. Mrs. Hadalin fell 20 feet into a new entry room of Montour Mine No. 10.

Texas Town Saved From Timber Fire

GLADEWATER, Tex., June 30.—(AP.)—The menace of a timber fire which threatened to destroy this oil boom town had passed today. A 20-acre tract of woods at the outskirts, thoroughly sprayed last week by a wild oil gusher, was fired yesterday, but concentration of municipal fire fighting equipment confined the fire to the timber.

Bachelor Governor Proposes Pay Cut

ATLANTA, June 30.—(AP.)—The Georgia Legislature today considered the recommendations of Richard B. Russell, Jr., new 33-year-old bachelor governor, that all state salaries be cut 5 to 10 per cent for the next two years and that his own term as governor be shortened by six months.

South American Countries in Winter's Grip

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, June 30.—(AP.)—Brazilians are shivering in one of the first cold waves of the South American winter. The cold was felt in all the country from Rio De Janiero southward. Heavy overcoats were in evidence in contrast with the lighter clothing which appeared with Saturday's high temperature.

Heavy frosts were reported from the interior and it was believed coffee crops of Sao Paulo had been damaged 25 per cent.

Woman Racer Shuns Hearing on Divorce

AUBURN, Me., June 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Ricker, noted dog-sled racer and writer, did not appear to contest divorce proceedings instituted by her husband, E. P. Ricker, Jr., heard behind closed doors in court here yesterday. The action charged cruel and abusive treatment. Decision was reserved.

DRYS RAID 20 N. Y. RESORTS

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Ninety new federal prohibition agents early today raided 20 speakeasies, restaurants and cordial shops and arrested 32 men on charges of liquor violations.

Police stations reported they were unable to keep a correct record of the government's seizures, because of the large quantities of liquor which continued to arrive in the police escorted trucks.

KILLING BLAMED ON INSULTS

Insults alleged to have been hurled at one of two Negro girls as they passed his automobile, parked in front of the Elks lodge, Market street, McKeesport, with their escorts, early today cost the life of J. W. McTee, 30, formerly of 1030 North Canal street, Sharpsburg, according to a coroner's report.

McKeesport police, with Deputy Coroner Ray Sellers and County Detective David Drexler, arrested the two girls and their escorts shortly after McTee's body was found in his machine, the report said.

According to the deputy coroner, David Hefling, 15, of 135 Mary alley, McKeesport, admitted to the police he had cut McTee with a razor after McTee, he said, insulted one of the girls. The youth said, it was alleged, that he hurled a brick at McTee, and that when McTee tried to jump out of his car, the other two Negroes held him while the third cut him.

McTee had been employed by the R. H. Cunningham & Sons Construction Company at the new County Airport in Mifflin Township.

EXPERT BEFORE STARR JURY

NEW YORK, June 30.—(INS.)—A formal report in which a handwriting expert held that the suicide letters of Starr Faithfull were genuine was submitted to the Nassau County grand jury when the investigation of the girl's death was resumed today.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards said the investigation was not yet complete. He said:

"There are two days in the girl's life that are entirely blank, except for a visit to a beauty parlor, and we want to learn where she was on these two days in the final week of her life."

URGE WIDENING OF BOULEVARD

Widening of the roadway and sidewalks on Sawmill Run boulevard from a tunnel south of Woodruff street to Banksville avenue is asked of Council by the Public Works Department in legislation to be acted upon today. The boulevard would be widened to 80 feet, with a 40-foot roadway. Two-ton foot sidewalks would run along each side.

Director Lang also asked permission to grade, pave and curb Candace street, from Broadway to Shiras avenue, to cost $33,000. Property damages, he pointed out, would be $1,000 of the estimated cost, $22,000 would be assessed against the property owners and $11,000 to the city. Lang also asked consideration of these projects:

Repaving of Forty-first street, from Butler street to Foster street, to cost $11,000. Lang said the thoroughfare was paved in 1898 and is beyond repair.

Sewer in Hunt street and Glen Mawr avenue, to cost $9,200.

Burglar Routed In North Side Home

A burglar was routed early today from the home of B. R. Grant, 3536 Brighton road, by a member of the household, who heard noises on the first floor and investigated, police reported. The intruder, who entered by way of a side window, obtained no loot.

Scene of Fight In Collier Street

The fight in which Jack Whasmuse, Negro, was said to have been struck on the head with a candlestick by his wife, Mrs. Edna Whasmuse, 24, occurred at 1100 Collier street, Homewood, not 7412 Monticello street, as originally reported yesterday.

'Distress' Deportees Among Aliens Being Sent Home

A deportation party of 21 aliens last night was placed aboard a train at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station, and today will be delivered to immigration officials at Ellis Island, New York, to await deportation to their native countries. The party was conducted East by inspectors under W. H. Marshall, director of immigration in the Pittsburgh district.

In the party were six natives of Scotland and two of Italy who were voluntary deportees under the distress feature of the immigration regulations. Among them were Alexander Douglis, 25, and his wife, Mrs. Helen Douglis, 26, and their 10-month-old American-born child.

The couple came to America two years ago. Douglis was a mill worker, but due to his faiure to obtain employment, he and his wife asked to be returned to Scotland.

Among the other 13 being deported were several men who had entered the United States illegally and were arrested in the Pittsburgh district. Five are being returned to Czechoslovakia, and one each to the Irish Free State, Greece, Spain, Arabia, Poland, France, Italy and Jugoslovia.

Boy Forgotten, In Jail Five Years

A turnkey in a Detroit prison told officials about a youth who cried himself to sleep in his cell every night. Investigation showed he was Edward Hargott, 17, an orphan immigrant from Poland. His father was killed in the World War and his mother died in Canada a year ago. The boy had slipped across the border and found work as a newsboy in Detroit. Soon afterward immigration officers picked him up and while awaiting deportation held him in jail where he was forgotten.

The final day of June, today, brings the final debutante party of the little season. And not until the Greensburg dog show on July 11 will there be another large gathering of society folks. Of course the fall will bring again debuts and weddings galore.

The last bud of summer is Cecelia McCormick, daughter of the John S. McCormicks, who is being presented to society at a tea given by her parents in the spacious new Fox Chapel Golf Club.

Before an embankment of cibotium ferns in the main lounge the deb and her mother are receiving. Summer flowers and the debutante's gift bouquets give a festive air to the event.

In Gown Of White

The debutante is wearing a charming gown of white mousseline de soie made with a full ruffled skirt, a tight-fitting bodice and quaint cap sleeves. Her hat is of lace and white straw. During the afternoon she'll carry different gift bouquets.

Mrs. McCormick has chosen a flowered chiffon in pinks and greens and biscuit shades made with a jacket of the same material and a hat of biscuit-colored straw.

Miss Ruth Crago Philadelphia Man Marry

The marriage of Miss Ruth Constance Crago, of Waynesburg, daughter of Mrs. T. S. Crago and the late Congressman T. S. Crago, to Eugene Samuel Ovenshine, of Philadelphia, son of Col. and Mrs. A. T. Ovenshine, of Columbus, O., took place on Saturday evening in the Waynesburg Presbyterian Church. Officiating was the Rev. George S. Maxwell, pastor.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a jabot of rose point. Her veil was of rose point, and she carried calla lilies. Mrs. Louis M. Waddell, of New Rochelle, was her sister's matron of honor, wearing turquoise blue soisette muslin, with a pink sash, and carrying pink and yellow rose and delphinium. The bridesmaids, Miss Abigale Hoge, Miss Helen Parkinson, of Waynesburg; Miss Lillian Scott, of Philadelphia, and Miss Mary L. Ovenshine, of Columbus, O., sister of the bridegroom, all wore gowns of blue soisette muslin, with pink sashes, and carried pink larkspur and roses. The bride's mother wore blue chantilly lace.

Lieut. Richard Ovenshine, of West Point, was his brother's best man, and the ushers included Henry D. Morris, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y.; Henry C. Givan, Jr., and Thomas Kavany, of Pittsburgh, and Louis M. Waddell, of New Rochelle.

In Bridal Party

The church and altar were decked with spring flowers in high standards and urns, supplemented by tapers in tall candleabra.

The bride attended the Holton-Arms School, Washington; Ogontz School, Philadelphia; is a graduate of Waynesburg College and for the past year has attended Columbia University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Cornell University.

Mrs. M. H. Nolan, of North Negley avenue, sails today on the Corinthia to Iceland and Norway. She will also take a Russian cruise and visit Carlsbad, Austria, Hungary and France.

Accounting Held One Of Women's Professions

UTICA, N. Y.—(INS.)—Accounting is one of the coming professions for women in the opinion of Miss Mary J. Reggs, Utica, N. Y., the only woman comptroller in the National Association of Cost Accountants. She was a bookkeeper when she was 15, and has been employed with one concern for the past 32 years. Only women with mathematical minds should become accountants, she said.

PARIS.—Informal jacket costumes are being donned for every hour of the day from the time of the morning walk to evening jazz.

They come in every material the French fabricmakers ever dreamed of, many of them in the new tricot, closely-woven and looking very much like tweeds; speckled fabrics, tussore in pale colors with black spot, shantungs and shirtings.

Silk pique makes all of a very neat suit; the skirt is in beige and the jacket dark brown with the blue tuckin blouse scalloped round the neckline.

Suitable for the cool morning walk is a cardigan suit of beige and white tweed, flecked with red and blue. A bodice of pink jersey comes with it.

G. E. Roosevelt to Sail Yacht in Ocean Race

NEW YORK.—George Emlen Roosevelt, a yachting enthusiast and member of the New York and Seawanhaka Yacht Club, plans to sail his schooner yacht Mistress in the race to be started soon from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, England.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who with her husband has spent sometime abroad, will remain in England to greet her husband on his arrival. The Roosevelts expect to spend the late summer at their home at Oyster Bay.

Bertha Cooper Becomes Bride of Philadelphian

Miss Bertha Cooper, daughter of Mrs. Dora Cooper, of Oakland, became the bride of Samuel Young, son of Mrs. Gussie Young, of Philadelphia, on Sunday afternoon, June 21, in Ambassadore Hall, Philadelphia.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, and was attended by her sister, Miss Zelda Cooper, as maid of honor. Abe Young served as his brother's best man. There was a wedding dinner and reception later for the families.

Cotton Evening Dresses Enjoy Success in Paris

PARIS.—New crinks for summer come by way of cotton evening dresses which are having great success in Paris.

Goupy makes a lovely garden-party frock in white batiste and broderie anglaise. Over it comes a jacket of embroidery making it a frock that can be worn for many different occasions. A black crinoline braid hat, black belt, gloves and pumps are worn with it.

Another of the dressmakers of the Rue de la Paix uses yellow organdie and English eyelet embroidery that is particularly smart and cool for summer dancing. The belt is a twisted strand of organdie.

All-lace blouses, made of heavy Irish crochet, Cluny and Venetian laces are forecast for wear with the autumn and winter tailored suit which is going to have great popularity this season.

Little bed-jackets have flaring peplums and long flowing sleeves to accompany nighties which have short trains.

Luxurious satins, georgettes and crepes come for lingerie which is very much trimmed with laces of finest texture. The newest lingerie colors verge on the blue-green of the sea, but pale pinks and rose tones, soft yellow and light blue are also popular.

Members of Maidstone Club Reviving Teas

NEW YORK.—At East Hampton, members of the Maidstone Club are reviving Wednesday afternoon teas, popular a generation ago. Mrs. Clifford H. McCall, chairman of the woman's golf committee, is in charge, with Mrs. Irving H. Taylor. The teas are held on the lawn after putting matches.

Pittsburgh Branch of National Guild Disposes of Blooms Through 27 Agencies

The Pittsburgh Branch of the National Plant, Fruit and Flower Guild opened its summer distributing station in the Nixon Theater lobby yesterday. Miss Helena Beegle is again director of the station, from which flowers will go out to shut-ins each morning (excepting Saturday and Sunday) for the next three months.

Distribution is made through 27 agencies which include Soho Community House, Humane Society, Crippled Children's Home, Goodwill Industries, Woods Run, Brashear, Irene Kaufmann and Kingsley House Settlements, Public Health Nursing Association, Florence Crittenton Home, Wylie Avenue Library, Jewish Family Welfare Association, Bureau for Jewish Children, Girls' Welfare League, Home for Working Girls, St. Regis Home, Tuberculosis, Passavant, St. Margaret's and St. Francis Hospitals, Mothers' Assistance Association, Leech Farm, Urban League, Volunteers of America, International Institute and Lutheran Inner Mission.

Not only is the local unit engaged in sending cheer into cheerless lives through this daily distribution of cut flowers, but the members have planted red geraniums along the entrance path at the Home for Aged Colored Women in Lemington avenue and boxes of the same cheerful blooms on the second floor porches so that the bedfast residents unable to see the flowers below may catch a glimpse of them there. In cooperation with the Urban League, the Guild is directing the children of Wandless street in a clean-up and plant-up campaign and Tiny Tim gardens have also been planted at the Goodwill Industries, at Torrance House, the Home for Blind Girls on the North Side and the Home for Colored Girls in St. Francis street.

Plant Flowers

Mrs. Harry Gilmore Samson is still chairman of the local branch.

Word comes from San Francisco that the National Federation of Music Club in annual session there has re-elected Mrs. T. C. Donovan, of Pittsburgh, as treasurer of the organization. Mrs. Donovan is president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs and a past president of the Tuesday Musical Club.

Pittsburgh Nurses Club Holds Boat Ride Tonight

The Nurses Club of Pittsburgh and the Sixth District Graduate Nurses Association will hold their annual excursion on the steamer Washington tonight. The boat leaves the Wood street wharf at 8:30 o'clock.

Assisting Jane A. McQuade, general chairman, are Edna Wagner and Mary E. Walton. On the reception committee are C. Ruth Bower, Jessie J. Turnbull, Lottie Darling, Jennie Manley, Adelaide Cushing, Mary Metz, Mary J. Miller, Julia Cotter and Mrs. J. E. Roth. The ticket committee is composed of Teresa Vogel and Margaret Irlbacher. On the door committee is Ethel Wagner as chairman, assisted by Clara Baker, Rose Cunningham and Catherine Dillon.

Bride and Bridegroom Both Late for Wedding

LONDON.—(INS.)—Being late for one's own wedding may become fashionable if the example of two aristocratic families spreads. Prince Max Karl Joseph Maria zu Hohenlohe-Langenberg, 29, was married to Signorina Luigia Pasquero, 33, at a registrar's office. The bride was 20 minutes late. The bridegroom came half an hour late. They had rushed to England from the continent in order to marry quickly. Prince Max is head of the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. The bride is a member of an old Savoy family. They will live at Mentone, where the prince has a villa.

FOSTER HOUSE WORK PLANNED

Plans were under way today for redecoration and renovation of the music room of the Stephen C. Foster Memorial, 3600 Penn avenue, by the Civic Club.

Council yesterday granted the organization permission to do the work in time to conduct a musical there during the convention of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. The expense will be met by the club.

Penn Dean to Speak At Commerce Meet

Dr. Solomon S. Huebner, dean of the American College of Life Underwriters, and professor of insurance at the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania, will discuss "Business Risks and How to Meet Them" at a luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday. Dr. Huebner is regarded as a leading authority on the practical application of finance and economics.

A New Foundation That Stays Put When You Sit, Stand or Bend Over

NuBack

MADAM LaMONT, famous Corsetiere Stylist, will demonstrate, on living models, Nu-Back Corsetry here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday

Here's the miracle you've often wished for—corsetry that won't ride up. Nu-Back is made with a "jointed" back, the top section moves with your body, the lower section stays where it belongs. And there's no pressure on the diaphragm when you're seated.

NU-BACK FOUNDATIONS
—the style pictured, our finest. It's $6.50 or more at other stores. Try it on . . . do your daily dozen . . . feel and see the difference.

There is a Nu-Back for every figure—foundations with or without inner belts; also girdles $2.98 to $4.95

CUSTER'S LAST STAND :-: Fay Templeton In New Broadcast

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 30.—Of all products advertised on the radio tobacco leads the list. And cigar manufacturers are crowding the cigaret makers in their dependence upon the microphone to boost their sales.

The tobacco tetrachs give little thought to the expense involved. It's really a case with them of "shoot the bankroll." Most of them rely upon music to get their message over, though one crowd varied the whoopia with a numerologist and even sought the detective story talent—negotiations were called off eventually—of playwrights Hecht and McArthur.

It would be just too bad for the broadcasters if an anti-cigaret law were nationally established... Yet, they'd probably sell their time somehow. Perhaps, to the dispensers of nut sundaes. Wonder if Kansas turns off tobacco programs. Best known of tobacco's propagandists on the air are B. A. Rolfe, Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit. They've been at it a long time and there's no break in sight. There is a break, however, in the air journeys of Paris' gift to America, M. Chevalier. Right now. A good test of memory is to try to recall the words of "Pagan Love Song."

* * *

Radio stars are still going strong for the theater . . . But not as strong as theater stars are going for radio . . . Radio has only a handful of big shots to offer to the stage, but the broadcasters keep on the hunt for more. They're having trouble finding a new personality who will capture the national eardrums . . . Anyway, they're becoming more grateful for past favors. They're actually celebrating the anniversary of Stephen Foster's birth . . .

The emirs of the ether have yet to uncover an expert on boxing who can gab excitingly and authoritatively, and a heavyweight bout is the biggest ear-catcher they have . . . Dempsey wouldn't do. His voice is too high, and he halts in his description . . . Wonder if they've looked very hard in the newsshops . . . It was in the newsshops they found Clem McCarthy and Bill Munday . . . Tornament brassie shots are now aired by experts. The experts do not include Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta barrister . . . Jones' broadcasts for a commercial sponsor were lacking in human interest . . . I imagine Walter Hagen would give a snappy spiel on the radio.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

The battle of Little Big Horn—Custer's Last Stand—is to be fought again tonight in the Chicago studios of NBC . . . Wallace Butterworth is to conjure the picture of Sitting Bull's surprise attack and massacre of General Custer and his picked army of cavalrymen . . . the actual battle lasted but 20 minutes . . . hear it on WCAE at 9 o'clock . . . Fay Templeton, famous comedienne, who has made her home in Pittsburgh for several years, is in New York tonight for the first of a new series of programs to be heard over KDKA at 10:15 . . . Alfred Wallenstein and His Virtuosos present another of their excellent concerts on WCAE at 8:30 . . . Wallenstein himself is to play a 'cello solo of the touching "Berceuse" from Godard's "Jocelyn" . . . Ethel and Dorothea Ponce are on KDKA at 8:30 . . . Ben Bernie is back in Chicago after a vaudeville tour (WJAS, 10) . . . Dr. Chao-Chu-Wu (thank you, printer) tells CBS-WJAS listeners at 10:15 why he resigned his post as Chinese Minister to the United States.

Question a Day:

Answer—He felt that he was not a success on the air. He forfeited nothing by failing to conclude his contract which expires in September. There was a protective clause permitting him to leave this country at his wish.

* * *

News of Chevalier's attitude was carried exclusively three weeks ago in Pittsburgh by the paper that "Tells It First."

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Pruett Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.

Young Man-About-Hollywood Joel McCrea is receiving serious attention these days from the producers.

While stardom still hangs fire, he has built up quite a fan following from his pictures with Dorothy Mackaill and with Constance Bennett; so much so, in fact that Radie has given him one of those coveted year without option contracts.

He'll be opposite Hope Williams when the Broadway star makes her first picture in the early fall. This will be a sophisticated comedy drama called Post - House, by John Howard Lawson, who writes his stories in the East and sends them to Hollywood by mail, is the author.

Joel McCrea "Holiday."

Miss Williams I need scarcely remind you is of "The New Yorkers" cast. And before that, of

MORE CANDOR

"You speak of candid advertising," wires Dave Hillman. "How about the billboard on the Fox studio which proclaims George O'Brien's next picture, "A Holy Terror?"

LATEST GOSSIP

Warner Baxter

Madge Evans confesses to have posed once for a brewery ad. Ah me! . . . Something new in this land of affirmatives is Warner Baxter's secretary, whom the star keeps to tell him when his pictures are bad . . . . The film folk are entertaining a party of Hawaiian princesses, all descendants of good Queen Lil. The island beauties are creating quite a furore in the smart dancing places . . . For his picture's sake Joe E. Brown travels to Lincoln, Neb., next Saturday to run 100 yards against Sprinter Frank Wycoff. There's an A. A. U. meet on tap. Joe's film is that old favorite, "The Poor Nut" . . . . Hobart Bosworth recalls the day when Director George Hill was his cameraman at $35 a week; Frances Marion, his stenographer, at $25, and Sidney Franklin, his assistant cameraman at $8 a week. And Sidney had to furnish Bosworth cigarets out of that.

IN ALL FAIRNESS

Some time ago this department quoted Rex Bailey as saying that owners of trained dogs are the most persistent callers at the R-K-O casting office.

Bailey received this indignant letter:

"Well, it might be true that few of them have broken their dignifiance, but you cannot deliver a proof that I ever was persistent at your office, or that I ever waited in a pose in front of your studio, yet I have the best dog in the game. For instance, my dog has worked in every studio except R-K-O, where a man needs friends first and ability afterwards."

There, now, Bill Le Baron. You see how it is.

WANDERER RETURNS

After working in almost every other studio, Conrad Nagel is hanging up his hat these days at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where he draws his weekly pay-check.

The reason is a part in "Hell Divers," formerly "Sea Eagles," in which Wallace Beery, Clark Gable and Marjorie Rambeau also are to be seen. Nagel recently did a part in "Son of India" at M. G. M., but he spends most of his time on loan to other companies.

For all of that, M. G. M. likes him, because he's been under contract there steadily since 1923.

Virtue Winner On Menke's Stage

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake" was the scornful retort of a sorely tried heroine in one of the by-gone melodramas, and we never expected again to hear such an honest declaration on the stage in these days of sophisticated drama. But thank heavings, there still is a stage where the good old homely virtues remain triumphant and glorious when the final curtain descends. That is Capt. Menke's stage on the Golden Rod show boat, where honesty and decency get their just reward and scheming villainy its just deserts.

That is proven in "Deserted at the Altar," which, according to the program is "not a motion picture." Not that we expected to see one, we just mention it, that's all. Anyway this "Deserted at the Altar" is another of those plays about rags and virtue and in it a sweet little gal has put up to her the choice of living in luxury and shame or poverty and decency.

GAL TO BE PROUD OF

And we're right proud of that little gal, for she immediately—without the least hesitation—spurns the opportunity to embrace luxury under such circumstances and chooses the course indicated by the "rags-are-royal" etc speech.

Also this is a play that has one of those old-fashioned Irishmen—heaven bless him, who always is around pretty well oiled when it doesn't make much difference about his condition, but with sobriety in good working order at such times as dirty work at the crossroads is in need of being cleaned up. We couldn't figure how he could have so much money with which to benefact, and still buy as much likker as he seemed to be in need of, but we're not going to be too finicky about such a small matter when he was such a swell guy on the side of virtue.

A MODERN VILLAIN

And another thing—it had a very modern villain—right out of the pages of New York history of the present—and maybe of some cities nearer home—a police official waxing rich from the commercialization of vice. But, of course, villainy doesn't pay in drama any more than it does in real life, so the dastard comes to a bad end as you might expect. And even repents, as you might expect.

Mixed up with all this exposition of virture triumphant and villainy defeated are several "specialties" between acts. They alone are worth the price of admission. So is the main part of the show, as a matter of fact.

Hospital Sale Fails To Attract Bidders

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—No one bid when the West Philadelphia General Homeopathic Hospital and its equipment was placed on sale yesterday. Receivers said they would attempt to get private interests to buy the place for $80,000 to cover indebtedness and mortgages.

Merchant Leaves $5,091,714 to Widow

MEDIA, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—John Barnes Haverford coal merchant, left an estate of $5,091,714 when he died July 3, 1930, an inventory filed here disclosed. The estate was left in trust for his widow. If she remarries it will be divided between her and four children.

Elissa Landi Warner Star

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Elissa Landi, Fox Studio's dramatic pride and joy, is appearing in the Warner in her second film, "Always Goodbye."

Remember her first—"Body and Soul"?

This time Miss Landi is seen as a cultured young woman, who always finds that she must say goodbye to the things she wants most.

In an effort to escape poverty and mice, she sets out from London on a questionable venture, with a good-looking rogue. They land on an estate in Italy. She falls in love with their host and her escort turns out to be a gentleman burglar.

Scotland Yard is on the trail. The film takes a couple of melodramatic dips. The happy rainbow spreads all over the place. It is the finale.

In action and voice Miss Landi shows the Ruth Chatterton influence. But she lacks the ability to be dramatic without seeming overdramatic, which is the slim trick La Chatterton has mastered.

Lewis Stone, as the host, gives the best performance. Other players include Paul Cavanaugh, John Garrick, Beryl Mercer, Frederick Kerr, Hubert Bunston and Lumsden Hare.

Doc. Woolsey In Enright

Old Dr. J. Dockweller Droop and his medicine show are on the Enright screen for three days, the Doc being in the person of Robert Woolsey, while the substance of the medicine show is presented under the title "Everything's Rosie." Rosie is Doc Droop's adopted daughter and by the time she is 17 love comes into her life, so they have to settle down if not up. Doc gets a job in a jewelry store as auctioneer and gets into jail as a suspect when the place is robbed. Escape, then back to the old medicine show, but the sheriff catches up to the fugitives—just to tell them the real thieves have been caught.

Anita Louise is the Rosie of the title and John Darrow helps her to provide the love interest. Florence Roberts, Frank Beal, Alfred T. James, Lita Chevret and Clifford Dempsey are in the supporting cast. Short screen comedy and film novelties are on the bill.

Strouse, exploiter, was medal'd by a Paris rag for "excellent work on the American Mayors' Trip" . . . He deserved it . . . The Finley Peter Dunne blessed-event is not around the corner Prosperity is supposed to be.

The James Hanleys (Helen Maxwell), who were welded a few months ago and phffft shortly after, are readying it for Renovation . . . Claire Windsor is back, lovelier than ever . . . Hope Williams, whose eve'g gown in "The New Yorkers" was copied plenty, is putting on tonnage . . . James P. Donahue's ghost is having a swell time . . . Florence Rice didn't jilt Peter Arno because of the publicity over Vanderbilt, Jr.'s squaw, but because her new heart-thumper is a good-looking cowboy . . . A very quiet, scholarly gent in Reno, named Arnow, was embarrassed no end.

Mexican Students Score U. S. Killings

MEXICO CITY, June 30.—(AP.)—The national university student body published a strongly worded protest in today's newspapers concerning the acquittal of Deputy Sheriff W. E. Guess, at Ardmore, Okla., in the killing of two Mexican students. The protest said:

"In the name of universal justice we energetically protest against the lack of equity or spirit of honesty shown by the jury of Ardmore. Once again Yankee imperialism, with the impunity of the strong and forgetting the sacred duty of hospitality which falls on civilized countries, has drenched American soil with noble Mexican blood to satisfy a racial passion."

North China Leaders Back Revolutionists

HONGKONG, June 30.—(AP.)—Agents bearing credentials to the anti-Nanking revolutionary government at Canton from five North China leaders, including Feng Yu-Hsiang, former "Christian" general and Yen Hsi-Shan, governor of Shansi province, reached the Kwangtung capital today.

They announced promises of military support in the insurgents' campaign against President Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist government, provided the Canton government furnishes financial backing.

CLEVELAND, June 30.—(AP.)—Strong rivalry between large cities in sportsmen's events at the national air races here August 29 to September 7 is anticipated today by Clifford Henderson, air race manager.

The cities he expects to head the list of rivals include Chicago, San Francisco, Cleveland and Portland, Ore.

Grasshopper Plague Follows Heat Wave

LINCOLN, Neb., June 30.—(AP.)—A grasshopper plague apparently engendered by the heat wave, has descended on Northern Nebraska and parts of South Dakota.

So thick that they almost block a handcar's progress along the railroad tracks, the pests have invaded wheat, corn and potato fields and caused farmers to call for state aid.

Dry Mass Meeting Raps Atlanta Mayor

ATLANTA, June 30.—(AP.)—Prohibition advocates in a mass meeting here last night adopted resolutions demanding immediate resignation of every office holder who says the prohibition laws can not be enforced.

The resolutions were passed after several speakers scored Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, for his criticisms of prohibition.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

P. G. Wodehouse, Guy Bolton and Jerome Kern, who turned out many successful musical comedies of an earlier day, are collaborating in preparing "Oh, Boy" for revival in Los Angeles, with Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer. Wodehouse and Bolton are rewriting the book, and Kern will send three new song numbers from New York. Henry Duffy, manager of the company that presented "Abie Irish Rose" for 29 weeks in the Pitt and Lyceum several seasons ago, now the George Sharp of California, is reviving this musical play.

Fay Brady, pert and pretty, wise-cracking with J. C. Flippen in "Bag of Blues," in Loew's Penn this week:

Miss Brady—"Gosh, did they weigh that much."

* * *

Speaking of George Sharp, as we believe we were, at least incidentally, you likely will be interested to know he is in New York making preliminary preparations for resuming stock activity in the Pitt. He plans to do that the first week in Sept. Robert and Mrs. Fiske (Catherine Maison), pop members of the co., are spending the sum. in Pgh.

MRS. HARRIMAN SUES NEIGHBOR

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—Friendship or no friendship, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is suing Raymond T. Baker, former director of the mint, for $20,000 damages she says was caused by a pile of dirt dumped from his property onto hers.

The dirt, nearly 4,500 cubic feet, came from an excavation for the new Baker residence, adjoining her estate, she alleges, and was deposited upon a cultivated section of the property.

Returning to the capital in April, she says, she was "shocked to find" the pile, which she complains changed the contour of her land, endangered her shrubbery and buried her fertile and valuable top soil.

WOMAN LOSES NOSE IN KISS

Lifting her face for a goodby kiss from a man with whom she had been keeping company, Mrs. Margaret Fritz, 28, of 10 East Stockton avenue, police said, received instead, a severe bite on her nose. She was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Mrs. Fritz told police her biting friend, Bill Goreco, 25, 305 Sandusky street, was bidding her goodby preparatory to leaving for Detroit.

At the hospital, doctors said the end of the woman's nose had been bitten off. He is being sought.

Boy, 13, Fugitive From Court, Hunted

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, June 30.

SINCE YOU HAVE NOTHING better to do at the moment, you might as well consider the story of Mazie, a pretty young lady of the chorus. Mazie is extremely attractive in her own particular way—and she knows a thing or two in the bargain. If you could ask any more than that, you certainly couldn't ask it of me.

On Mazie's string at the present writing are two brokers. Both boys are married and their wives are very good friends. They, too, were the best of pals until they began to fight each other to get into Mazie's good graces. Isn't that always the way? Don't even answer. I can tell you it's yes without pulling so much as one rabbit from a hat.

About six months ago both boys began to slip presents to Mazie. Saps that they were, each one was certain that he had to outdo the other. So along would come Broker No. 1 and hand her his gift.

"Mazie," he would say, "here's a little something for you. Use it in good health. I just wanted you to know that I'm always thinking of you."

"Mazie," he would say, "here's a little something for you. Use it in the best of health. It's just to show you that nobody thinks more of you than I do."

Neither of these prize saps would dare risk being seen in public with her. The only time they were able to be with her was when she permitted either one or the other to sneak into her apartment. And there isn't much percentage in that.

Broker A stepped out one afternoon and bought Mazie a beautiful ring. As soon as it was hers, she called a girl friend on the phone.

"Mildred," she asserted, "Broker A has just bought me a ring. I want you to come over and get it. You'll hold it for me until I tell you I want it. Is that clear?"

The girl friend understood perfectly. And as soon as the ring was in the other girl's hands, Mazie told her story to Broker B.

"Broker A is one of the sweetest men in the world," she chirped. "What do you think he did? He bought me one of the nicest rings you ever saw in all your life Wasn't that sweet of him?"

Was Broker B going to be outdone? You can bet your old brown derby that he wasn't. He told Mazie to go right ahead and pick out another ring for herself. Whereupon she called up that swell girl friend, introduced her as a jewelry expert and asked her if she had anything for sale.

The plot was as simple as it could be. Out came the very ring that Broker A had bought her.

"That's the kind of a ring I want," cried Mazie, delightedly. "I'd be the happiest girl in the world if I had it."

In very short order Mazie was the happiest girl in the world. Broker B bought it for her and paid cash on the spot. The same ring, in other words, had been bought by both brokers. Mazie could wear the ring for both men without arousing any suspicion. And, more important, she was able to put away a nice slice of dough in the bargain.

With the situation as it was, Mazie turned to the market. Having fared so successful with the ring, the chorus lady did the exact same thing with stocks. She got each sucker to buy her some stock through a third broker.

Accordingly, Mazie doubled up once again. She immediately sold one set of stocks and held on to the other. Our little Mazie, you can readily see, was a rather smart young lady.

Along came one of those hectic days when the bottom dropped out of the market. The third broker phoned little Mazie and informed her that he wanted additional money to cover the margin. So Mazie, without wasting any time at all, rushed around to Broker A.

He heard her story and shook his head sadly.

"You're in a tough fix," he said, "but you're no worse off than I am. As far as cash is concerned, it's out of the question. I can only give you an idea.

"You pawn the ring I gave you. Things can't be always as bad as they are now. As soon as I get my hands on some ready cash I'll redeem it for you. Is that fair enough?"

Mazie said it certainly was. She thanked him profusely and immeditaely rushed around to Broker B. Once more she unfolded the same sad story she had told in the rival's office.

Broker B thought for a moment or two. And he finally said the very thing Mazie knew he was going to say.

"Mazie," he cried, "I'll tell you what I'll do. Things are pretty tough these days and I can't spare much money right now. If I give you a suggestion, please don't get angry.

"Why not pawn the ring I gave you until conditions grow a little better? As soon as I can see daylight ahead, I'll redeem it for you. How does the idea strike you?"

With both men suggesting the same remedy, Mazie's course was clear. She immediately went out and hocked the ring that had already brought her plenty of money. Her stock, even as most stocks must do some day, returned to a fairly normal point. And Mazie was sitting very pretty.

A few weeks ago, when things began to improve on the street, each broker gave Mazie $2,000 in cash to redeem her ring. Mazie, of course, took out the ring that had been pawned for $500. And the other $3,500 went into the good old bank.

Accordingly, Mazie's position at the moment is extremely simple. She still has her ring. She still has her stock. And there's much more to come from the same spot that the other stuff came from. It looks as though she can play Broker A against Broker B just as long as she wishes.

Once upon a time some guy said that all chorus girls are beautiful but dumb. I'd like him to meet Mazie . . .

IN THE Broadway forties the other night a stew was zigzagging nobly down the block. A Holmes policeman, hired in the interests of a new clothing establishment, paused before the building and tried several doors and latches.

"Okay," muttered the private patrolman. "This one is okay. And so is this. Okay."

The stew stopped in his tracks and watched the patrolman through bleary eyes. He shook his head and finally staggered over.

"What are you talking about?" he questioned, as he tested the last door. "What's no use?"

The drunk smiled happily.

City Life Blamed For Low Birth Rate

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—Blame for a decreasing American birth rate has been laid by Warren S. Thompson, census expert, to the American city.

In cities, he says in a monograph, children are an afterthought. In the country there is a place for them.

School Expenditure Reduction Opposed

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—Opposition was expressed today by Selma Borchardt, of Washington, a member of the executive council of the American Federation of Teachers, to what she termed "the pseudo-economy which would curtail school expenditures."

ACCESSORIES OF IMPORTANCE IN MAKING A SARTORIAL SUCCESS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 30.—A carefully selected group of accessories can do much to make a sartorial success, even when the number of one's frocks is of necessity restricted. A couple of frocks with the right accessories will carry one through a season and see to it that one's reputation for being well and appropriately dressed does not in the least suffer. This year has demonstrated that it isn't the amount that is spent on clothes that is of the greatest importance, it is how one's money is expended that really counts. There are many women who have a wardrobe full of clothes and never have the right accessories to go with more than one frock. But a judicious choice will permit one to wear shoes, hankie and bag with different frocks and still these accessories will be the perfect complement to each costume. The idea of a set of accessories sacred to each frock has ceased to be, but this needn't worry anybody, who can choose accessories without running wild.

* * *

PICTURED is a group of very new accessories. The sandals are by Julienne and the hankie is by Lanvin. The strapped sandal is for tennis and Madame Julienne has made it in bright yellow antelope strapped with white kid and with a sole of crepe rubber. For more formal wear is the lovely sandal of gold braid, fastening with a jewel at the base of the instep, and with a heel of carved wood, gilded. Such a sandal can be worn with many different frocks with huge success. The handkerchief is of light green chiffon with a border and appliqued letters of the same chiffon. The letters form the disconcerting injunction, "Prenez Garde," a rather subtle if a rather open way of telling a certain somebody to be on guard.

CHARGE MURDER IN SNAKE CASE

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 30.—Noah Shawley, father of Clarence Shawley, who was killed Friday night at the home of his father-in-law, John Sleasman, at Knupp's Tunnel, near Bakersville, preferred a charge of murder against Sleasman yesterday at the office of Justice of Peace Clyde L. Lowe in Mount Pleasant. No time has been fixed for the hearing.

According to Sleasman, the shooting was an accident. It is said that Shawley, sitting on the porch of the Sleasman home, either threw a snake at the older man, or made a feint to do so, and that in causing Sleasman to jump, a gun in his hands was discharged, the load striking Shawley in the head.

Charleston-Detroit Bus Line Planned

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 30.—(AP.)—Announcement of a new bus line between Charleston, Columbus and Detroit was announced yesterday by J. W. Flannigan, Charleston manager. The line will be operated by the American Stages, contingent upon permission from the State Road Commission.

Suicide Leaves $100 to Friends At Funeral

MERCER, Pa., June 30.—Advising his friends to have no fear of his ghost, John J. Contratto, Pardoe miner, who committed suicide recently, in his will probated here, leaves $100 to be divided among those who were present at his burial. He provides for the distribution of two quintals of salt among the residents of Locana, Italy, his former home, for five years. He ordered a $200 tombstone. The residue of his estate is to be sent to his mother in Italy.

Overbrook, Catholic Schools On Outing

The Overbrook school and community outing was to be held at Kennywood Park today, under auspices of the Overbrook Board of Trade. Four Catholic schools also were scheduled to picnic at the park. They are St. John the Baptist, St. Henry's, St. Stephen's and St. Basil's. The Overbrook committee is headed by J. J. Demskie, president of the board of trade, and on the Catholic committees are the Rev. T. G. McPherson, the Rev. George P. Angel and the Rev. Philip A. Dugan.

BROKER TO PAY OR SERVE TERM

Alfred Damus, commissioner broker, of 5427 Beacon street, was sentenced to two and one-half years in jail, with a provision for parole if he pays a $500 fine and makes restitution of the rate of $2,000 evry quarter until he has paid the $10,116, he was convicted of embezzling by consignment from the San Ontario Orchard Company. The sentence was pronounced by Visiting Judge D. W. Henderson, of Fayette County, who refused a new trial.

It was charged by Charles Latimer, of the orchard company, that Damus had received 19 cars of grapes to sell for the company, and had failed to turn over the money.

Kane Brick Plant Resumes Operation

KANE, Pa., June 30.—Between 30 and 35 men reported at the plant of the Kane Brick and Tile Company, East Kane, yesterday. The factory has been idle since November 15, 1930. The management believes that building prospects at the present time warrant the starting of the plant.

Australians Reject Income Tax Bill

SYDNEY, Australia, June 30.—(AP.)—The legislative council yesterday rejected the emergency income tax bill which placed a tax on a shilling a pound on incomes up to four pounds a week, and 5 shillings on incomes of 10 pounds and over. The effect of the defeat was considered certain to be a severe blow to Premier Lang of New South Wales, sponsor of the measure.

Confessed Bandits Get 15-Year Terms

LEBANON, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Frederick A. Kercher, 27, Raymond Sonnon, 20, and Arthur Mohler, 16, confessed bandits, all of this city were sentenced in Special Court, here yesterday by Judge Charles V. Henry.

Kercher and Sonnon were sentenced to not less than 15 years and not more than 30 years in solitary confinement and hard labor, in the Eastern Penitentiary.

PIRATE PLAYERS TO STAND BY MANAGER ENS

ENS NOT BLAMED FOR PIRATES' SLIDE

THAT THERE IS absolutely no foundation for the rumors of a contemplated change in the managership of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, nor for any of the numerous reports that the owners have selected this, that or the other fellow to take the place of Jewel Ens, was the emphatic assertion made by Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate president, upon his return home from the East. The local magnate says that Ens cannot be blamed for the failure of the club to show to better advantage, and that there is not, and never has been, any thought of making a change.

Jewel Ens

Every time a ball club has a prolonged losing streak, there follows a swarm of reports about a shift in management. Earlier in the season rumor put the heads of Wilbert Robinson, Roger Peckingpaugh, Bucky Harris, Bill Killefer and Shauno Collins on the block, and the failure of those yarns to pan out has not prevented the gossips from naming Ens as being doomed to an early dismissal. One story had Robinson supplanting Ens on July 1. A second mentioned Art Griggs as being slated to come here from Wichita, and each of the other tales named a different man for the job.

ACCORDING TO THE boss of the works, they're all mere dreams. He says that except for attending the annual summer meeting of the National League baseball did not enter into his trip to the East, that he did not meet nor talk with any baseball men not connected with his own club, and that in spite of all reports to the contrary Ens is still manager of the Buccaneers and will continue so.

"Somebody must be suffering from the heat," said President Dreyfuss. "I dislike to dignify such absurd rumors with a denial, but in justice to Manager Ens I want to say that they are nothing but bald fakes. It is not the fault of Ens that the club has not done better. The team has merely had a bad spell, but I am confident that it will pull itself together, start winning and make a creditable finish. I have never had, and have not now, the slightest intention of making a managerial change."

THE BUCS TURNED on an old jinx in beating Tom Zachary in the Boston opener. Prior to yesterday the veteran southpaw had defeated the Ensmen four times in five encounters with them since entering the league from the Yankees last year, and in his last three games against them had held them to two runs and 15 hits.

Though the Rovers scored only four runs they showed a pleasing continuance of their improved hitting form by piling up 14 blows. That makes a total of 57 hits in the last four games up to today. Things may be starting to move in the right direction.

BY CONNECTING FOR a single in each game of the doubleheader in Cleveland yesterday, Earl Combs, of the Yankees, became the first player in the major leagues to make 100 hits this season. Joe Cronin held the lead in hits for a long time, but Combs passed him a few days ago and had 98 to his credit when he went into yesterday's dual bill. Al Simmons was second today with 98, followed by Cronin with 97. Chuck Klein is high man in the National League with 95. Bill Terry has 91 and Walter Berger 90.

Pat Malone

ROGERS HORNSBY blames Pat Malone for much of the slipping that the Cubs have done, declaring that if the pitcher would get serious and swing into his stride the club would be able to get somewhere in spite of the failure of some of the other members of the staff to come up to expectations.

Malone, who won a total of 60 games for the Cubs in 1928, 1929 and 1930, has been almost a total loss to the Bruins this year. In a total of 13 games started he went the distance in only two, and he has not pitched a complete contest since May 4.

THOUGH JOE DEVINE, for eight years a Pirate scout, has resigned that post to become manager of the Mission club, in the Pacific Coast League, his judgment and advice in the matter of coast playing material will not be wholly lost to the Bucs.

In a telegram to local headquarters, thanking President Dreyfuss for his treatment, Devine assured the Pirate owner that he would continue to look out for the interest of the Pittsburgh club on the coast and would send a dope letter once a week, as in the past.

THE DECISION OF Devine to take over the managership of the Mission team was no surprise to several members of the Pirate outfit. Joe confided to them long ago that the owners of that club had been after him for some time. Devine held off for two reasons, they say. In the first place, he is a close friend of Wade Killefer, who was seriously ill when George Burns was asked to handle the club temporarily. Joe refused to consider the offer as long as there was any chance that Killefer would care to take the job back. He also wished to confer with President Dreyfuss and get his advice, and it was not until everything had been ironed out and he felt sure he was taking an honorable course that he finally accepted the job.

THE SELECTION OF George Blake to referee the Schmeling-Stribling leather debate in Cleveland Friday night will serve to increase public confidence in the affair, as his reputation assures that everything will have to be carried out along straight lines.

As manager of Fidel La Barba, Blake has long been recognized as one of the squarest men in the ring sport. He knows the game inside and out, has often shown himself to be one of the best referees on the coast, and in every respect is an ideal man for the assignment.

THE GRADUAL DROP in the estimated receipts at Friday's fight would appear to indicate that there was considerable padding in the early sale reports and that the huge figures originally sent out were only part of the old ballyhoo.

Three weeks ago it was said the advance sale had reached $861,000 and that the show would bring back the $1,000,000 gate. Then the estimate dropped to $750,000, next to $600,000, and now it is said all concerned will be satisfied if it draws $400,000. In the end, possibly, they'll have to be satisfied with even less.

Mike Getto

MIKE GETTO, Jeannette product, former all-America tackle at Pitt and now line coach at the University of Kansas, plans to extend his present visit to this district to five or six weeks. He probably will enroll in the Pitt summer school to continue his work for a master's degree. Getto is loud in his praises of Kansas and sees a rosy athletic future for that university. Notre Dame has been scheduled in football and bids are being made for other big games. The Jayhawk basketball teams have long been the class of the Missouri Valley, and the meeting with Pitt next winter in a three-game series will attract wide attention. Another former Panther gridder back in town is Markley Barnes, once varsity center, and reserve snapperback in 1928 and 1929. Barnes has been coaching at Bellaire (O.) High School, and has returned to summer school here with a master's degree as his goal.

BOSTON, June 30.—Members of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club today reacted unfavorably to the report that Manager Jewel Ens would be supplanted by Art Griggs, former major league performer and now the manager of the Wichita club of the Western League, which is largely controlled by the Pirate owners.

The Pirates did not deny that such an eventuality might come to pass, but the rank and file of the players were anxious to go to the front for a pilot who is popular with the whole team.

POSITION DISTASTEFUL

The failure of the Buccos to be a part of the flag campaign in the National League is distasteful to Ens, his players and the fans. The downfall of the team in the first half of the chase is due to two primary causes—the slump of every regular batter in the lineup and a very ineffective infield. Either of these shortcomings is sufficient to land a team in the second division. To be afflicted by both is enough to drop a team to last place. And many think the Pirates would be at the

French Bill Provides Fund for Olympics

PARIS, June 30.—(AP.)—Emile Morinaud, under-secretary for physical culture, has introduced a bill in Parliament providing for the appropriation of 7,000,000 francs (about $280,000) for France's participation in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

TOTTENS WIN GOLF TITLE

The fathers and sons golf championship mantle descended about the shoulders of the Stanton Heights Tottens, C. L. and C. A., yesterday as 200 dads and sons competed in the annual titular event at Fox Chapel. The Tottens, with their fine 84, nosed out the Jamisons, of Greensburg, and Jim and Wilson Marks, of Kiski, by a single stroke.

A. K. Oliver and his son, J. W., were on hand as defending champions, but the best they could do was score an 89, the identical score turned in by another pair of favorites, James Francis and Scotty Burke. The Burkes, by the way, played the best golf of the day on the outgoing nine, recording a 41.

Charles McK. Lynch and Charles, Jr., home club players, won the low net honors with 92-18—74. Dr. G. P. and Paden Gamble, of Youghiogheny, were second in the low net race with 92-17—75.

The Crookstons, J. W. and J. B., who have won the title several times, finished among the leaders with 87. The Harpers, A. M. and Johnny, of Chartiers Heights, had a card of 88.

MISS KUHN WINS

Miss Mary Kuhn continued her fine play over local links by leading the field in the weekly one-day medal play event of the W. G. A., played yesterday over the Shannopin layout. Miss Kuhn turned in a card of 87.

Mrs. W. G. Boggs won the low net honors with an 88-7—81. Her 88 was the second best gross score.

Miss Holm Sets Backstroke Record

PACE-SETTERS CARD 69 IN HEARST PLAY

and the hundreds of link fans who witnessed the play, but the heat appeared to be no handicap, for the scores became lower as the temperature mounted.

TIE FOR SECOND PLACE

Tom Madden and Dave Wilson, caddies at Edgewood and Stanton Heights, respectively, turned in scores of 70 each, and Andrew Lesniak and Sam Musico were tied at 71.

Anthony Meyers, last year's champion, found a large gallery that followed the match too much for him and he scored 37-44—81. Joe Stevenson, 1929 champion, likewise found trouble, and carded a 78.

Two Schenley Park players, William Di Pietro, a caddie, and Peter Hallahan, were tied at 72.

Five were deadlocked at 73. They were Stanley Dombrosky; Arthur Weltner, who scored a hole in one in the first tournament; Gilbert Risso; Joseph Urso and Andrew Yalch.

Ten had 74s and included in this group were Andy Kosan, Orlando Bruno, Andy Petrick, Jack Scott, John Hahalayak, Joe Getsko, George Battick, Mike Evanich, Julius Balough and Armandio Intrieri.

The Schenley Park golf team, defending their championship, were in first place in the fight for the beautiful plate taht goes with that honor. The aggregate scores of Andy Yalch, 73; Andy Kosan, 74; Frank Yalch, 80; Frank Di Perni, 76, giving the Schenley team 303, which was two strokes better than Paul Erath's Edgewood Country Club first team, which totaled 305.

The Thornburg Country and Town Club was third in the running with 307.

BURKE OPENS TOURNEY

John Jay Burke, the man who has done more for public links golf than any other in this district, who is honorary tournament director, hit a fair ball down the middle of the fairway to inaugurate the play.

Among the officials were the arbitration committee, Burke, S. Walter Phillips and Joseph Platt; Bob Graham, Schenley Park pro; Ed Ornetta, assistant pro; Andy Petrolia, caddiemaster at Schenley; his brother, Frank; Eddie Kunold, Tom Keefe, Tom McDonald, Mrs. Ann Commodra, Miss Kay Donavan, Jimmy Conrad, caddiemaster at South Park; Paul E. Erath, caddiemaster at Edgewood; Joe Connor, caddiemaster at Chartiers Heights; Chuck Bruce, caddiemaster at Thornburg; C. H. Klingensmith, manager of the Harmar Golf Club; Bob Gumbert, Walter Johnstone, pro at Butler Country Club; Joe Pazelli, pro at the Duquesne Golf Club; George McCalgan and Jimmy Bruno, caddie master at Algoma.

FIVE AWARDS

Beautiful prizes have been provided for the competition. The winner of low gross for the 18-hole tests will receive a gold medal, a set of five matched irons, steel-shafted, and the William Randolph Hearst Trophy. Second prize will be a steel-shafted iron and a gold medal; third prize will be an iron club and a silver medal, and fourth, a bronze medal.

The caddie teams—and there are 32 of them playing today—are battling for the beautiful team championship plaque, and to the club which the winning team represents, the plaque will be presented at the regular exercises to be held during the presentation of prizes banquet to be held after the tournament. The individual members of the team will receive gold medals, while the runners-up will receive silver medals.

Local Rifle Stars Shine at Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—Edward H. Price, of Pittsburgh, finished second in the tyro 50-yard rifle match in the National Rifle Association summer program staged here. Price also was third in the 100-yard event with a score of 392.

Albert Heubner and W. R. Mondschein, both of Pittsburgh, finished among the leaders. Heubner was fourth in the off-hand match and Mondschein fifth.

RODGERS' COMEBACK DRAMATIC

BADLY BEATEN, JACKIE STOPS CISNEROS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Jackie Rodgers came back last night.

It was in the scheduled 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

And how he came back!

With a workmanlike knockout victory over Chico Cisneros, clever Mexican featherweight, who recently handed him a beating in a bout in Cleveland.

The finish came with less than a half-minute to go in the seventh round, after Jackie, local Negro featherweight, had taken another one-sided shellacking throughout the first six rounds and appeared to have gone back hopelessly since his last previous appearance in a local ring, against Johnny Datto, at Motor Square Garden, three months ago.

BEATEN UNTIL KNOCKOUT

From bell to bell in those first six rounds, Rodgers stalked after the fast-moving and free-hitting Cisneros, covered up and doing little fighting. Just crowding in and taking punches to get there and then being biffed around with uppercuts that jolted his head back. Cisneros did everything to him but untie the laces on his shoes, and you felt sorry for Jackie, thinking of what a different story there would have been to tell six months or a year ago. Verily Jackie appeared to be all washed up, and the same fans who formerly cheered him and packed the arenas to see him fight were not slow to jeer and boo his efforts.

Then came the seventh round and the dramatic finish, the one that set the spectators on their ears with the very suddenness with which the tide turned. At the whistle before the bell Jackie was up on his feet in his corner, a grim look on his features. At the bell he moved out toward his foe again, but now he was punching with both fists, not covering. A right to the stomach, another over the heart, a left to the other side and then another right. Chico tried to fight him off, but Jackie now was out to make his bid for victory, to come from a mile behind to a mile in front—and he did.

Trading punches, he was outhitting Cisneros and slowing him down. The body blows were exacting their toll. A typical Rodgers left hook to the head while jumping off the floor zoomed home and Chico retreated to the ropes. Then some more trading to the body, with Rodgers smiling and smashing home the rights, and Cisneros was herded against the ropes near a neutral corner. Again the left hook to the head, one of the few scored by Rodgers during the bout, and—finis!

Chico sagged and slumped back through the ropes, over the bottom strand, and the referee and timekeeper began the count. At five, the Mexican began to pull himself up and inside the ring, where he crouched on all fours to steady himself before getting up groggy just in time to beat Referee Al Grayber's count of 10. He was so unsteady and helpless, rocking there, with his hands at his sides, that the referee did not hesitate to call an immediate halt and turn Rodgers toward his corner, the winner by a technical knockout.

Just as Grayber officially ended the bout, Cisneros tottered and fell weakly, and confusion reigned as the timekeeper began a new count. Cisneros pulled himself up again with an effort and was reeling drunkenly and staring dazedly, not realizing what had happened until he was led back to his corner.

GORNICK STOPS FINE

It was no lucky punch that ended the battle. Seemingly outclassed up to the time he began his victory spurt, it was apparent in the light of developments that Rodgers had planned his fight well, covering until his opponent had fought himself out, and then putting on the pressure for a knockout victory. As a result, he's back in a spot again where he is set for competition with the best of them. He scaled only 121¼ pounds, his lowest weight in a long time, against 126 pounds for Cisneros.

Another clean-cut knockout marked the finish of the scheduled eight-round semi-final, when Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, 138¾, hit Harry Fine, of the Hill, 136¼, with a right to the jaw after 2 minutes 4 seconds of the sixth round and knocked him flat on his back into the middle of next week. Like Cisneros, Fine struggled up at the count of 10, but he was in no condition to carry on and the referee completed the toll. Up to the sudden finish, Fine had surprised the fans by carrying the fight to the rangy Gornick and was ahead on aggressiveness and punching.

GOLDBLATT WINNER

Benny Goldblatt, of the Hill, 130½, outpunched Andy Andrucci, of the East End, 131¼, in the six-round second bout, several times having Andy woozy, and Jackie Wilson, Negro, of the East End, 124, outscored Sammy Paris, of the Hill, 125½, in the hard-fought six-round opener.

CHICO CISNEROS REFEREE AL GRAYBER

Badly beaten for six rounds, Rodgers last night came back to knock out Cisneros in the seventh round at the Meyers Bowl, to avenge a defeat by his opponent in Cleveland two months ago. Photo shows Cisneros resting before getting up, after having been punched through the ropes. As the referee halted the bout after he arose, Cisneros dropped again from weakness.

SCHOOL TENNIS FINALS TODAY

The junior and senior city high school tennis titles are bound to rest in the Taylor Allderdice trophy case after today's final matches are played. All four of the finalists are from Allderdice, Kunkle and Hurst in the junior competition and Hyman and Hess in the senior.

The finals will be played today on the Allderdice courts.

HELEN JACOBS BEATS BETTY NUTHALL

WIMBLEDON STADIUM, Eng., June 30.—(AP.)—Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., advanced to the semi-finals of women's singles play in the Wimbledon tennis championships today with a surprising straight-set victory over Betty Nuthall, pride of England, 6-2, 6-3.

The masterful way in which the California girl defeated Miss Nuthall surprised the English crowd which had thought this was Betty's year to win the Wimbledon crown.

Miss Jacobs gave the best exhibition of tennis she ever had shown at Wimbledon. Toward the end of the match when Miss Nuthall was beginning to get on her game the American girl rose to the occasions and smashed and volleyed like a champion.

Fraulein H. Krahwinkel, Germany's third ranking player, followed Miss Jacobs into the semi-final round with a 7-5, 6-3 victory over Dorothy Round, of England.

SHIELDS-WOOD WIN

Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., America's two representatives in the semi-finals of men's singles, today went into the semi-final round of men's doubles with a five-set victory over J. C. Gregory and Ian G. Collins, of England. The scores were 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

The American youngsters probably will meet Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, the veteran French Davis cup doubles team, in the semi-finals.

The five-set struggle was reminiscent of Shields' uphill match against H. W. (Bunny) Austin in the quarter-finals of the singles yesterday.

Gregory and Collins were on top of Shields and Wood in all the play, the Americans' victory largely being due to Wood's fine service and all-around court game.

U. S. WOMEN COP

Mrs. L. A. Harper and Mrs. John Van Ryn defeated the English pair, Mrs. Stokes and Miss Lyle, in a second-round match of women's doubles, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

George Hughes and Fred Perry advanced to the quarter-finals of men's doubles, defeating G. Lyttleton Rogers and Hiro Satoh, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

Henri Cochet and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall advanced in mixed doubles with a straight-set victory over Hiro Satoh and Miss Thomas, of England, 6-1, 6-4.

SCHANG RELEASED

DETROIT, June 30.—(AP.)—Wally Schang, one of the veterans on the Detroit Tigers' catching staff, was given his unconditional release yesterday. Schang, a former catcher for the Yankees, was used in most of the games the Tigers played during the early part of the season, but has been used very little recently.

PENN, CORNELL GOLFERS VIE

Two contests are on the golf calendar for today. At the Edgewood Country Club, the University of Pennsylvania alumni is competing against the Cornell alumni in a dinner team match, and at the South Park county links, the inaugural tournament is taking place, about 100 being scheduled to play in the Almas Club of Dormont, event.

The Almas Club linksmen started play at 9:30 this morning, while the Pennsylvania-Cornell match did not begin until after the luncheon hour. Ken Witherow, local public links commissioner for the U. S. G. A. and Pennsylvania alumni secretary, was in charge d'affairs at Edgewood.

BOOKS DEFEAT DORMONT

Book Shoe put Dormont in another tough spot in the City League last evening. The Books defeated the South Hillsmen, 11 to 5, slicing the team's lead over Homewood, which defeated the North Side Buicks, 9 to 3. One of the biggest crowds of the season witnessed the slugfest at Olympia Park.

In the Crafton-Ingram Church League, Ingram defeated the Methodists, 8 to 0. Reliance Life nosed out Joseph Hornes in the C. & I. circuit at Camp Horne, 5 to 2.

The North Siders walloped the Union Printers, 8 to 1, in a North-South loop fray. Murs downed Fintex, 6 to 4 and Verona defeated Wally Smiths, 14-10, in the Greater Pittsburgh League.

Ingomar downed West View, 3-2; J. L. Thomas won over the Homestead Aces, 9-2; DePasquale downed Swissvale, 8-3; Edgewood won over Turtle Creek, 13-1 and North Side Elks trimmed Linden Grove, 14-6, in leading independent tussles.

The Homestead Gray lost the final game of the series with the Hilldale nine at Wilmington, Del., 11 to 7.

BUCS TO STICK BY MANAGER

Neither Manager Ens nor Secretary Sam Watters had much comment to offer when the subject was brought to their attention today. Ens is not the quitting kind, he is a fighter and he is convinced the club will still get some place if the proved batters get up close to their hitting standards.

Secretary Watters intimated that the rumor was without much foundation, and he seemed to think there would be no managerial change this year.

WICHITA LEADS

Griggs has the Wichita club in first place. In his playing days he was a slugger at the plate and a hustler in his own way. He served some time with the Detroit Tigers when Ty Cobb and other luminaries were with the Bengals. Those who were associated with him say he is a keen baseball man.

The Wichita pilot was with the Buccos at Paso Robles during most of the recent training season. He has several of his Wichita candidates on the ground and he wanted to be on hand to make a real study of the youthful Pirates who were destined to be farmed to him. Art won the Western League flag last season and his club may be headed for a similiar honor this year.

The Buccos pasted their enemy—Tom Zachary—for 14 hits yesterday afternoon as they beat the Braves in the first game of the series. Remy Kremer held the Tribe to four hits, but the Buccos had a hot fight on their hands. The score was 4 to 2.

Four Pittsburgh errors were injected into the proceedings, and the Braves kicked in with three misplays. Then the Pirates also were mixed in some bad baserunning.

PHILLIPS SWATS HOMER

40,000 SEE JIM LONDOS WIN

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Jim Londos, of Greece, recognized in some states as heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Ray Steele, of Glendale, Cal., at the Yankee Stadium last night before a crowd estimated at 40,000. Londos used a double arm lock to throw Steele in 1 hour, 9 minutes, 12 seconds.

Part of the proceeds of the match, which set a new record for attendance at a wrestling match, went to Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk and Ice Fund.

Londos was on the defensive during the first half of the match, shook himself free of one arm lock that nearly terminated the match in Steele's favor and then obtained the winning hold which Steele could not break.

CHALLENGER AND CHAMP NEAR PEAK

CLEVELAND, June 30.—(AP.)—Young Stribling, confident and carefree, winds up five weeks of intensive training tonight in his quest for the world heavyweight championship.

The smiling young Georgian, challenging Max Schmeling, the German titleholder, will do his final boxing in the cool of evening at his camp, Geauga Lake. Stribling, regarding his condition as perfect, plans to breeze through a light workout of four rounds. After the last glove goes swishing through the air, Stribling will desert his camp, that has been his home since early May, and go into seclusion, occupying a residence in an exclusive residential district of Cleveland.

BLAKE TO REFEREE

Schmeling enjoyed a day of rest yesterday, preparatory to finishing up his training today and tomorrow. The smiling young German intends to do only light work today, boxing possibly four or five rounds. The finish tomorrow will also be of the lightest nature. Schmeling intends to loaf and play his usual game of golf on Thursday and depart for Cleveland by motor on Friday morning, arriving just in time to weigh in at noon.

The referee question was settled to the satisfaction of all concerned yesterday with the selection of George Blake, of Los Angeles, as the third man in the ring. Blake started for Cleveland last night. He will arrive in Chicago Thursday morning and depart immediately by plane for Cleveland. Blake enjoys an enviable record in boxing, for his honesty and respect of others in the sport.

DEVELOPED CHAMPIONS

Blake, himself an excellent boxer has the distinction of having developed two American Olympic champions, who later became world professional title holders. They are Fidel LaBarba and Jackie Fields.

The commission also named the two judges and alternate referee, but their names were withheld until the day of the fight.

O'HARA CRACKS 'VERNESS PAR

TOLEDO, O., June 30.—(AP.)—Except for the few brave and reckless, a stifling, sultry heat wave yesterday forced rivals in the approaching national open golf championship to abandon their serious drills over the Inverness battle grounds.

Ice packs, shower baths and shade trees were more in demand than birdies and par. The mercury mounted to 94 degrees, and an early morning rain made the air so heavy, sultry and oppressive that virtually all the contestants on hand swung a few clubs, played a few holes and then beat a retreat for cooler spots.

Because of the sultry heat, most of the recognized "big shots" of the championship fight, which opens Thursday and ends Saturday after 72 holes over the tough Inverness course, delayed their arrival until late today.

Pete O'Hara, who finished in a tie for ninth in the big show at Winged Foot in 1929, gained considerable attention yesterday by fighting the heat and par to a standstill. He breezed over the outward stretch in 34, one under par, and came in with a fine 37 for a perfect 71. It was one of the best practice rounds turned in.

Sharkey-Walker Bout Gets Approval

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—The New York State Athletic Commission today announced it had approved a 15-round bout between Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, and Mickey Walker, former middleweight titleholder, to be held at Ebbets Field July 12.

There was no request, the commission said, that the match be recognized as for the heavyweight championship.

In order to gain the commission's approval, Walker was forced to sign away all claims to the middleweight crown.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

CHICAGO, June 30.—I don't know about Babe Ruth's fiscal affairs, but the way he is flogging the apple lately indicates he's got a contract expiring this year. Ordinarily your vision is blooey when specks start dancing in front of your eyes. But Babe is always at his best popping out homers when he sees dotted lines in front of him waiting for a signature. A season when a contract is expiring always acts like a tank car of oxygen to the Bam. If they ever gave him a series of one-year options, Babe would keep out front as a home run hitter till his whiskers qualified him for the House of David team.

MATMEN WORK TONIGHT

Two of the most spectacular of the wrestlers who have shown here recently clash in the main bout of the show at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight. They are Ivan Vacturoff, the Russian, and Mike Romano, Italian.

Daviscourt

They will grapple for one fall to a finish. Dick Daviscourt, one of the rough "villains" of the mat, who generally is more hissed at than hissing, meets Milo Steinborn, the German, in the semi-final, limited to 45 minutes.

In three 30-minute preliminaries, Tiny Roebuck meets Rudy Dusek, Tom Draak is in with Steve Znosko and Charley Allen, of the South Side, tangles with Pete Verlinich, a Serbian, of Leetsdale.

Between Rounds

Joe Glaser, manager of Eddie Anderson, is quoted as saying the beating his cowboy gladiator received in his battle with Frankie Genaro, in Erie the other night was the worst of his career. Any worse than the one he took from Tony Herrera at Hickey Park a few weeks ago?

The Tony Galento-Johnny Risko eight-rounder, semi-final to the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling title fight in Cleveland, Friday night, will be put on after the main event. All of the other preliminaries will be five-rounders.

The Buck McTiernan-Ted Yarosz fight at Hickey Park tomorrow night has the fans buzzing. There are those who say it is a bad match for McTiernan and those who say Yarosz, undefeated in 43 battles, is in a tough spot. The arguments pro and con presage a banner crowd.

Lew Farber, New York bantamweight, who in his last three bouts has fought Midget Wolgast, the lightweight champion, in Holyoke, Mass., drawn with Willie Davies in Canada and subbed for Archie Bell and lost a close bout with Vidal Gregorio in Madison Square Garden, New York, wants to show here against Davies, Jimmy Thomas or Mose Butch.

Jimmy Guthrie, of Akron, and Lonnie Bowden, of Cincinnati, box the 10-round windup of a show in East Liverpool, O., tonight. Tony Rabino and Cliff Cassidy are in the six-round semi-final and there will be five four-round preliminaries.

Babe Triscaro, national amateur bantamweight champion, will box Joey Ross and Sammy O'Dell will meet Al Sheik in six-round preliminaries to the Gorilla Jones-George Courtney bout in Cleveland, Thursday night, the eve of the heavyweight title affair there.

Eugene Hust, the Belgian bantamweight who meets Mose Butch in the windup at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night, defeated Willie Cubic, another Negro star, in his last time out and appears to have regained the old form that made him the European flyweight champion.

COLTS REGAIN M.-A. LEAGUE LEAD

A team can't even split a doubleheader in the Middle Atlantic League nowadays without running into a peck of trouble. Yesterday, Charleston's Senators, who had been striding along at the head of the pack for over two full weeks, split even with Huntington, and as a result, dropped to second place. Cumberland's Colts are in front today by two points.

Charleston lost to Huntington 5 to 3 in the first game and then turned around and won the second by the same count. Huntington won the opener despite five errors.

Cumberland battered Charleroi, 17 to 1, Moscowitz limiting the Guys to four scattered hits. The Colts connected for 14.

Scottdale edged back to a spot nearer the top by taking a double bill from Parkersburg. The Scotties won 9 to 4 and 3 to 2. Meanwhile, Beckley lost ground by dropping a decision to Clarksburg, 6 to 5.

Altoona defeated Wheeling, 7 to 4, and Fairmont nosed out Johnstown, 4 to 2.

Favorites Advance In Clay Court Play

Ellsworth Vines, tall Californian, George J. Jennings, Jr., Chicago, holder of the national public parks title, and Donald Cram, Nashville, Tenn., were the only seeded players to get into action. Vines advanced by defeating Arthur Frankenstein, Chicago, 6-0, 6-0, while Donald Cram eliminated Walter Guller, Edwardsville, Ill., by the same score.

Jennings entered the second round through his victory over Langdon Carton, St. Louis, 6-0, 6-1. Wray Brown, St. Louis, many times holder of the Missouri Valley singles championship, won by default from Leonard H. Vaughan, Chicago.

O'Doul Suspended For Five Days

The Brooklyn outfielder was fined $100 and suspended indefinitely Sunday when he engaged in a heated argument with Umpire Bob Clarke. He will return to the Robins' lineup in time for the Fourth of July doubleheader with the New York Giants.

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

Wealthy Customer Becomes Interested in Kitty

CHAPTER V.

"One grand, gay party," I murmured as I thought over what Maj. Boyden was promising me.

"Exactly, my dear, just that," the major whispered. He had heard what I was saying to myself.

"I assure you that I can give you everything, Kitty," he persisted.

I knew that he could. I had learned all about his wealth, or at least a great deal about it.

"Well, Major, it sounds an awful lot like a little bit of heaven to me," I finally answered.

"Then you promise?"

"Yes, Major."

"Not 'Major,' but 'Jack'—I'll always be 'Jack' to you," and he took me in his arms and kissed me.

I don't know what came over me, but I wanted to laugh. The way he said that he would always be "Jack" to me struck me funny—that's all he did mean to me, just "Jack," in the sense that "jack" is used to mean money.

"Just send word to the store tomorrow that you won't be back any more except as a good customer, and here—"

A MARRIED MAN

"Take it, dearest, take it and go and look for a mighty fine apartment tomorrow."

"What's that?"

I repeated it.

"Oh, yes, not until after we are settled in the little nest, eh?"

"Of course."

"How long will that take?"

"No time at all after we are married, unless you want to furnish up a place instead of getting one all furnished."

"Look here, Kitty—are you trying to joke with me—that stuff about marriage—of course, if you insist, you will have to ask my wife." He laughed at this as though it were the funniest joke he knew.

"Your—your wife? Is that a joke, too, Jack?"

He looked at me a moment. Then he got up and snapped on more lights and put his fingers beneath my chin, lifting my face up.

"Didn't you—did you think—why, you took me seriously—you aren't just another pretty gold digger!" He stammered and hesitated and then put his hand on my shoulder.

"We'll talk this over, Kitty. Sit down."

"Have I been a gold digger? Did I ask for anything? I thought you loved me — I thought you said you wanted me."

"I'll say you are no gold digger—not yet, Kitty, if I wasn't married I'd marry you tomorrow!"

"Well, Maj. Boyden, I'm not exactly dumb, I understand now, but I guess I was awfully dumb to think that you meant anything that was right and decent. I thought it was fun going about and having a gay time—and it was fun, but when you made love to me so nicely I thought—I didn't think you were that kind."

"And now you hate me like poison, I suppose?"

"No, I just hate myself for being dumb. Come on and put me in a taxi, Major."

Just then Dolly and Mr. Malvern came in.

CALLED A DUMBBELL

Dolly ran up and gave me a hug.

"That's great, Kit," she whispered, "now you'll have everything you want."

I didn't answer, but merely nodded and went out with Maj. Boyden. On the ride to my home he didn't say much, but when he left me he suddenly kissed me.

"I didn't know, all those other times, that I was kissing a good girl—good luck to you always, Kitty!" He turned back to the taxi and I watched until it was gone.

What little chance I had to talk with Dolly in the store on Monday wasn't enough for me to go into explanations, but two days later when she got a chance she whispered to me, "You are certainly the prize dumbbell, Kit!"

"Forrest told me—Maj. Boyden told him that you turned him down, and after all I did for you."

We couldn't talk any more then, and at the end of the day Dolly couldn't wait. Forrest Malvern and the big foreign car were waiting for her.

Dolly was pleasant with me after that, but never chummy, and she never asked me to go anywhere with her.

"What's the matter with you and Dolly?" Molly asked me, "have you got a 'mad' on each other?"

"No, not at all—only I can't afford the clothes that it takes to go around wih her bunch," I tried to explain.

"Sometimes I think you are kind of goofey," was Molly's rather mysterious answer to that.

Father used to joke now and then and ask me if I had got a half interest in the store yet. However, I couldn't complain. I was getting more money by this time and my invalid sister was getting better.

Now and then I went to a movie with Pete Thompson or on Sunday we'd go to Coney or across the Hudson to where some of his friends were camping, and use the canoes, and I tried to convince myself that I was happier than ever.

A NEW CUSTOMER

But I was forever remembering those other parties, the wonderful shows, the dinners and night club dances with all the gaiety. So many other girls enjoyed those things. It was a tough break that I couldn't get in with a bunch of the right sort of young men and enjoy the same thing.

One day when I had quite a crowd at my counter, mostly women buying blades and shaving creams for their husbands, with now and then some man edging in to buy something, I noticed a tall, handsome young man drumming on the glass of the counter and waiting his turn. It seemed almost as though I knew him, but of course I did not. However, I ignored two women who had got to the counter ahead of him and, despite their protests that they were "there first," I waited on him.

He bought a dozen packages of blades and a quantity of shaving cream that doesn't need water or a brush.

"Thanks a lot for sliding me in ahead," he said in a low voice as he waited for his change. "I'm in something of a hurry."

"I am going into Canada on a fishing trip and this stuff was recommended," he went on.

The next day he was in again and bought some other things. On the third day he was back for other purchases.

"Back from Canada so soon?" I asked.

To my surprise he seemed embarrassed, but he managed to smile and murmur something about business and a change of plans.

When he came in again on the fourth day he must have seen the amazement in my face. He leaned over and spoke.

"The truth is, I gave up the Canadian fishing trip solely because of you," he asserted.

"I don't know the answer to that joke—and I'm not much interested," I said, crossly, because I was disappointed. He was just another of those fresh guys, after all, it seemed.

PROMINENT PERSON

"It's no joke—I mean, I just have to get acquainted with you and I don't know how to go about it—and you think I'm a drug store cowboy, now don't you?"

"I hadn't thought," I lied glibly. I had thought a lot about him in those four days.

"Here is my card—that makes us half acquainted," he paused, and smiled at me, "now won't you tell me where to telephone you or to call on you."

"Why should you?"

"How can I help it? I mean—this isn't just a 'pick up,' I do want to know you. I'll be in again tomorrow, let me know—don't disappoint me—er—look me up."

Before I could answer he was gone.

Mrs. Wayne, the nice little old lady who worked with me, came over after he left.

"Mr. Thornton has been watching you, dearie — better tell your young man not to come in so often, even if he always does buy something."

Mr. Thornton was our floor manager and always nice to me.

I told Mrs. Wayne what he had said and showed her the card which bore the name: "Mr. M. Thad Parsons."

"Of—of course, I remember his pictures," she exclaimed.

"Pictures? Is he anybody in particular?" I asked.

"Is he anyone in particular? My dear, your boy friend, or would-be boy friend, is a top-notcher. He chums around with the Prince of Wales."

"Honestly?" I asked.

Mrs. Wayne convinced me.

"We'll be acquainted tomorrow!" I declared.

Synopsis

Katherine Mason, a shop girl, believes every girl's chief object in life should be having a gay time of it. She has no present intention of marrying Peter Thompson, the poor boy who loves her. A flashy friend of hers from the store, Dolly Hawkins, finds a "sugar daddy," Maj. Boylen, for Katherine, and after a while he offers to make her life just one grand, gay party.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Just Lovely

"The bell," Tom murmured.

The bell buzzed again.

"The bell," Tom repeated.

"You said that before," Jim said, reprovingly.

Both were awake by this time. Each young man sat up in his twin bed. Tom reached for a coin on the light stand.

"Speak!" he said, as if addressing a dog.

"Heads."

Tom tossed the coin over on Jim's bed. Jim glanced at it. He stretched, yawned, got out of bed, slipped into a robe and went out to the foyer, where he opened the apartment door.

"Special, registered, sign there," said the veteran in post-office gray.

Jim scrawled a name, took the letter and came back. He eyed it after a moment of yawning.

Tom had gone back to sleep again, knowing by the way Jim got out of bed that he had lost the coin toss.

Jim knew without looking at the postmark that the letter was from Aunt Alicia, and came from the sequestered village of Plympton.

He glanced at his sleeping cousin, grinned maliciously, and put up all the shades in the room, permitting the sunlight to stream in. Then he shook Tom.

CALLED TO COUNTRY

He sat up and ripped open the envelope. Jim went into the bathroom to shave.

"Hi," Tom yelled, "come out here. This is for both of us, and it looks like a roast; come and take your share."

Jim came out.

The letter was addressed:

"Masters Thomas Reddington Hoadley and James Monroe Reddington: My dear nephews."

Tom and Jim were 24, yet Aunt Alicia persisted in addressing them "Master." She refused to recognize that they had grown up.

Aunt Alicia wanted them to come to Plympton. It was going to be too hot in the city. The country was healthful and devoid of temptations that would beset boys.

Cousin Tom looked at Cousin Jim.

"We go to Plympton," he said, sadly.

"We go to Plympton," Jim echoed.

Tom and Jim would have a very pleasing amount of money when they were 30. Grandpa Hoadley did not believe they would be sufficiently out of adolesence until then.

Six years to go!

Aunt Alicia was the party holding the purse strings at the present time. She was devoted to the boys; she wouldn't have them go to work. Not in any menial work. It wouldn't do. And so she was most generous with them.

But when Aunt Alicia said: "Sit up and bark," the boys sat up and said "Bow-wow!"

QUIET TOWN

Tom and Jim had planned to accept Wally Landers' offer of his Adirondack lodge while he was in Europe for the summer. They planned to entertain lavishly nice girl friends with their mamas, nice boy friends, a well-stocked cellar, and a summer of canoeing, water sports, bridge, and whatnot.

"It's off—we start for Plympton tonight," Tom said.

So they went to Plympton.

"We shall certainly have a rest," Jim said.

"It will be so nice for you."

"It will be thrilling," Tom murmured.

"You choose your words so carelessly, my dear," said Auntie.

The boys went out and sat in the grape arbor and smoked and stared down upon the sleepy little village.

"Look," Jim said, grabbing Tom's arm and pointing, dramatically, "see that milling, surging mob on Main street!"

Two people had come out of the postoffice and were conversing.

"How can one find rest in such a tumultuous metropolis?" growled Jim.

They strolled the quarter-mile down to the village and went into the postoffice.

They were known in the village. Sadie Abbott, the postmaster's daughter, greeted them.

"Will there be three letters for me next Thursday morning?" Tom asked, gravely.

"Why, how should I know?" Sadie asked, gravely.

"You should, being postmistress. In any other business a person knows weeks ahead what to expect."

"I'll bet you're joking."

"You lose the bet, Sadie—pay me now—I want two letters and a post card."

"You two are just crazy," Sadie said, without taking offense.

Mr. Peterson, of the bank, came in. The Rev. Grayson followed and Miss Snyder.

"Get in line, terrible mob," Tom Hissed.

He bought one stamp. Then he bought another stamp, then he wanted to know if she had any blue two-cent stamps and he wanted to know why. After five minutes' talk Jim bought a stamp, he bought a second, then a third. He examined the third and wanted to know if she was sure it wasn't a forgery. Sadie explained that they came from the same sheet.

The villagers became impatient and talked with each other.

Finally the boys went out and stopped at the novelty, stationery and periodical store. They wanted old Mr. Hayes to explain why they couldn't get next Sunday's newspapers on Friday night. They had him looking around for invisible pens to use when writing with invisible ink. This kept Mr. Peterson, of the bank, who had come from the postoffice, waiting about nine minutes.

DISTURB PUBLIC

Dr. Holt, one of the bank directors, stopped Mr. Peterson when he came out and started to discuss the application of a certain citizen for a loan. It was an important topic. They discussed his so-called securities. The loan was for three hundred and they put more thought into it than the Morgans ever did over a proposition to lend a couple billion to China.

"Hey, Jim!"

"What is it?" yelled Jim.

"Do you know Theodore Appleby?"

"No, I don't know Theodore Appleby, what is his name?"

"Whose name?" Tom demanded.

The doctor and Mr. Peterson were interrupted. They were annoyed. They moved away after this.

The villagers were worried, nervous, angry. They called the boys "pests."

The Rev. Grayson hinted to Miss Alicia that he thought her nephews should go camping for the summer, and when questioned admitted that they were a terrible disturbance.

"You are too thoughtless, heedless—you cause my friends here to believe that you are not mentally sound. I think you had better go back to your apartment, boys."

"This," Tom said, "is terrible. We cannot get a train until Monday."

Aunt Alicia, who was very bright and knowing, laughed. She laughed heartily.

It was Saturday. Tom and Jim were hanging around the village fire station. Its sole station. One of the men they knew had a motorcycle there.

DECIDE TO STAY

Two girls drove past in a cute little car and they were cute little girls. Tom and Jim were experts at spotting cute little girls.

"Joe," Tom said, "we want to borrow the bathtub for a bit, and a couple of those blue caps."

"What—"

They donned the blue caps pinned on the badges, and got away from there on the motorcycle. A mile beyond they spotted the car and the cute girls. They speeded up. They had no whistle so they speeded ahead and waved the girls over to the side of the road.

Then they stopped.

"Pay me the five dollars," he said. "Both of 'em have blue eyes."

"You darn fools!" the girl screamed, choking with laughter, "you're Alicia Hoadley's idiotic nephews. We've heard about you."

"And you girls are the Kensington twins—we are proud to meet you. Invite us up to your place. We hereby invite you over to Auntie Alicia's."

At luncheon that afternoon Tom said, "Oh, Auntie, we're going over to the Kensingtons for some bridge tonight. They'll be over here tomorrow for dinner."

"Well now, I call that lovely," said Aunt Alicia, "just lovely."

And so it proved to be, for all concerned.

ROMANCE OF THE BUSINESS WORLD

Sometimes a flash of imagination, plus a few hysterical figures scribbled on a headwaiter's shirt front, will send a man skyrocketing to fame and fortune in the business world. Such is the romance of Lapis M. Lazuli (above). He married a night club hostess and everybody said he wouldn't amount to much. But Lapis was not content to remain a bouncer. During daytimes he went to night school and learned arithmetic. Then he figured that the smoke is so thick in night clubs that it can be sawed up in blocks and carted away. Lapis had the smoke delivered to a vacant lot where he opened a sanitarium to cure herring. His self-advertising Kipperary is rated as a strong institution—due to the fact that many of the herring, instead of being cured, are merely convalescent.

Coal and Iron Police

Their Brutality Is Reprehensible by Whatever Name They May Be Called.

This is the last day for the coal and iron police under Gov. Pinchot. He has revoked their commissions.

But they are continuing their career of brutality under other names. At Ellsworth yesterday they clubbed striking coal miners who attempted to parade on a public street. The borough is dominated by a coal company and the coal and iron police have been appointed borough officers.

Elsewhere the coal and iron police have been appointed deputy sheriffs, and under that appellation are displaying the same callous disregard for human rights.

In commendable contrast is the conduct of the state police, who refuse to interfere with the strikers so long as they behave in an orderly manner.

The Fireworks Menace

Even Though the Law Authorizes Their Use, Prudent Parents Will Keep Them Out of Tots' Hands.

The State Health Department has issued a long list of places in Allegheny County where anti-tetanus treatment can be obtained on the Fourth of July.

One might suppose a great battle was about to be fought. The preparation is, of course, for fireworks accidents. It is certain that if children are allowed to play with the explosives some of them will be hurt.

The fireworks accidents have started already. Several children have been burned and otherwise injured by firecrackers. It is to be hoped they have been given prophylactic treatment against lockjaw.

Defying public opinion, "the Mayor's majority" in Council authorized the use of fireworks. But notwithstanding the authorization prudent parents will keep explosives out of the hands of tots.

A Taxpayer's Complaint

Information in Regard to County Taxes Cannot Be Obtained as Easily as Is Desirable.

The Sun-Telegraph has received a letter from a Dormont taxpayer, complaining of inefficiency in the County Treasurer's office—one of a number of such complaints.

There have also been complaints that citizens seeking information have been answered with a brusqueness that fell little short of being rude.

The trouble is due to the act of Assembly abolishing the occupation tax and substituting a 50-cent poll tax in its stead. This has complicated the county's tax affairs.

It is a pity that the information desired by taxpayers cannot be given them quickly and patiently. To be required to go to two or three offices to transact what should be a simple piece of business creates a bad impression, especially if one is directed to these offices in a curt, impatient manner.

Advancement of Negroes

National Association Meeting Here in Annual Conference Has Praiseworthy Aims.

There are 12,000,000 Negroes in the United States, 300,000 in Pennsylvania. It goes without saying that whatever affects the welfare of so large a section of the population is of concern to all the people.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People convened in Pittsburgh today and will be with us throughout the week. Its membership is drawn from both white and colored people and includes some of the most distinguished men and women of both races.

The program calls for a night mass meeting in Carnegie Music Hall, a Sunday mass meeting in Soldiers Memorial Hall to be addressed by Clarence Darrow, daily 10-minute radio addresses from KDKA and numerous round table meetings for the discussion of the Negro's part in politics, the problems of unemployment, the proposed Negro youth movement and other matters.

There will be laid before the conference inspiring reports of progress. Unhappily there will also be presented reports of unjust treatment. Pittsburghers who advocate social justice and who abhor bigotry and intolerance, would do well to attend some of the sessions.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has a fine record of achievement. Its purposes are praiseworthy.

Unpleasant Comparison

Our Prison Population Is Increasing While That in Great Britain Is Decreasing.

There is food for thought in two reports that have just been issued on prison population.

One, the news bulletin of the National Society of Penal Information, Inc., tells of large increases in the number of criminals in the jails and penitentiaries of the United States.

It tells us that on the last day of April there were 4,345 men in the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries of Pennsylvania, as compared with 4,318 on March 31, 1930.

It tells of congestion in the Allegheny County Jail and of the annex that has been opened at Blawnox to take care of the overflow.

The other report, transmitted by the American Consul General at London and issued by the Department of Commerce, tells us that "the average prison population of England and Wales, as compared with 1913, has decreased from 18,155 to 10,861, while the number of local prisons has fallen from 56 to 29."

Not only have major crimes become less frequent in Great Britain; petty offenses have also declined. Thus there were 57,389 cases of drunkenness in 1929, as against the annual average of 193,354 for the years 1910-1914; 25,683 assaults, as compared with 43,032; 1,284 cases of prostitution, as against 10,682, and 12,043 cases of gambling, in comparison with 24,971.

The report points out that one of the most encouraging features of the British crime situation is the reduction in the number of young people imprisoned.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

Do you make your friends because a genuine sympathy of thought and environment or purpose make you congenial?

Then, having made good friends, how do you hold them?

Do you expect your best friends to put up with any sort of lack of attention just because they should be so sure of your good intentions toward them.

If that is your idea of your part on the good friendship basis you are due for an awakening.

A man or a woman may be a friend, but they don't expect to be a sort of mop that you use on occasion when troubles are the thickest and you need something to help you clean up.

Don't be so sure of your friend that you don't give him as much of time and thought and attention as you might expect in similar circumstances.

You often say "you would do as much for a friend," but more than likely when the demands came upon you, there would be urgent business in another direction.

Unselfishness likewise should be the principle upon which you hope to maintain your friendships, but you don't always practice it.

It is easy to gain a friend, but it depends upon you whether you keep one.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 30.—Children's parties in New York are no longer confined to those simple gaieties such as puss-in-the-corner or pinning of the donkey's tail blindfolded. Giving a party for a youngster has become almost as costly as a spread at the Ritz for a grownup.

Several organizations, such as the New York Junior League Bureau for Entertainment, supply all kinds of childish diversions. They have on call midget orchestras, tap and ballet dancers, acrobats, jugglers, clowns, trained dog and monkey acts and so on.

On Madison avenue is a shop called the Party Mart, which relieves parents of every detail. They will decorate a house, arrange the amusement program and supply the performers. Afterward a crew of trained workers will restore the home to its original order.

Other children party specialists are scattered over town. On Broadway is the office of a lady who has "Entertainment Consultant" on her door. She not only arranges parties for children, but handles all the details of coming-out parties for debutantes.

Still another entrepreneur puts on a marionette show for $75 an evening. There are several Punch and Judy shows also "for hire." The amazing John Mulholland and the equally amazing Nate Leipzig are available, too, between their touring engagements.

The cost of such parties ranges from $100 to $500. One party—or rather lawn fete—given on a Long Island estate this summer is said to have cost more than $5,000. One of the prizes at this affair was a live, thoroughbred Shetland pony with a dog cart.

Most agencies handling children's parties furnish a complete set of capable servants, from hat checker to master of ceremonies, thus relieving the regular servants of tidying up. These parties upset the normal running of a household, it has been found.

Mr. van Loon's unhurried novelizing is the dream of every ink-stained wretch who hopes for a publisher's advance against drifting to the South Seas. And there under a thin bosquet of palms turn out the Great American Novel. A couple of native girls dancing in the offing would not be hard to take either.

INHERITED CHARACTER

By Archibald Henderson

One of the great problems of biological evolution is that of acquired characters with reference to inheritance. Ever since the time of Lamarck, biologists and evolutionists have sharply divided on the matter. Lamarck tried the experiment of cutting off the tails of rats. As the new generation came along he cut the tails of all of them. This process he continued for a number of generations. But as far as he went, there was never the slightest sign that the new generation would be tailless, or, indeed, that their tails were shortened by even the tiniest fraction.

Charles Darwin was a believer in the inheritance of acquired characters. Indeed, he believed in this principle as essential to growth, development, evolution. Not to believe in it is to realize the essential futility of all training, so far as the race as a whole is concerned. With each individual the struggle must begin all over again. It is an eternal cycle of defeat; the dead live in their children biologically only not creatively, in the sense of passing down the ages both all that they are and all that they have become.

One of the brilliant thinkers of today, although wholly unscientific in his modes of thought, is George Bernard Shaw. He is a confirmed believer in the doctrine of the inheritance of acquired characters. He has recently declared that the child whose father or mother was an expert cyclist will learn how to ride a bicycle far more quickly and readily than the child with parents who have never cycled. Unfortunately, the scientific tests and experiments, of all sorts, have been for the most part inconclusive. The majority of biologists and evolutionists today, it is safe to say, do not subscribe to the doctrines of the inheritance of acquired characters.

Some recent experiments, by a number of biologists, have begun to lend considerable support to the theory. Recently Dr. E. W. McBride, in an address before the Royal Institution of Great Britain, contended that habit was the driving force of evolution. He agrees with Darwin that, through man's inheritance of acquired habits, natural selection operates to produce the variety of biological races. If evolution goes on at all, then the powers of growth of one generation must become altered as compared with those of a previous generation. Change of habit produces change of structure.

Dr. McBride, who is professor of biology at the Imperial College of Science, argues as follows:

Just as in development the whole dominates and directs the growth of the parts, so in reaction to environment the whole animal enters into the reaction and every part is co-ordinated with every other part. When a lion springs on its prey every muscle comes into action.

If we make the reasonable assumption that every such action has a reciprocal effect on the nuclei and that there is something in them which is given forth when the action is repeated and which accelerates and strengthens it, then we can make a provisional picture of the modus operandi of the inheritance of habit. For since all nuclei are potentially alike, any one of them may become a germ cell if it finds itself in a proper position for developing an egg, and the nuclei of germ cells, like the nuclei of other cells, will receive the after-effects of the animal's actions.

No, stranger, I can't. But neither can you prove that there ISN'T.

Here we are in life. Mystery all around us. Some of it beautiful mystery, some of it ugly mystery. All of it mystery, and all of it evidence. Evidence of what?

I pick up a leaf . . . an insignificant leaf from a common weed. I study that leaf under a microscope. It is incredibly beautiful, marvelously complicated. The greatest human art cannot compare with the exquisite design of those cells, those delicate veins. The most stupendous mechanical achievement cannot rival its ingenious mechanism. Nor can the wisest scientist explain all the laws which operate within that one small leaf, nor even begin to understand the wonder of Life which animates it.

I observe a man, a common, ignorant human being. The chemist says that man is a combination of mineral salts and water. The psychologists says he is little better than a greedy, cowardly, cruel, conjected brute. Yet, in spite of greed, cowardice, cruelty and conceit, that "mass of mineral salts and water" does the most amazingly brave, beautiful and tender things. No one can tell why or how he does them. No one can even tell why a man thinks, nor what thought is . . . nor why he feels, nor what emotion is. No one knows the nature of a man. Is he simply a mass of salts and water? Does he perish when that mass disintegrates? Or is man Something Else . . . Something that lives in that mass as you live in a house . . . Something that passes on to wider trials and taller houses when this house is done?

No one knows. One man will answer in one way...another man in another. There's as much evidence for one answer as there is for the other. And neither answer can be final. Then why not pick the more inspiring answer?

"Because I don't want to fool myself," you say. "I want to know the truth."

That's a brave reply. I respect and sympathize with that reply. But we CAN'T know the truth. No man has sense enough to know the truth even if he stumbled upon it.

But this much is certain. A man has as much reason to believe as he has to doubt—and he makes the better bargain by doing so. There may be nothing beyond this life . . . there may be no conscious Source of Beauty and Justice and Power behind this muddled world. But, looking the evidence over, I choose to believe there is—and I make all my life happier and more hopeful by that choice. Whatever the end, I cannot be cheated out of that. I may not live a million lives but I shall, at least, have lived one grandly.

And you? Looking the evidence over, you decide that you have but one life to live, and spend your years in collecting proof that you're nothing but a biological blunder. Well, maybe you're right, at that. But as for me, I'll take a chance on God!

Text for Today But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.—Galatians, v:22, 23.

Mosquitoes—Why Not Exterminate Them?

It Could Be Done.

ITS "SIPHON," GREATLY MAGNIFIED.

Mosquitoes have done more harm to human beings in this world than all the great wars. And they are doing harm today that amounts to enough, in actual cash, to pay off the cost of the big war.

Millions upon millions of men have been made feeble, practically useless, by malaria. WITHOUT MOSQUITOES THERE WOULD BE NO MALARIA.

Millions in past times have been killed by the yellow fever, and many in tropical countries are still killed by that deadly disease.

It is suggested by serious historians that the fall of the great Roman Empire was caused, not by any invasion of "barbarians" from the North, but by malaria implanted in the blood of the Romans by mosquitoes permitted to breed in their millions. Rome was conquered first by the MOSQUITOES and then it was easy for "barbarians" to do the rest.

The upper picture shows the larva in the water, head downward. Just at the surface of the water, what looks like a foot, or tail, is in reality a "siphon" through which the creature breathes. If that breathing were interrupted, which could easily be arranged, it could never emerge from the water, never be born to poison and annoy human beings.

On the right in the upper picture you see the mosquito larva's breathing apparatus, greatly magnified. And you see how easily a few drops of oil would choke that breathing and end the mosquito.

Here and there sporadic efforts are made to get rid of them. Some municipality starts a "war against mosquitoes," compelling owners of stagnant waters to drain ponds, or swamps, or spreading oil over the breeding waters. The thin nest film of oil, which quickly spread for miles on the water's level surface, is enough to choke the young mosquitoes' "siphon," bringing quick death.

MOSQUITO LEAVING THE WATER READY FOR BUSINESS. HE SHOULD NEVER LEAVE.

But cities, states and private individuals work separately without plan, and the mosquitoes, wiped out in one place, come back.

What is needed is a united war against mosquitoes, all the states, and the national government co-operating, and similarly there is needed a united war against RATS and MICE that destroy hundreds of millions in property every year.

It would be a war calling for patience, especially as regards the mosquitoes. They breed wherever there is stagnant water, in a neglected tin can with rainwater in it, in the hollows of trees into which water has fallen.

But the United States government was able to stamp out yellow fever by getting rid of mosquitoes, first in Cuba, then in the Panama Canal Zone. What could be done in the tropical regions in swamps with intense heat, could be done everywhere.

If the great breeding power of the mosquitoes is stamped out, in the BIGGER bodies of water, the remnant of mosquitoes could probably be left to the bat, swallow and the other mosquito enemies.

It is known and has often been proved that when a species of animal life is greatly reduced in numbers, it quickly dies out.

For more than a million years men have used their energies fighting and killing EACH OTHER. And they are still at it, arguing about armaments, one nation lying to another and imposing on another.

But eventually civilization will stop wars and man-killing. Then the REAL WAR will begin, a war against disease germs, all insect pests. The beginning of that war will be the beginning of civilization.
